HINESE BANDITS SLAY AMERICAN; TOURISTS SEIZED

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

SHANGHAI, May 7.—One American was killed by the s who held up the Shanghai-Peking express train near Shanghai border and carried off the 150 passengers early ay, according to a message from Lincheng, but all the n captives, including Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister-in-law of D. Rockefeller, Jr., have been released. The men, still are said to be in grave danger.

The message said the bandits had notified the authorities that all the men among the foreign captives would be killed unless troops were withdrawn.

Miss McFadden and Miss Corralli were released with Miss Aldrich, the report added.

Troops were pressing the bandits on both sides, firing, at last advices.

Robert Scripps, the American newspaper publisher, is reported among the captives taken by the train bandits operating on the Shantung border. Others include Maj. Pinger of the American Army and his two sons. Mrs. Pinger escaped.

PEKING, May 6.—One foreigner was killed and 150 passengers were carried off when bandits held up the Shanghai-Peking express train on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway near the Shantung border at 3 o'clock this morning, according to word received here late today.

Miss Lucy Aldrich of New York City, daughter of the late United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island, and sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was among the passengers. Her fate is unknown.

The foreigner killed is believed to be a Russian. The Minister of Communications late today telegraphed Gen. Tsao-Kun and the civil and military governors of Shantung, asking that troops be sent to surround the bandits.

The express train was northbound from Soochow when attacked by the bandits, who disarmed 1000 soldiers and tore up a long stretch of the railroad track. Fifty first-class and 100 second-class passengers were carried off, it was reported here. Six foreigners escaped.

PARTY FLEES

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

SHANGHAI, May 7.—Bandits who held up the northbound express train of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway early Sunday morning, captured the entire party of foreigners who left here on the train Saturday, according to private messages received here today from Lincheng and Tsinanfu, Shantung.

The messages said the bandits removed the fish plates from the tracks, derailing the train just north of the Shantung border.

A Shanghai-Nanking Railway message said the train was attacked by a band of 1000 bandits who carried off twenty-seven foreigners and more than 100 Chinese, who were passengers.

The messages confirm the capture of Fred Elias, Edward Elias, Theodore Saphiere, Emil Gensburger, J. B. Powell and Lloyd

SIOUX NATION PLANS TO SUE UNITED STATES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The American Indian has abandoned the war ax and scalping knife for the weapons of the white man. The great Sioux Nation will sue the United States for payment for lands and property taken from the Sioux by the whites and the amount of the claim with interest is not less than three quarters of a billion dollars. This suit will be filed tomorrow in the United States Court of Claims by Major Ralph H. Case and Capt. C. C. Calhoun, attorneys for the Sioux.

The suit brings back on the stage of events the gold rush to the famed Blackhills of South Dakota, the Deadwood coach, and Sitting Bull, Gen. Custer, the Little Big Horn, Old Fort Laramie, Wounded Knee, Red Cloud, Spotted Tail, Chief Gaul and the White River Trail.

The Sioux will bring action on forty separate counts for a total of over two hundred and nineteen millions and demand interest on most of the items which in total makes this suit the largest suit ever filed in any court at any time.

The Sioux say the United States have left undone things which ought to have been done under the treaties of 1851 and 1868; that millions of acres of their tribal lands were taken from them; that their game was slaughtered by the whites, their ponies, and tepees taken from them, and their moneys spent by the United States for improper purposes.

Foremost of all their claims is the demand for $156,000,000, with interest thereon for the Blackhills and surrounding areas taken from them, they say, by force and arms in 1874 and 1875 and they assert the United States permitted and connived in this taking, well knowing the land was immensely rich in gold.

They ask only $100 an acre for the gold-bearing lands, although one of them, the famous Homestake Mine, has produced hundreds of millions of gold. This mine, located and developed by the father of William Randolph Hearst, is the foundation stone of the great Hearst fortune and is today controlled by the Hearst family.

The Sioux maintained that the timbered area in the Blackhills and now included in the Blackhills Forest Preserve, was worth to them $50 an acre.

Indemnity Puzzle Put Up to America by Poincare

BY VINCENT SHEEHAN
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, May 6.—Emulating Lord Balfour's note of last summer, Premier Poincare's reply to the German reparations proposals, delayed twenty-four hours while being submitted to Downing street, and sent to Berlin tonight, puts the whole question of a reduced indemnity squarely on the United States.

The French Premier rejects nearly every point Chancellor Cuno made—some half-heartedly and others not so bluntly as expected, but he does not mince words at all when he deals with the total sum Germany offers.

"The figure offered represents less than one quarter of the amount fixed by the Reparation Commission," says Premier Poincare, taking up the first consideration, and then comes the nub of the whole note, couched in a conciliatory tone to make Germany accept his reasoning.

"France and Belgium have declared several times that they cannot accept a reduction in the amount due them, and still, while they are ready to mediate a portion with the interallied debts, they materially are obliged to obtain the balance to escape the terrible disaster the German invasion inflicted on them."

Thus, for the first time since the war, an allied power officially seeks to enlist Germany in its support in an European attempt to force discussion, cancellation, or writ-

DEFENDER OF WOMAN WOUNDED

Defending the honor of the young woman whose escort he was when an armed bandit attempted familiarities with her last night, Bryant Essick was shot by the thug after he had struck the latter with his fist. In the scuffle that followed Essick's blow to the bandit's face the former was able to deflect the shot aimed at his heart so that it only took effect in his right foot.

Essick and his companion, Miss Glayds White of the Clark Hotel, were stopped on Pico Boulevard by the bandit, who demanded their money and jewelry. In the face of the weapon which was held at Essick's head no resistance was offered and the robber took $8 cash and a valuable watch from Essick.

While examining rings worn by Miss White the thug insulted her with vulgar remarks and attempted to inflict other indignities upon her. Braving the revolver in the bandit's grasp, Essick grappled with him, landing a blow on his adversary's face. After firing the shot, which wounded his victim, the bandit fled.

Essick, who is 24 years of age and resides at 1517 Van Ness avenue, had his injury treated at the Emergency Hospital by Police Surgeon Chase.

FIRST DEGREE FOR CHILD MURDERER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

VANCOUVER (Wash.) May 6. George E. Whitfield was found guilty of murder in the first degree early today by a jury before which he had been tried, charged with having slain Anna Nosko, 11 years old, near Battleground, Wash. The jury deliberated seven hours before returning its verdict.

Sailor Hurled from Train at Beach May Die

W. L. Chambers, a seaman from the U.S.S. Mississippi, probably was fatally injured shortly after midnight while boarding a Pacific Electric car at Venice for Los Angeles.

Chambers was standing on the running-board of the crowded car and was struck by a pole at the side of the track, sweeping him from his hold. He was taken to the Vista Del Mar Hospital in Venice, where Police Surgeon C. M. Craik pronounced him as suffering from a possible skull fracture and serious internal injuries. His condition is critical.

GOVERNOR HAS BUDGET GRAB VETOES READY

BY KYLE D. PALMER
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, May 6. — A climax in the ninety-day struggle between Gov. Richardson and an antiadministration, pork barrel bloc in the State Legislature will occur tomorrow when, it is learned, the Governor will send a special message to the Assembly announcing his veto of practically all of the forty-nine separate increases in his economy budget by the legislative opponents of governmental efficiency and economy.

The veto of the Governor may be overridden only by a vote of two-thirds of the membership of both houses. Despite the fact that each of the forty-nine amendments must be acted upon individually by roll call, it seems unlikely that the opposition can muster either fifty-four votes in the Assembly or twenty-seven in the Senate to restore more than one or two, if any, of the increases rejected by the executive.

PROBABLE ACTION

Should the Assembly fail to override the gubernatorial veto the budget probably will not go to the Senate, having already passed that body as amended, and, according to certain authorities, being subject to return to the upper house only on condition of restoration of vetoed items by the lower house.

Increases voted in the budget by opposition majorities in the two houses total $1,170,049.68. This entire amount is expected to be wiped out and the budget total restored to the original amount recommended by Gov. Richardson—$79,754,336.55.

Gov. Richardson has been at work for two days on his special budget message, which is understood to contain an emphatic reiteration of his pledge to keep governmental expenses within the estimated income of the State. The leaders of the opposition, while frankly admitting their anticipation that proposed increases will be rejected in full, were not ready today to announce the procedure they expect to follow in attempting to override the veto.

The fight on the new administration biennial financial program has sidetracked consideration of hundreds of measures in the Assembly and has, in lesser degree, retarded the work of the Senate.

KILLER FIRES ON HIS SWEETHEART AFTER VAIN PLEA

Because his sweetheart preferred to remain as a sisterly friend and had broken her engagement, Joseph Becker, real estate dealer of Salt Lake City, led her to a high and secluded cliff in Elysian Park last night and shot her to death. He helped lift the lifeless body of his sweetheart, Jane B. Kelso, postoffice clerk, of 3100 South Van Buren avenue, into the Emergency Hospital ambulance, an hour after he had pleaded with her to marry him as they sat together on the knoll that overlooked the twinkling lights of Los Angeles.

"I tried to get her to consent to marriage," Becker told police officers, after voluntarily surrendering himself, "but it was of no use. A few days ago I left Salt Lake City when she wrote me that the engagement was broken. Tonight I took her for a walk. We had dinner together and then went for a walk. I could not stand to see Jane in the arms of another man —so I killed her."

Becker, who gave his age as 40 and Miss Kelso's as 42, declared that they had been engaged for several months, and that their friendship, which began in Los Angeles, soon ripened to love. However, when he returned to Salt Lake City, Miss Kelso's love for him cooled, he said, and he was positive that he was being made the disappointed participant of an "eternal triangle."

After shooting Miss Kelso Becker walked a quarter of a mile through the underbrush to a telephone and calmly called the police and an ambulance.

POINTS OUT BODY

"It was only love that prompted this," Becker told officers as he pointed to the body of the woman, lifeless when Police Surgeon Chase and Detectives Craig and Frost arrived at the end of the long uphill walk. Becker picked up the woman's arms and helped carry the body to the ambulance.

At the police station last night, Becker recited the details of the story which led up to the shooting; how he had worshiped Miss Kelso, and how disappointed he had been when the engagement was broken.

Becker is being held by the police. He gave his Los Angeles address as 372 South Burlington street.

NIECE TELLS OF FEARS

"I knew that man was no good ever since I first saw him, the day soon after Christmas he came to our apartment on Thompson street," Betty Lee Winter, niece of the dead woman, who with her sister, Lasca Winter, a young widow, resided with her at the Van Buren-street address.

"When my aunt told me yesterday afternoon that she was going out with Becker I implored her not to go.

"She told me that they were going to the park and then to dinner; possibly to church in the evening and would be home early.

"We only moved here last Monday and since then Becker has

TOURISTS MEET DEATH AT ESPEE GRADE CROSSING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, May 6.—Three men and three women were instantly killed tonight, shortly after 7 o'clock at a railroad crossing one mile south of Selma, Fresno county, when a Southern Pacific passenger train struck the automobile in which they were riding.

The dead are: John de Mots, Orange Cove, Cal.; Mrs. John de Mots, Orange Cove, Cal.; Edward de Mots, Orange Cove, Cal.; Dr. James G. Ogg, Orange City, Iowa; Mrs. James G. Ogg, Orange City, Iowa; Mrs. Conrad Jongewaard, Merced, Cal.

The automobile was in the center of the track and received the full impact of the train broadside. It was hurled more than 100 feet along the track. Two of the bodies were hurled some distance from the crossing, but four of them were found hanging to the front of the engine when the train was brought to a standstill.

Witnesses of the accident said there was nothing at the crossing to obstruct view either north or south. The Southern Pacific train was northbound.

The bodies were taken to Selma, where efforts were made to get in touch with relatives.

Two auto loads of relatives and friends of John de Mots, left their home in Orange Cove this morning to visit some of the De Motses' ranches, and were homeward bound when the machine of De Mots was struck.

Conrad Jongewaard, secretary of the Merced Y.M.C.A., was driving the second car, but is believed to have passed the crossing first, for none of the occupants of the second car could be found, when the bodies were taken to the Selma morgue.

FIND WITNESS TO SLAYING

Fisherman Saw Four Boys Abusing Another, And Later Putting Body Under Planks of Pier

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, May 6.—Immediately upon the arrival home tonight of State's Attorney Crowe to take personal charge of the Leighton Mount death investigation, he was apprised of the location of a witness who declared he saw what might have been the killing and burial of Mount.

The witness is John Sturm of Evanston, a fisherman. He was located tonight by Charles Leggett, Chief of Police at Evanston.

"About the time of the Mount disappearance, I am not sure of the exact date, I was on the Hamilton Street Pier about 4 o'clock in the morning," Strum related. "I saw four boys ducking a fifth boy in the water.

"The boy in the water called to me for help. The others pushed him under the surface several times before I got there, then they pulled him out. They took him out on the sand and held him down till I started away.

"Looking back I saw they were forcing sand into his mouth. I went a short distance, and some time later returned to the pier. It was almost daylight, and I saw the four boys carrying the other. They took up two planks of the pier and shoved the lad under.

"I met them as they were returning and asked them why they did that. They said, 'Oh, he can get out if he wants to. He's not tied.' I didn't know whether he was, but took their word.

"Later in the morning, when it was bright daylight, I saw two young fellows—I don't know if they were the same I saw before—walking out on the pier. One was very tall, six foot two or so. The other appeared very nervous."

Chief Leggett asked him whether he was sure it was the Hamilton Street Pier. Mount's skeleton was found under the pier between Davis and Lake streets. Sturm said it might have been the Davis Street Pier, but he had thought all along it was the one at Hamilton street.

The Chief was skeptical of the story told by Sturm, but passed it on to State's Attorney Crowe.

TARIFF APPEAL UP TO HARDING

Southern Producers to Make Final Plea

Four Duty on Vegetable Oil May be Lowered

Decision May Upset Whole Agricultural Field

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Pending further investigation by the Tariff Commission on duties on vegetable oils, a delegation of [illegible] and public officials has arranged to make a final appeal to President Harding tomorrow morning. While the southern producers are not vitally interested in linseed or flaxseed oil, on which an investigation was ordered yesterday by the Commission, they are fearful that this action means that the Commission has in mind favorable consideration of the request of soap manufacturers for inquiries to determine whether duties on other vegetable oils, particularly peanut oil and cottonseed oil, are too high.

The southern producers in presenting before the President a final protest against the reopening of the controversy over duties on vegetable oils declare that a formal investigation such as proposed will result in great injury to the particular commodities involved, as well as disturb all agricultural lines.

DUTIES BOOSTED

Those in the delegation which have made an appointment to see the President are Clifford M. Walker, Governor-elect of Georgia; J. J. Brown, Commissioner of Agriculture of Georgia; B. B. Harris, Commissioner of Agriculture of South Carolina; J. M. Moore, Commissioner of Agriculture of Alabama; W. A. Graham, president of the American Peanut Growers' Association; J. B. Alexander, president North Carolina Peanut Growers' Association, and John H. Kirby of Texas, president Southern Tariff Association.

The southern producers were highly pleased when Congress boosted duties on various vegetable oils in the Fordney-McCumber law. Mr. Kirby, who has been one of the most active in obtaining high duties for products of the South, in discussing the protest to be made to the President, declared that the proposed investigation would result disastrously to southern farmers.

"The agricultural states are beginning to prosper under the Fordney-McCumber measure," said Mr. Kirby. "Those productive industries of the South which only recently were in a distressed condition now show evidence of new life and hope and development.

"To disturb the vegetable oil schedule for a rehearing at this time would most surely disturb this condition, and there is neither a public demand nor a national need for such a course; on the contrary, the national need is the other way. What the country needs in order to go ahead along paths of business activity and contentment is stability, rest from disturbances which unsettle the minds and affairs of the people.

"It would be most unfortunate to take from the peanut growers of the South, or from the farmers engaged in other agricultural lines, any degree of the assurance the tariff bill gave them.

"The business interests of the South can best be served by having the present tariff schedules as they are. They have put activity into every worthy enterprise; they have taken up the slack in the labor supply with consequent opportunity for our toilers and they have set security about our great agricultural and general industry.

"To reopen the vegetable oil schedule for readjustment would be to create unwholesome uncertainty, which would act disastrously upon southern farmers. To injure a basic industry like agriculture means to reach out and strike a like blow to all other industries."

ROCKEFELLER'S KIN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., left New York last winter on a tour of the world, accompanied by a traveling companion, it was said today at the home of her brother, Winthrop W. Aldrich, Wall-street lawyer. No word had been received from her recently, it was said.

Miss Aldrich is a resident of Providence, R. I. Most of her time in the United States was spent at the family country place at Warwick.

Her brother, who is a member of the law firm of Murray, Prentice & Aldrich, attorneys for the Rockefellers, said later that she had been out of the country about a year, and he was under the impression she was soon to leave China for Japan with several Standard Oil officials who have been touring the Orient. One of those traveling with Miss Aldrich, he said, was a Miss McFadden. Miss Aldrich was accompanied by a maid.

NO NEWS HEARD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEAL HARBOR (Me.) May 6.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is spending a vacation here, said tonight that he had received no direct word of the reported seizure of his sister-in-law, Miss Lucy Aldrich, in a raid by Chinese bandits near the Shantung border.

He told the Associated Press tonight that he felt slight anxiety for the safety of his sister-in-law.

Since learning of the Peking report that Miss Aldrich was a passenger on the train held up by bandits near Shantung, and possibly one of the 150 passengers kidnaped by the bandits, Mr. Rockefeller has kept in constant touch with his office in New York.

"I am anxious to get at the facts, but do not feel unduly alarmed," he said. "There must be some mistake.

"Wherever Miss Aldrich travels she is constantly in touch with representatives of the Standard Oil Company. Had she been on a train held up by bandits, representatives of our company would have informed me immediately."

"Miss Aldrich has been traveling abroad for about a year," he said, when informed of the incident by the Associated Press.

"Last fall she went to India from Europe and later to China. She has been in Peking recently."

Mr. Rockefeller said he had not heard from Miss Aldrich for some time. He would have to secure fuller information before taking any action in her behalf, he said.

AWAIT REPORT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Pending an official report from diplomatic or consular agents in China regarding the bandit raid on a train near the Shantung border today, the State Department is reserving comment. Officials expect, however, to hear probably tomorrow, from Minister Schurman at Peking.

On the report made by the American Minister the government will base its action with regard to the affair, probably sending him instructions to make representations to the Peking government as strong as those made in connection with the death at the hands of Chinese sentries of Charles Coltman, an American merchant.

One of the demands made by Secretary Hughes in that case was stability of the Chinese government and its control over provinces. The Chinese government recently agreed, among other things, to have an indemnity paid Coltman's heirs, to have the offending troops and their officers punished and to obtain an apology of the province in which the American was killed.

In connection with today's raid, the State Department, when informed by officials as to the circumstances and details, is expected to demand the release of any Americans captured by the bandits, an apology from the Peking government, and indemnity for any citizens of the United States suffering injury or hardship.

SCRIPPS IS PRISONER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, May 6.—Private telegrams from Washington received here stated that Robert Scripps, newspaper publisher, formerly of this city, but now living in Washington, D. C., was one of the foreigners captured by Chinese bandits in the attack on the Peking express train.

Scripps, with his father, E. W. Scripps and Mrs. Robert Scripps, left San Diego March 10 in their private yacht, the Ohio, for a tour of the Orient. Word received here indicated that Mrs. Scripps and E. W. Scripps had remained aboard the yacht while Robert left for the interior.

The messages also stated that the matter had been taken up with Secretary of State Hughes in an effort to learn just what the fate of Scripps and others had been.

Falling Off in Trade Shows Up Enormously

Both Imports and Exports Are Suffering

Domestic Bottoms Getting Only 39 Per Cent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Marked decline in the volume of imports and exports carried in American bottoms over a two-year period is shown in figures issued today by the National Merchant Marine Association. Instead of carrying 55 per cent of all the business as was the case in February, 1923, American ships obtained only 39 per cent of the trade.

"Two years ago," the statement said, "including all near-by trade, nearly three-fourths of all our imports were carried by American vessels. The present proportion is less than one-half of the total, even incorporating the receipts of oil 74 per cent of which is in our own ships. This marks a gain of about 36 per cent by foreign vessels in our import trade.

EXPORTS BETTER

In exports the falling off of American vessels has been smaller, but foreign ship owners have succeeded in increasing the 65 per cent of the total they were transporting two years ago to 71 per cent. The result has been that, while in 1921 the American merchant marine carried the bulk of our combined import and export cargoes, conditions have been reversed and foreign shipping now carries more than 60 per cent of our entire sea commerce.

"Even in the dry cargo trade with the West Indies and other near-by regions in which American vessels have been dominant for years, foreign ships now carry the bulk of the commerce. Two years ago only 42 per cent of the imports were in alien bottoms, while 64 per cent is now so carried. In the same period the foreign share of the export trade has risen from 46 per cent to 53 per cent.

HUGE DECREASE

In the total trade there has been an exact reversal of conditions and instead of our ships transporting 61 per cent of all cargoes, as two years ago, that is now the share of foreign vessels.

"Compared with two years ago, the total cargo carried shows a decrease of 421,000 tons. In the same period, however, foreign ships gained 707,000 tons, while our own vessels showed a loss of 1,128,000 tons. As a result, instead of 55 per cent two years ago, American ships are transporting only 39 per cent of our total sea commerce."

INDEMNITY ROW UP TO AMERICA

ing down, of all international obligations.

Proceeding to expound the doctrine of the necessity of the creditor powers making sacrifices to the debtor nations, if Germany expects to obtain concessions, he continues:

"France has advanced 100,000,000,000 francs on the account of Germany for repairing devastations, etc., and Belgium has advanced 15,000,000,000 francs, and it remains for each power, apart from pensions, more than half the devastations to still be indemnified."

The note continues that not only the economic interest of France and Belgium, but of the whole world, as well as justice itself, requires that the country ravished should not be left longer condemned to ruin to aid to the enrichment of the debtor State.

FACTS ARE RECALLED

Premier Poincare recalls that Germany already has refused to take reparations before the Reparations Commission or before any committee of business men, bankers, international tribunal or any one else.

Regarding the "truce of God" which Chancellor Cuno offered, Premier Poincare states the Treaty of Versailles is the Entente's guarantee pact, and declines to abandon the right of military operations and seizure to enforce the execution of the treaty.

Poincare affirms again the French and Belgian decision "not to evacuate the territory newly occupied except in proportion to the payments of reparations effected."

He then delivers his most stinging blows on Chancellor Cuno:

"The offer, from beginning to end, is a thinly veiled system of revolt against the Versailles Treaty. If the proposals are taken under consideration it would end in the destruction of the treaty and the necessity for negotiating another, and moral, economic, political and military revenge on Germany."

Rejecting Chancellor Cuno's demand to obtain a most favored nation clause, Premier Poincare points out that this would permit Germany immediately to benefit and profit from the ruins she caused in Belgium and France and assure herself (Germany) of industrial superiority over the countries she devastated, while if France and Belgium abandon the pawns they will be exposed to the violence and caprice of the German government.

The note ends with a sarcastic remark that the German government would realize itself, if it reads its own note, that it is nothing astonishing that such an offer is refused.

been at the house morning, noon and night, bringing gifts of roses and flowers which I always knew never meant anything.

"Whenever I would ask my aunt why she let him come around she would always laugh and say that he never meant anything to her—that he was just a friend.

"I left them alone this afternoon to go downtown at about 4 o'clock, but they were not here when my sister came home early this evening," the girl sobbed out amid her tears.

SUPPORTED FAMILY

Miss Kelso was the mainstay of the little family, consisting of her two nieces, a nephew, Herman, and an infant child. They had lived with her for the past ten years, coming here from St. Louis, Mo., when an invalid mother was unable to care longer for her fatherless brood.

The dead woman had utilized her vacation in moving to the new home on Van Buren street and was to return to her work at the Postoffice this morning.

If she had ever become betrothed to Becker she never revealed that fact to either of her nieces. Because of grief both were unable to discuss any of the circumstances of Becker's visits.

Miss Betty Lee Winter was taken to the Receiving Hospital in a taxicab in response to a message delivered by a patrolman. The officer told her, she said, that her aunt had been hurt and that she was to go to the hospital at once.

Arriving at the hospital Miss Winter was told that her aunt was dead; that the bullet from Becker's pistol had killed her almost instantly, according to the report of Police Surgeon Chase.

The girl, little more than a child, a clerk in a big downtown department store, collapsed under the shock of the statement of the white-garbed nurse.

TELLS OF SLAYING

Becker's statement as reported by the police was:

"I first met Miss Kelso last fall, and started to keep company with her last October. Since the first of the year we have been going together regularly. The 22nd of February she promised to marry me, and I was the happiest man on the earth. But recently we had a misunderstanding, and I thought she was going to break our engagement.

"Tonight I had an engagement with her, and when I left the Park Hotel I put my gun in my pocket, intending to do away with both her and myself. I was almost insane, I guess, for I thought she was going to throw me over for some other man.

"I went to her house this afternoon, and then we came downtown to the Rosslyn for dinner. Afterwards I suggested we go out to Elysian Park for a walk. I wanted to talk it all over with her, hoping she would not throw me over.

"Well, we went out to the park in the street car, and sought a quiet place and sat down. We talked about everything. Finally we came to the love affair that existed between us. She told me she cared for me but could only be a sister to me. I was wild with love for her and almost beside myself.

"I was standing there mad. She was sitting down. I had been walking like a mad dog. She told me she liked me and loved me but that it wouldn't be right to the man back East to marry me.

"I said: 'Well, why didn't you tell me before you started to go with me?' She said she had changed her mind. I got up several times and walked back and forth in front of her. And at last she put her hat on to go. At that time I was in front of her with my hands in my pants pockets.

"Then I pulled my right hand out of my pocket with the gun and shot once. She then got up and made a move toward me and I shot some more. I believe I shot three times more. She fell over after I had quit shooting.

"Then I fell across her body and wept over her. I thought she was dead and so called for help. Then I ran down to the main road where I stopped a car and asked whether there were any men in it. Someone answered 'Yes,' and I said 'I would like some help.' I began to go down the incline, and they drove away, probably thinking I was a hold-up man.

"Then I went to a garage at Casanova and North Broadway and asked a man there to telephone for the Receiving Hospital ambulance. I waited there until the ambulance passed and tried to stop them but could not. I then followed along behind them and they went to the bridge and turned around and I stopped them as they were coming back and took them to where the woman was lying.

"I then helped the men carry her dead body down to the ambulance.

"I don't know why I did it, but I loved her."

Becker registered at the Park Hotel, at 312 South Burlington avenue, about two or three days ago, according to the proprietor. He told her, she told reporters, that he had been living at the Aberdeen Hotel and conducting his business in oil stocks and real estate in the lobbies of downtown hotels.

Little was found in his room save a picture of himself clad in the uniform of a Uhlan dragoon taken more than twenty years ago while Becker was a soldier of the Kaiser. Miss Betty Lee Winter identified the picture, saying that he had brought it out to show Miss Kelso soon after they first met.

Stubs in a check-book found in his room showed Becker to have $1611.50 on deposit in the Guaranty Trust and Savings Bank, with a deposit of $1073.50 made on April 4. A stub bearing the date of April 29 was made out to "J. B. Kelso, loan, $300."

MORE THAN SCORE DIE IN TRAINCRASH

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HAVANA, May 6.—Twenty-five persons were reported to have been killed and more than fifty injured in a head-on collision between Hershey Electric Railway trains near Canasi, Province of Matanzas, today. No Americans are reported as being among the casualties.

The trains were rounding a curve at high speed when they crashed. Fire broke out immediately in the wreckage and a number of the victims were burned to death in the blazing coaches. Most of the injured have been taken to Matanzas on a special train.

BALL INDORSES ALAMEDA BASE

Joins Britten on Navy Site Recommendation

Election on Grant Holds Capital Attention

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Senator L. Heisler Ball of Delaware, today joined with Representative Fred A. Britten of Illinois, in indorsing the site at Alameda, California, as by far the most preferable for a naval base on the Pacific Coast.

"It is absolutely essential," said Senator Ball, "that the government establish a great Naval base on the Pacific Coast. Alameda, by far, is the most preferable to any other."

Senator Ball was chairman of the joint Congressional committee which investigated Naval base sites in San Francisco Bay, while Mr. Britten was the ranking House member on this committee.

The Ball report, as it is known, has been approved by the Naval authorities, including the Rodman commission. Of Alameda, the Ball report said:

REPORT BY BALL

"The large acreage at Alameda makes possible a Naval base which will permit not only of drydocks on satisfactory pile foundations, berthing space, repair shops, etc., but also of shipbuilding facilities to any extent desired, base for fuel, oil and coal, and other Naval supplies; aviation fields, training and other stations. This would give ample opportunity for the development of an adequate Naval base with all of its activities concentrated at one point."

Interest in the special election to be held in Alameda next Tuesday on the proposition to extending the grant of more than five thousand water front acres to the government for Naval base purposes continues here both in Naval and Congressional circles and the hope is freely expressed that the extension for one year will be voted by the people of the city.

ELECTION WATCHED

As previously pointed out in these dispatches, government officials and members of Congress are more than ever impressed with the necessity of establishing a great Naval base at Alameda, now that the first lord of the British admiralty has officially proclaimed the intention of the British government to expend $55,000,000 on a Naval base at Singapore for the announced purpose of dominating the Pacific.

This summer, it is authoritatively stated, will witness the visit of Naval authorities and members of Naval committees of the two houses of Congress to the Pacific Coast to gather data with which to impress the next Congress with the importance of accepting the Alameda grant and beginning work on the proposed new base without further delay.

APPROVED BY COONTZ

Admiral R. E. Coontz, who will retire soon as chief of preparations of the Navy to assume command of the combined Atlantic and Pacific fleets, will board his flagship in Pacific waters and will direct the operations of the fleet from the West Coast for some time, at least. Admiral Coontz accompanied the commission to San Francisco Bay when the Alameda site was approved and it is known that his recommendations had much to do with the decision of the committee in favor of Alameda.

RUHR LOOKS FOR REPRISAL

main, almost as hostile to the existing reign as to the French, and are prepared to take advantage of any opportunity arising from the Ruhr complications to attempt to overthrow the republic. The Prussian police several times have raided their plotting centers on the outskirts of the occupied area and are doing their best to prevent agents from entering the Ruhr to conduct dynamiting operations.

Finance Minister Hermes, who has been regarded as only a lukewarm supporter, if not an opponent, of the Reichsbank's policy in sacrificing its gold reserve and other resources to support the mark, declared in the Reichstag today that the supporting action would continue at all costs and the government would take sharp measures to control exchange speculation. The government, however, has abstained from including in its program a requirement for a general report of all German holdings of foreign exchange, without which it is regarded as impossible to check speculation and mobilize private holdings for supporting the mark.

CAT OUT OF BAG

The cat was let out of the bag about the government's reason for again disregarding this repeatedly-announced measure by the Tageblatt's financial expert, who declared that the German financial authorities found that the statistics on German exchange holdings would be so valuable to Entente representatives and the reparations commission in formulating estimates of Germany's ability to pay reparations that this decisive measure was dropped from the exchange-control program. The authorities instead were permitted to call upon individuals for statements of their holdings and to requisition these if they were held for speculative purposes, thereby avoiding the formulation of a general list of total holdings which would fall into the hands of the Reparations Commission.

CANADA TO HOLD AUGUST REGATTA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MONTREAL, May 6.—The Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen has decided to hold the annual Canadian rowing championships at Port Dalhousie August 3 and 4. They have added an eight-oared event for high school boys. The regatta conflicts with the United States championship race at Baltimore.

FEDERAL BONDS HOLDING FIRM

Industrials and Foreign Trend Downward

Redemption of Victories is Announced

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—With the exception of the United States Government bonds, the trend in bonds during the past week on the New York Stock Exchange was downward, influenced largely by the break in the upward movement of stock prices.

New offerings during the week aggregated $82,675,000; with a single exception, the largest amount offered here since the week ending last January 20. The total compared with $54,000,000 the previous week, and $120,000,000 in the corresponding period a year ago.

The firmness of the United States government bonds was attributed in some quarters to purchases for the account of Great Britain, the Liberty issues being acceptable at par as payments on the English debt to this country.

NEW HIGH RECORDS

After a period of buying, during which most of the French government, provincial and municipal issues attained new high records for the year, these bonds were offered freely on the news from Europe that France had rejected the latest German reparations offer.

Railroad mortgages moved within comparatively narrow limits, most of the gilt-edged liens holding firm.

Announcement was made in Washington that approximately $775,000,000 of Victory notes, bearing the distinguishing letters of G, H, I, J, K or L, fall due on May 20, and will be paid as they are presented for redemption at the Treasury or through the Federal reserve banks. The Secretary of the Treasury, however, authorized immediate payment of the notes, and redemptions under that authority have been proceeding at the rate of about $1,000,000 a day recently. All interest on these notes will be paid after May 20.

RETIRE VICTORY ISSUE

Redemption of these notes will mark the final retirement of the Victory issue, which amounted originally to $4,500,000,000.

New financing for the month of April totaled $304,682,620, as compared with $334,165,200 in March and $323,173,900 in April, 1922.

Important new issues offered during the week included: $13,500,000 5½ per cent, one to fifteen-year equipment trust certificates of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company, at 98½, to yield 7.17 per cent; $8,550,000 5 per cent, one to fifteen-year equipment trust certificates of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company, at prices to yield 5.25 to 5.40 per cent; $5,687,000 4½ per cent five to fifteen-year equipment trust certificates of the Union Pacific Railway Company at prices to yield 5.10 to 5.15 per cent, and $6,600,000 6 per cent thirty-year first-mortgage bonds at 98, to yield 6.15 per cent.

Soviet Seeks Recognition, Japan Asks Withdrawal of Fishing Restrictions

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, May 6.—Adolph A. Joffe, plenipotentiary of the soviet government of Moscow, returned here yesterday from Atami and, despite his serious illness, resumed negotiations today with Baron Shempei Goto, looking toward the restoration of Russo-Japanese relations.

Baron Goto insisted on a settlement of the fisheries dispute, but M. Joffe replied that while he was willing, personally, to do everything he possibly could for Baron Goto, yet, officially, he must insist, as he did in Peking recently, upon a solution of the broader question first; namely, the recognition by Japan of the Russian soviet government.

The fisheries question is uppermost in the minds of the Japanese because the fishing season opens on the 16th inst. The soviet government granted the Japanese a number of licenses to fish off the Siberian coast, but has since imposed regulations which the Japanese declare, make fishing impossible.

Japan has asked for a revocation of the objectionable regulations and has suggested that, if their wishes are not carried out they may send a warship to protect the Japanese fishing fleet.

GIVES ALL CREDIT TO ALEXANDER HAMILTON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—Not Washington or Jefferson, but Alexander Hamilton, the first Secretary of the United States Treasury, was the author of the famous warning against "entangling alliances," according to Prof. Samuel Flagg Bemis of Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., whose monograph on Jay's Treaty won the first prize of $3000 in the recent Knights of Columbus history contest.

Prof. Bemis spent eight years gathering new material from original documents. His monograph reveals that George Hammond, British Minister to the American government at Philadelphia in 1794, in a letter to Lord Grenville, Governor-General of Canada, declared that Hamilton, then Secretary of the Treasury, had stated in formal conversation:

"It is the settled policy of the American government in every contingency, even that of an open contest with Great Britain, to avoid entangling itself with European connections."

WITNESS FOUND IN MOUNT CASE

Sturm will be questioned by Mr. Crowe tomorrow.

Crowe conferred with Coroner Wolff immediately upon his arrival, and it was agreed that the Coroner would merge his investigation with that of the State's Attorney, and that witnesses would appear before the grand jury rather than before the Coroner's jury.

Chief Justice McKinley will impanel the May grand jury Monday morning and give the members a special charge on the seriousness of the task of solving the mystery of the death of the Northwestern University student, last seen alive in the class rush of Sept. 21, 1921.

It was said he plans to read them the law covering an accessory after the fact of any crime committed. A dead body may be evidence of a crime, and its concealment in the crypt beneath the Davis Street Pier would involve those who disposed of Mount's body, the jurist is expected to charge the jurors.

He said he did not intend, and would refrain from giving the impression to the jury, that there was any blame attaching to the university authorities.

Yankee Consul at Vladivostok to Leave Soon

LONG BEACH, May 6.—With a pressure so low that it probably will be necessary to place the well on the beam, the Mitchell & Son's Lightburn No. 3 has just come in as a producer.

The well was reported yesterday to be flowing by heads at an estimated rate of 2000 barrels a day and the oil 24 gravity. The well is located at Grandview avenue, south of Willow street. It was drilled to 3678 feet and nine days of swabbing preceded the flow.

NEW PLANS FOR LUMBER TRADE

Hardwood Manufacturers to Meet in Chicago

Plan on "Open Competition" Substitute

Adoption of Grade Standards Second Problem

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 7.—The interest of the lumber world will center this week in the first annual convention here of the Hardwood Manufacturers Institute. The Institute represents many members of the lumber industry and its membership includes growers, mill men, jobbers and dealers from all sections of the country.

The principal business of the [illegible] meeting the 10th and [illegible], will be consideration of a new plan for statistical information within the trade. The plan, which has the full approval of the Department of Commerce, is designed to take the place of the "open competition" plan formerly in vogue, which was held by the Supreme Court to constitute a restraint on trade.

PLAN CO-OPERATIVE

The new method was formulated by the institute in co-operation with representatives of Secretary of Commerce Hoover. The question of its adoption is expected to be probably the most important matter before the convention.

A large proportion of the membership of the institute, which numbers approximately 300, is expected to ballot on the proposition.

The second vexing problem of [illegible] to be considered will be standardization—a matter of importance to home builders, contractors, engineers and material dealers as well as to the lumber trade. An effort will be made by the convention to frame a table of standards for the hardwoods which may be offered for universal acceptance. Grade standards now used, lumbermen point out, vary with many conditions so that it is practically impossible to order hardwood lumber in any case without detailed knowledge of the [illegible] almost from its tree state.

FEDERAL AID IN MEASURE

The proposed scheme of uniform standards will be aimed at elimination of trade difficulties based upon the present diverse grading systems. The Department of Commerce is assisting in this work, also. William [illegible], chief of the Division of Simplified practice in the department, will address the convention on "Simplification and Standardization." He is scheduled to speak Thursday, the 10th inst.

The new statistics plan of the institute provides for the compilation at a central trade clearing house of exact information from members of stocks on hand, sales, unfilled orders and production, past and prospective.

These data, it is expected, will be given wide distribution throughout the government departments, manufacturers, dealers, contractors, newspapers and trade publications in much the same manner that statistics on sugar, cotton, wheat and other commodities are now made public.

New Church Is Dedicated by Maywood Folk

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MAYWOOD, May 6.—The dedication of the new Maywood Methodist church this afternoon brought out a large crowd, the building being filled to overflowing to hear the services.

The sermon was delivered by Dr. Merle Smith of Pasadena, greetings to the residents of Maywood were by Dr. E. J. Inwood, while greetings to the church came from R. E. Chadwick. An interesting program of music was given by the Male Quartet of Huntington Park, Arthur Jessup and Mrs. Gladys McFadden. Prayer was offered by Rev. S. S. Sampson of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Huntington Park, and the benediction was pronounced by Dr. E. J. Inwood.

The evening service was given over to music, among those on the program being Mrs. Myrl Emmons, a soloist from Chicago, who rendered "O, Divine Redeemer" and "When They Ring Those Golden Bells for You and Me." A boys' orchestra from Olinda played.

Employment of Private Guards Opposed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Fundamental principles designed to remedy the ills of the coal industry are set forth in statements to the United States Coal Commission filed today by Philip Murray, vice-president, and William Green, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America. The statements as made public were submitted to the commission in response to a plea of its members that the miners and operators instead of throwing stones at each other present something of a constructive nature.

PROPOSAL MADE

"Every consideration of elementary justice and human right demands that the question of nonunionism in the unorganized fields be settled promptly and in a spirit of real, courageous, public-spirited statesmanship," said Mr. Murray. "By an aggressive, fearless attitude the United States Coal Commission can compose all differences which exist in the unorganized coal mining sections of the country. They can further provide a peaceful and prosperous basis for collective bargaining which will govern the future procedure of the industry in those fields.

"The only practical way in which this can be done is to bring about for the nonunion mining industry of this country working agreements which will safeguard property, the fundamental rights of mine workers and mine operators, protect the public and provide a just and reasonable basis for working relations and conditions.

The safeguards which are essential to regularity of production and of peace and tranquility are:

UNION SAFEGUARDS

"(1.) The guarantee of freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of movement.

"(2.) The right of all workers to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing.

"(3.) The protection of mine workers against discrimination because of membership in the United Mine Workers of America or any other labor organization.

"(4.) The assurance that institutions such as the United Mine Workers of America, will not be subordinated to industrial control by the practice of the nonunion coal operators in paying and controlling deputy sheriffs and constables or by employing private guards, instead of using the services of disinterested and conscientious peace officers.

"These are the simple fundamentals which will restore and permanently establish the normal conditions of a self-governing republic in these regions."

POOR ANDY, HOW HE DOES GET ABUSED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SALEM (Or.) May 6.—Unless the newspapers of the country now featuring the Andy Gump caricature immediately refrain from future publication of the comic, they will be confronted with serious litigation and may be made the targets of criminal prosecution.

This was the threat contained in a letter received here today by Verden Moffitt, ex-chief of police, from a Scotts Mills rancher who signed his name "Andy Gump." It was indicated in the letter that the writer had lived in the State of Kansas for many years, but recently came to Oregon and had located on a tract of land in Marion county.

Mr. Gump, in his letter to the former police official, said that he recently had received copies of newspapers containing the caricature and declared that he apparently was being belittled by its publication.

"I want to ask what can be done about this thing," wrote Mr. Gump, "as I will not stand for being belittled in the eyes of my friends. The publication of the picture must stop."

The writer went on to say that during all the years he had lived in Kansas he had worked hard, paid his honest bills, and had gained the confidence and respect of all persons with whom he came in contact. To be belittled and humiliated by a newspaper caricature is no laughing matter, he said.

The letter also referred to the jest that "Gump wears no man's collar." "I don't know what that means," said the letter, "but I want it understood that I am a God-fearing man and will protect my rights."

Inclosed in the letter was a photograph of Mr. Gump, his wife and three children. The letter and photograph attracted considerable attention here today. Moffitt, who retired from office last January, said he would turn the letter over to his successor.

Mute Tourist Has Deaf Guide on Europe Trip

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, May 6.—Finding a deaf and dumb guide for a deaf and dumb tourist was a strange service rendered today by the Targe American Tourist Agency.

Harold M. Tellman, wealthy tourist of Pasadena, wrote a fortnight ago that he wished to make a complete tour of Europe. He wrote the agency to obtain a guide for France, Italy and Germany able to talk to him in the deaf-mute language.

Faced with the most difficult request ever made, the agency spent two weeks searching. Today they found a deaf mute who can wigwag in French, English and Italian who will escort Mr. Tellman over Europe.

BUSTS OF FAMOUS READY

Seven Will be Unveiled in New York the 22nd Inst.; Descendants to be at Ceremony

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 6.—Seven new busts in the Hall of Fame in the New York University will be unveiled Tuesday afternoon, the 22nd inst., and men and women of national and international prominence have accepted invitations of Dr. Robert Underwood Johnson, director of the Hall of Fame, to take part in the exercises.

Dr. Johnson announced that descendants and kinsmen of six of the seven whose busts are to be placed in the Hall of Fame on that date will take part in the program. The busts to be unveiled are those of Abraham Lincoln, Alexander Hamilton, Gen. U. S. Grant, Gen. Robert E. Lee, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry Ward Beecher and Frances Willard.

The unveiling of the Lincoln bust will be by Mrs. Mary Lincoln Isham, grand-daughter of Lincoln. The French Ambassador, J. J. Jusserand, will pay a tribute to Lincoln.

The bust of Hamilton will be unveiled by Miss Mary Schuyler Hamilton, great grand-daughter of Alexander Hamilton.

The bust of Gen. Grant is by James Earle Frazer and Thomas Hudson Jones, and is to replace the one by the late Henry M. Schrady which was unveiled in the Hall of Fame a year ago by Marshal Joffre.

Dr. George Bolling Lee, a grandson of the Confederate leader, will unveil the bust of Gen. Lee, which is the gift of the New York division of the Daughters of the Confederacy.

The Emerson bust is the work of Daniel Chester French and will be unveiled by Dr. Edward W. Emerson, son of the poet. The Author's Club of Boston is donor of the bust.

Col. William C. Beecher, son of Henry Ward Beecher, will unveil the bust of the famous Brooklyn preacher. This bust is the work of Massey Rhind and will be presented by Warren B. Nash, son of the late William A. Nash, donor of the bust.

The Frances Willard bust was donated by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and is the work of Lorado Taft. O. H. Willard, a kinsman of Miss Willard, will unveil the bust.

TELLEGEN TO DEFEND GIRL

Actor Says He Will Take Stand to Clear Name of Miss Larrimore Accused by Farrar

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SYRACUSE (N. Y.) May 6.—Lou Tellegen, the actor, will take the witness stand in Geraldine Farrar's suit for divorce in the interest of Miss Stella Larrimore, Broadway ingenue named as one of the co-respondents by the prima donna wife of the late Sarah Bernhardt's one-time protege. Tellegen expressed himself as pleased that there is to be a jury trial of the case, but complained of the delay in the trial of the divorce action.

"My friendship with Miss Larrimore," he said, "has been purely platonic. Her family are my friends—her father, Jacob Adler, the noted Jewish actor; her mother and her sister, Miss Francine Larrimore. I treasure them as friends.

"I do not blame Miss Farrar. I have only a feeling of contempt for her counsel as it seems they have dragged in the name of almost every girl and woman with whom I have shaken hands.

"Miss Larrimore has suffered torture by being unjustly accused. It is only because I have seen her home from the theater while playing in my company. For an act of common courtesy on my part she has been dragged into disgraceful notoriety and base insinuations have been made.

"I have the greatest admiration and respect for Miss Farrar, and I cannot believe in my own heart that many of these charges have been inspired by her. I have not opposed this divorce action but I am ready to defend the reputation of an innocent woman."

Since the divorce suit began, Tellegen said he had been "hounded and persecuted" by Miss Farrar's agents.

FAR EAST TRADE GROWS

Orient Now Has Fifth of Entire Foreign Commerce of United States, Statistics Show

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The Orient now has a fifth of the entire foreign trade of the United States, according to F. R. Eldridge, chief of the Far Eastern division of the Department of Commerce, who has just compiled the 1922 figures. The proportion of American trade with the Orient has nearly doubled since 1913. Heavy exports of silk from Japan and China; rubber and tin from the Straits Settlements; wool from Australia; tea, shellac and manganese from India increased our imports from the Orient from $634,768,000 in 1921, to $853,972,000 in 1922.

Due to the general price decline at home and the depression in the Orient early in 1922, the value of our export trade showed a decline from $626,449,000 in 1921 to $536,234,000 in 1922, or about 14 per cent, which was practically the same decline shown in our export trade to the rest of the world.

INCREASE EXPECTED

If exports to the Orient regain their 1921 rate, and imports from the Orient show no decline from 1922 figures, the 1923 trade of the Orient should be 22 per cent of our total trade. With higher prices now ruling for silk and rubber, the import figures are likely to show much higher levels in 1923, and by December if there is no setback, fully one-quarter of our world trade will be with the Orient.

Prosperity in the United States and our demands for oriental raw materials are being reflected in prosperity in Japan, Philippines and British Malaya, which sell most of their exports to the United States. The purchasing power of these countries is thereby greatly increased and our exports to them increased.

MARKETS STIMULATED

The export markets in China and India are already being stimulated by prospects of lower silver in July and the desire of native merchants to contract now for July and August deliveries of silk, tea, wood, oil and other products at a lower silver cost is not only automatically adjusting and discounting the effect of the present tendency to await the higher purchasing power of gold at that time, but stimulating the merchants of the interior to prepare for heavier shipments after that date.

Although the purchasing power of the interior merchant's money in the purchase of gold country products will diminish with the lowering of silver, this stimulation to the sale of his silver producing goods at relatively higher gold prices is encouraging production and prosperity. The foreign merchant who protects his future purchases and sales of commodities by forward sales and purchases of silver has nothing to fear from a reaction in the silver market.

INTERNAL REVENUE BULLETIN WEEKLY

DEPARTMENT AIMS AT BETTER CO-OPERATION WITH TAXPAYERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—As a material step in promoting co-operation between the government and taxpayers, Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair has inaugurated a new program in the issuance of the internal revenue bulletin which contains decisions and rulings on various tax and prohibition questions.

Beginning today the internal revenue bulletin will be issued weekly. To assure the widest and most expeditious distribution of the service, Commissioner Blair has ordered that subscribers on the Pacific Coast and all points west of the Mississippi River be given preference in the mailing of the bulletin.

The promptness with which tax information is made available to the public will greatly enhance the value of the new bulletin service, Commissioner Blair said.

The service will include all rulings and opinions of the Solicitor of Internal Revenue, the Attorney-General and treasury decisions dealing with income, sales, capital stock, tobacco, oleomargarine and miscellaneous taxes. In addition there will be a great fund of general information on tax and prohibition matters.

Supplementing the weekly bulletin the internal revenue bulletin service will now consist of a quarterly digest, which will contain, briefed, but retaining their full import the rulings previously published in the weekly bulletins and a semiannual cumulative bulletin in which will appear in full all new rulings and decisions published during the preceding six months. The semiannual bulletins will be issued in July and January.

MORE WITNESSES TO BE QUIZZED IN WARD CASE

STATE WILL CONDUCT HEARING, PENDING DECISION ON BLACKMAIL CABLES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—With the submission of briefs in the litigation growing out of the attempt of the State to obtain the Ward blackmail cables to the appellate division on Tuesday, Dep. Atty.-Gen. Wilbur W. Chambers will resume the public hearings at the New York office of the Attorney General.

Albert Stuart, another witness, who spent the night of May 15, last, on the Kensico road within a mile of where Walter S. Ward says he shot Clarence Peters, former marine, in a fight resulting from a blackmail attempt, will be examined. His companions on that night, J. Lesline Irvine and Francis Irvine of Brooklyn, say they heard no shots.

Physicians who performed the autopsy upon the body of Peters also will be questioned. The Appellate Court's decision is expected within a week or ten days after briefs are submitted.

BROTHERHOOD PLANNED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HUNTINGTON PARK, May 6.—The First Christian Church men members are arranging to organize a brotherhood at the church Friday night. A supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock. The speaker on this occasion will be A. C. Smithers of Los Angeles.

WAR ON THEATER MASHERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PUEBLO (Colo.) May 6.—How to stop spooning in the theaters was the topic of a conference at Pueblo. The appointment of Mrs. Loretta as Pueblo's first policewoman is expected to bring many of the town's mashers into court.

POLICY OF NEW TERMED FARCE

Dana Scores Failure to Apply Civil Service Law

Charges Postmaster-General Bucks Own Party

Action is Directly in Face of President, He Says

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Action of Harry S. New, Postmaster-General, in not applying the civil service law to postmaster can only result in turning the whole "examination system into a farce," according to a statement issued today by Richard H. Dana, president of the National Civil Service Reform League. Mr. Dana in addition charges Mr. New with proceeding "directly in the face of the announced policy of the President himself."

The attack of the Civil Service Reform League is regarded in Washington as a forerunner only of the criticism which is likely to be directed against Mr. New in the future. The new Postmaster-General has indicated more than once that he is not in sympathy with the proponents of taking the postoffice out of politics. He expressed his views first just after taking office when he announced that he was not in agreement with his predecessor, Hubert D. Work, who on leaving office had suggested that Congressional recommendations for postoffice appointments be eliminated.

POLITICS CHARGED

The next step in the opposite direction taken by Mr. New was reported to have been contained in a letter in which he said he would consult defeated Republican candidates at the last election in the filling of vacancies on the theory that "they had probably incurred obligations during the campaign." This was denied by Mr. New but the Civil Service Reform League today says the same policy was enunciated in a letter written to its secretary in which Mr. New said:

"I dont believe it (the civil service law) should be applied to postmasters for I fully believe that the postoffice in the ordinary county seat town is just such a business as is successfully conducted by the ordinary competent business man of such a town, and that Republicans and Democrats are clearly entitled to be favorably regarded when appointments to these places are to be made."

REPLY OF DANA

"In this," says Mr Dana in reply, "you have clearly drawn the issue between yourself and your predecessors and President Harding. The President said that pending the enactment of laws to accomplish the civil service classification of these offices, selections should be made in accordance with the civil service system, under the terms of his executive order. Is believe, therefore, that you are acting directly in the face of an announced policy of the President himself and that you are making it practically impossible to place the examination system upon a footing where it may have the respect of any citizen. It can only result in turning the whole system into a farce."

Americans Are Among Victims of Paris Raid

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, May 6.—Eighty men, including sixteen Americans and a number of Spaniards, Greeks and Poles, were arrested this morning when the police raided a gambling house in Rue Montmartre.

Most of the players were seated around a baccarat table. Deputies seized the bank, amounting to 16,000 francs.

Five men jumped from the windows of the first floor, and were arrested by police on the outside.

The raid marks the first series of the prefecture's attempt to stamp out illegal gambling houses, as gambling is not permitted within 100 kilometers of Paris.

TWO INJURED, HEAVY LOSS IN OAKLAND FIRE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, May 6.—Two firemen were slightly injured and property valued at $50,000 was destroyed by a fire of undetermined origin on the edge of the business district here today. The fire originated in a coal and feed store and rapidly spread to a grocery and hardware store. All of the buildings were razed.

OLD SAN BERNARDINO RESIDENT IS HONORED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, May 6.—Hundreds of pioneers today attended a reception in honor of the 101st birthday anniversary of Joseph Hancock, who has resided in San Bernardino for 64 years. There are sixty-three members of the various generations of the Hancock family residing here.

WILL PRESENT CANTATA.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HUNTINGTON PARK, May 6.—The members of the World Wide Guild Class of the First Baptist Sunday-school are arranging to present the cantata "Ruth," at the church on Thursday night, the principal characters to be taken by Barbara West, Florence Spencer and Miss Ziegler. The proceeds are to go into the building fund of the church.

MANY BRIDGES DESTROYED

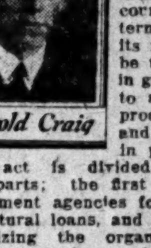
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OMAHA, May 6.—A check of the results of the recent flood and storm by the County Commissioners shows that in the two precincts of Table Rock and Clear Creek alone twenty bridges, which average forty feet in length, were destroyed. Damage was done in every precinct in the county.

Pacific-Southwest Review

By HAROLD E. CRAIG,

Assistant Director of Research, The First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank



Harold Craig

The new Farm Credits Bill is at present the subject of extensive discussion throughout the country to determine what its results will be to business in general, and to agricultural production and marketing in particular.

The act is divided into two main parts; the first providing government agencies for handling agricultural loans, and the second authorizing the organization of private agencies under governmental supervision for making loans on live stock securities and on farm commodities on the way to market.

The first section of the law provides for a system of twelve "Federal Intermediate Credit Banks," to be established in connection with each of the existing Federal Land Banks, and under the supervision of the officers and directors of the land bank. The government provides the capital of $5,000,000 for each bank.

The banks are authorized to rediscount farmers' notes which have been taken by banks and other financial institutions and to carry these notes for a term of from six months to three years, thus actually furnishing the cash for farmers' borrowing for these periods. The banks may also loan direct to farmers' co-operative associations under certain conditions. The Intermediate Credits Banks may obtain additional capital by the issue of debentures. The interest charges may not exceed by more than one per cent the interest paid on the debentures issued, and the farmer who borrows must not be charged by his bank an interest rate of more than 1½ per cent above the interest charged by the Intermediate Credit Bank.

The second division of the act provides for the organization under Federal charter of "National Agricultural Credit Corporations" operated by private capital, but under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency. They must have a minimum capital of $250,000 and may raise more money by floating debenture bonds. The Treasury is engaged in facilitating the establishment of these credit corporations, and expect that the existing cattle loan companies will be the first to establish themselves under the Federal law. Of the present 100 cattle loan companies in the Middle West and Southwest about fifty are already eligible for charters, and many others can easily be made eligible by increasing their capitalization.

The rules and regulations for the actual machinery of the Intermediate Credit Banks are to be laid down by the Federal Farm Loan Board and the Federal Land Banks. The sixty million dollars capital has been credited to the Farm Loan Board by the Treasury and a million dollars was turned over to each bank immediately upon the issuance of charters, with additional funds to be supplied as needs arise.

A construction of the law's provisions and the principles to be followed as made public by the Farm Loan Board states that no loans will be made for a longer period than nine months until the system is thoroughly tried out. Upon live stock paper satisfactory assurance of renewal will be given in proper cases. Direct loans cannot be made to individuals. Direct advances may be made to co-operative marketing associations or live stock associations secured by warehouse receipts for staple agricultural products or by chattel mortgage on live stock; although no such loan may exceed 75 per cent of the market value of such security. All loans discounted for banking associations must have been made for "agricultural purposes."

MELODY FEST FOR KHJ FANS

Cotterill Sisters Again in "Times" Studio

Monrovia Trio Back for Sacred Program

Alfred Bryant is Vocalist During Morning

BY BEN A. MARKSON

The three charming Cotterill sisters, Elizabeth, Florence and Alice, regaled radioland last night with melody in its sweetest phases. They are musical artists, known from coast to coast, and their appearance at KHJ last night—they have been with us before—was through the courtesy of the Raymond Hotel of Pasadena.

The Cotterill Sisters Trio hails from Iron Mountain, Mich., originally. Elizabeth at the Knabe, Florence, violinist, and Alice coaxing the drums, traps, xylophone and cornet, combined to give listeners-in a harmony-fest of unusual brilliance.

Ten selections were on the program, beginning with Nevin's quaint and tender "Mighty Lak' a Rose," and ending with Nevin's "Narcissus," the lovely flower theme of mythological trend, in which the nymphs, their affection unrequited, take pity on Narcissus who died of grief after falling in love with his own reflection in the water.

VARIETY GIVEN

Other selections skillfully and beautifully embellished by the accomplished trio included, "A Dream," by Bartlett, with its accented plaintive love notes, "Ave Maria," by Godard, "Smilin' Through," arranged by the trio, "Where the Lazy Mississippi Flows," by De Freyne, and Zamecnik's "Shepherd Morning Song," and "My Paradise."

Florence Cotterill, who adds vocal ability to her musicianship favored with two songs, tuneful "Then You'll Remember Me," from "Bohemian Girl," and "Look for the Silver Lining," from "Sally."

James Foley, poet and author, of whom the Southland is rightfully proud, read several of his original compositions. Mr. Foley is a bard who inspires optimism without the pretense of preaching, and whose poems have the human touch of a lover of mankind.

MONROVIA TRIO BACK

At the solicitation of KHJ fans, a trio from Monrovia which dealt radioland a pleasant surprise recently, returned for the sacred forenoon program. Attention is directed to Ray Lockwood, clarinetist, Ralph Densmore, flutist, and Beulah Littlejohn, pianist. They are destined to forge into prominence before long.

Each is a soloist worth hearing alone, but it is in ensemble that they reach the perfection of their musical efforts.

At their first KHJ appearance a number of persons, with whom musical finesse is a fetich, commented upon the exquisite tonal blending and the inspiring interpretation given by this trio to the selections played. There can be no dissenting voice among those who heard them play "Dreamy Moments," by Ehrich, and "Love's Response," by Gruenwald, yesterday morning. These numbers were fairly reverent in their silken melody. "Larboard Watch," by Williams, was in a more resonant ringing style. "At the Brook," a flute solo by Mr. Densmore, was silvery, tinkling and clear, a thing of pastel subtlety.

Indicative of the finest spirit of radio broadcast, this trio returned for the evening program and contributed to the splendid balance maintained throughout the evening, in what proved to be one of the most delightful programs ever given at this station.

MORNING'S VOCALIST

The vocalist of the forenoon program was Albert Bryant, tenor well known to listeners-in. His finest efforts, from hearing him in The Times studio, seem directed toward songs of plaintive, sentimental motif because of a hushed, yearning inflection which he can command. This sympathetic quality also fits appropriately into hymnal themes. A modest veneration was apparent in his singing of "Heaven Is My Home," by Stenson, and "The Prayer Perfect." Myra Belle Vickers, whose pupils invariably please at KHJ, was Mr. Bryant's accompanist.

The morning sermon was delivered by Dr. Bruce Brown, pastor of South Park Christian Church, who spoke on "The Second Mile." The general text is contained in the religious columns of this issue, but, carrying his subject into the realm of music, Dr. Brown said:

"There is the first and then the second mile of music. You hear a great artist like Paderewski and your soul is lifted to the skies as he seems to catch the rhythm and melody of heaven and scatter it through the strings of the instrument. You decide to be a musician. You rent a piano and take your first lesson. Do you play like Paderewski? Not quite. But you will never enter the second mile of music until you have gone through the first. The same thing is true in art."

EX-KAISER GIVES LIE TO RUMOR

Marshal of Doorn Court in Interview Denies Wilhelm at Outs With Wife

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AMSTERDAM, May 6.—In an interview here today Baron Von Loene, the ex-Kaiser's marshal at the Doorn court emphatically denied that the former German Emperor and his bride Princess Hermine had quit.

"All these sensational reports published recently in Britain and America about his majesty," the Baron said, "are downright malicious lies.

"His Majesty, on principle, declines interviews," continued the marshal, "as he promised the Dutch government on his arrival in Holland that he would abstain from any public statement or act. He enjoys excellent health physically and mentally.

"It should be remembered that Princess Hermine stipulated in her marriage contract that she was to have the right to stay six weeks in Germany twice a year to visit her two elder sons, who are attending school at Greiz, and to look after her Silesian property."

It is believed at the house of Doorn that venomous tongues spread the reports of the failure of the ex-Kaiser's second marriage and the man chiefly responsible is said to be Baron Henning von Stechow, a close friend of Ex-Crown Princess Cecelie, who cannot forgive her father-in-law for replacing Ex-Empress Augusta so soon after her death.

William lives now in silent retirement, spending the greater part of each day in his workroom in the "little tower." Although his memoirs were not a striking success and comparatively few copies of the book were sold he intends to write another book on Germany's policy during the war.

CAUTION ADVISED IN WOOL ADVANCE

AMERICAN ASD CONTINENTAL TRADE DOMINATING LONDON MARKET

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, May 6. — American and continental merchants and spinners are dominating the situation in the wool exchange and the auctions here are proceeding with excited bidding for fine wools. Merinos are firm at 10 per cent advance. Those who, in America, are interested more generally are offering 15 per cent increase. American interest is equally keen in fine cross-breds, but trans-Atlantic purchasers are slackening in medium and lower grades. With 35 per cent of the home machinery idle the outlet for these grades is on the continent, so prices are not at their best.

America has ceased buying for heavyweight clothing purposes and is concentrating on fine grade wools, hence 39 pence are paid for Viktorian greasy Merino, 58 pence for scoured, and 28 pence for New Zealand greasy half-breds.

Conservative opinion believes the advance in fine wools is unhealthily fast and caution is advised.

WOMAN PAST CENTURY MARK IN GOOD HEALTH

ETHAN ALLEN'S GRANDDAUGHER GIVES SIMPLE RECIPE FOR LONGEVITY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CEDAR RAPIDS (Ia.) May 6.—A real daughter of the Revolution, Mrs. William Rowley, living in Linn county, will celebrate her 102nd birthday on the 23rd inst.

Mrs. Rowley is a granddaughter of Col. Ethan Allen, the New Hampshire patriot, who forced the surrender of Fort Ticonderoga on May 10, 1775. She is the last of ten children born to Mr. and Mrs. Morris Barton at Poughkeepsie, New York. Mrs. Rowley's mother, Jane Barton, was a daughter of Colonel Allen by his second wife. She also is a cousin of Clara Barton of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Rowley's hearing is unimpaired and she enjoys good health. She wears glasses only when she reads. Asked for her recipe for longevity, Mrs. Rowley said: "One must always carry oneself straight to live long and be happy. I have always worked and I never have been a heavy eater. I always leave the table feeling that I could have eaten more."

GIRL WILL DIVULGE METHODS OF CULT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. JOSEPH (Mich.) May 6.—Pearl Flake, 14-year-old Chicago girl brought here yesterday by Michigan authorities to testify in the inquiry into the asserted lack of morals in the House of David cult, will be the first witness at tomorrow's session with night scenes in "King Benjamin" Purnell's sleeping quarters again scheduled to be the subject. Pearl and her mother ran away from the House of David some time ago.

Pearl today was in custody of a W.C.T.U. matron, despite the pleas of her mother that they not be separated. Instructions whispered to Pearl en route here to "stand by Benjamin" caused the Assistant Attorney-General to order that communication between the two be cut off until after the girl has testified.

In the few words she has been premitted to say to newspaper men Pearl has told of being called into Benjamin's bedroom on several nights, but she denies there was anything wrong.

"Benjamin is a nice man," she said, "and he never tried to hurt me."

Pearl's mother, quartered in a hotel several blocks from the girl's temporary home also is staunchly for the missing leader of the bewhiskered cult.

"Benjamin Purnell is a perfect gentleman and I'm sure he never harmed Pearl while she lived in Shiloh," she said.

IOWAN TRAVELS FAR TO CLAIM HIS BRIDE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SOUTHGATE, May 6.—Having made the journey of hundreds of miles a few days ago, coming from Des Moines to claim his bride, Frederick Bodtke arrived in Los Angeles Monday of last week, and on Saturday afternoon was united in marriage to Miss Nelle Claire Fisher, who came from Des Moines last November to spend the winter in Los Angeles.

The marriage ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Fisher, Santa Ana, in the presence of a few of the relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Bodtke will spend a few weeks in Southern California, after which they will start on their journey homeward. They will reside permanently in Des Moines.

BANK DEPOSITORS PAID.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DES MOINES, May 6.—Two hundred fifty depositors of the Citizens State Bank of Onawa, which closed its doors in 1921, have received a 10 per cent payment. According to R. N. Rawson, receiver, more than $9000 was paid out. Mr. Rawson has collected $100,000, which was outstanding credits of the bank when he was appointed receiver.

BUILDING RECORD FALLS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DENVER, May 6.—All home-building records in the history of Casper, Wyo., were eclipsed during April, according to figures at the City Engineer's office, which show that operations started in Casper, and in additions not within the corporate limits of the city, totaled $500,000.

NEWS FROM RUMANIA IS REPRESSED

Reason is Laid to Secret Military Alliance With French Government

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BUCHAREST, May 6.—(By Courier to Vienna.)—The government has been exercising the strictest censorship on all press dispatches for the last seven weeks. Practically no dispatches concerning the political situation were allowed to leave Rumania during this period.

According to authoritative information the chief reason for this action is the conclusion of a secret military alliance between France and Rumania. Gen. Lerond from Paris is now inspecting Rumanian troops on the Russian-Hungarian frontiers. He is at present in Bessarabia.

The alliance was signed in the middle of April, and, despite the government's efforts to secure peace, Bucharest is seething with reports of possibility of a Russian offensive against Bessarabia, meeting with Rumanian-French solidarity.

BUSINESS ON LONDON MARKET RESTRICTED

TURNING DOWN OF GERMANY'S OFFER BRINGS SHORT WEAK PERIOD

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, May 6.—Business on the London Stock Exchange last week was considerably restricted by the advent of the May Day holiday sandwiched in the middle of the forthnightly settlement. The tone was fairly steady, however. The publication of the German note and France's prompt rejection of it exercised a depressing effect for a time, but the gloom soon wore off. International titles naturally suffered more or less, both German and French bonds breaking with their exchanges. Gilt-edged securities were about the most active section and maintained a satisfactory level, although toward the close they suffered from some profit taking.

The foreign market was unstable. Turkish bonds were depressed on the Lausanne proceedings, while Chinese Vickers notes fell sharply. Home rails were irregular.

Foreign rails likewise were wobbly. Industrials carried off the honors for activity, but the tone was somewhat irregular on account of profit taking. Textiles generally were better, but they sagged a little toward the end. Tobaccos were on the dull side after a large tournover.

LOAN CONCERNS ATTACKED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. LOUIS, May 6.—The first steps of the State to rid itself of the housing trusts, or so-called 3 per cent loan companies, were taken when State Finance Commissioner Millspaugh filed thirteen receivership suits in the Circuit Court charging the companies with gross irregularities. Simultaneous with the filing of the suits in St. Louis similar suits were filed in Kansas City against twenty-one companies there.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.—[Advertisement.

CONFERENCE ON RAILS PLANNED

La Follette Radical Group Invites Public

Hopes to Get Early Start on Administration

Senator Says Road Valuation Cause of Trouble

BY GRAFTON WILCOX

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The La Follette radical group in Congress styling themselves the "progressive group," which includes Democrats as well as Republicans, has issued an invitation to the public to attend a national conference on railroad valuation in Chicago May 25 and 26.

The invitation is extended formally by "the committee on transportation of the progressive group in Congress," of which Senator La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, an aspirant for the Republican Presidential nomination against President Harding, is the chairman, in co-operation with a group of Western and Middle Western Governors.

On the committee of members of Congress with Senator La Follette are Senators Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, and Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, Representatives Cooper, Republican, Wisconsin and Huddleston, Democrat, Alabama. The "co-operating group of Governors" includes G. W. P. Hunt, Arizona, William E. Sweet, Colorado, N. E. Kendall, Iowa, Jonathan M. Davis, Kansas, Joseph M. Dixon, Montana, J. C. Walton, Oklahoma, and John J. Blaine, Wisconsin.

PURPOSES OF MEET

The invitation to the Chicago conference, which announces that Mayor William E. Dever will extend the welcome to the assemblage, sets forth the following purposes:

(1.) To promote and to protect the public interest involved in the valuation of railroad properties now being made by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and particularly for the purpose fo preventing excessive valuations of railroad properties, which will result inevitably in the imposition of unreasonable charges for railroad transportation.

(2.) To take the necessary steps through action before the Interstate Commerce Commission, in the courts and elsewhere, to require the Interstate Commerce Commission to comply fully with the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act authorizing by directing the valuation of railroad properties and particularly to require the commission to perform the duties specifically imposed upon it, but which the commission has as yet failed to perform.

(3.) To organize, maintain and support such proceedings as may be deemed advisable to accomplish the foregoing purposes.

Political leaders on the Republican side see in the conference, which is being engineered by Mr. La Follette, considerable significance, in view of the fact that President Harding is preparing to make the railroad problem one of the most vital issues of the Republican campaign next year. It is also well known that the President is preparing to discuss the railroad issue before the people this summer, speaking, as he insists, not in the guise of a candidate for office, but as the President of a country which is greatly concerned about the transportation question.

FOR "DEAR PUBLIC"

Senator La Follette and his associates propose to get the jump on the administration in the railroad issue, although they do not know exactly what President Harding may propose to solve railroad ills. In connection with the announcement of the Chicago meeting, Senator La Follette said tonight:

"When the committee on transportation, created by the conference of progressives held on December 1, 1922, undertook its study of the railroad situation, they were impressed by the fact that the key to almost all the perplexing problems of transportation was to be found in the valuation of the roads. They also discovered that the public interest was not being properly or adequately represented in the proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"They accordingly communicated with a number of Governors, who expressed great interest in this situation on behalf of the people of their States, and agreed to co-operate in bringing about a conference to discuss the matter. In this connection, it may be pointed out that the valuation act confers on the Governors special duties with reference to the valuation of the roads which traverse their States."

TREASURY ANNOUNCES NEW ISSUE OF NOTES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Bringing to an end the first phase of refinancing the government's great wartime debt, the treasury tonight announced a new offering of $400,000,000 in treasury notes to complete the refunding and retiring of the Victory notes which, when issued, aggregated more than $4,000,000,000.

The new issue will bear 4⅜ per cent interest and will mature March 15, 1927.

FARM HANDS SCARCE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OMAHA, May 5.—Scarcity of farm hands is again driving women of the Northwest into the fields according to T. S. Welch, manager of the Chamber of Commerce employment bureau. In Mitchell, S. D., and the surrounding territory Mr. Welch estimates that he could easily use 120 men a week and the best he has been able to do thus far this spring is to locate thirty-seven men on farm jobs.

MILWAUKEE, May 6.—Loss aggregating $60,000 was caused at Beaver Dam when fire which started from a drying kiln, destroyed the S. B. Friday hemp mill. Fifteen workmen at the plant escaped uninjured.

WALL STREET IS PERPLEXED

Market Has Great Decline as Business Booms

Iron Production Greatest in Nation's History

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—The occurence last week of a severe decline on the Stock Exchange, simultaneously with evidence in various directions that the movement of trade expansion was increasing, not decreasing, caused the perplexity in Wall street that always comes with such a seeming paradox.

During the week two familiar indices of business activity—production of iron and traffic delivered to the railroads—surpassed all records for the season, and in the case of the iron output, all records in the country's history.

The report for April showed a daily average output greater by 4310 tons, or nearly 33 per cent, than the maximum of wartime; the actual daily production at the opening of May being 1248 tons larger still. Car loadings on American railroads, as reported for the third week of April, rose 10,000 cars above the present year's previous high figure, while the business handled in general merchandise, always typical of the scope of trade, reached a total never equalled except in two weeks of last October.

BREAK IS VIOLENT

Yet stock market prices broke with such violence that even the "average" lost some 3½ points for the week, going 8 1-4 below the season's high level, reached in March; some of the active industrial shares falling 10 points for the week and 15 from the year's best figures.

Movements of this sort on the Stock Exchange are closely watched in the business community because experience has proved that while a rise or fall on the Exchange does not always foreshadow a similar movement later on in trade activity, it is at least undeniable that every downward or upward reaction in the field of industry has been indicated before hand by a similar change in the stock market. Naturally, more attention is paid to the Stock Exchange indicator when the rise or fall of prices is prolonged and violent, and last week's decline was sufficiently pronounced to cause some thoughtful consideration.

Up to a certain point, never easy to determine beforehand, an advance on the Stock Exchange will "discount," in the Wall Street phrase, all of the trade expansion that is clearly in sight of the best informed observers. But experience also teaches that a rising market does not stop with such close and accurate measuring of probabilities.

CAUSE OF REACTION

The spirit of speculation, the enthusiasm of people who are not able to look at all sides of a business situation, will invariably carry prices above such a level of conservatism, and when that happens the more prudent and experienced investors will withdraw from the market. Their withdrawal leaves the venturesome speculators without previous support. Eventually, when the stock market fails to respond to efforts to push it higher, and when professional operators try to realize on their holdings, the rapid downward reaction comes.

Such a decline may be only an incident. It may turn out that the conservative investors had underrated the scope of the trade revival that obstacles which they had expected did not materialize, that the scope of business activity grew still larger. Sometimes the halt in trade activity actually occurs, but is followed by still more vigorous revival.

In that case, the genuine buying movement is presently resumed on the Stock Exchange, and prices go higher than before. This happened in the intervals of stock market reaction during 1915, 1916 and 1919; the fall in stocks in the middle of those years was a temporary incident.

But on other occasions such a break on the Exchange indicated the correct foreshadowing either of a tightening money market, with whatever influence that may exert, or else of a halt or reaction in the trade movement itself.

WIFE OF MAJ. CONNOR IS GRANTED DIVORCE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

STEVENS POINT (Wis.) May 6.—Adventures in love and business, chiefly the former, of Maj. Robert Connor, three times mayor of Marshfield, Wis., were again brought into the limelight late yesterday evening when Judge Byron B. Park granted a divorce to Mrs. Florence G. Connor, his wife. It is said she is to receive $50 a week alimony. She started her divorce suit last month after her husband had been arrested along with Miss Bertha Gurtler, his love mate and mother of three children by him. Their cases have been continued and both are at liberty under bond.

It is charged that in addition to his regular residence he maintained in a remote part of Milwaukee a "love nest," where he posed as "Mr. Brown," a traveling man. The major is the father of a daughter, 18 years of age, and a son, 10, by his legal wife. Miss Gurtler, who is 30, admits he is the father of her children, ranging from 1 to 7 years of age.

GOVERNMENT IS BRANDING FISH

Seeks Knowledge of Habits of Finny Tribes

Metal Tags to Fix Identity of Specimens

Fishery Interests to Aid in Federal Venture

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) May 6.—Of great scientific interest of naturalists and of practical commercial value of fishermen is a new investigation which has just been undertaken by the Bureau of Fisheries of the Department of Commerce. It is the tagging of fish for the purpose of identifying them later and in other places and thereby determining their migratory habits. Some experimental work has been done in this direction in the past, but the bureau now is undertaking the work on a large scale.

Henry O'Mally, Commissioner of Fisheries, has decided to begin the experiment with the cod, the pollock and the haddock of the New England Banks. These are among the most important food fish produced in American waters and the results of the investigation are expected to be of the utmost value to the fishing fleets.

SEEK KNOWLEDGE

Old fishermen, born and raised on the New England Coast, and whose fathers before them have followed the trade of deep-sea fishing for generations, know all there is to learn by actual experience concerning the habits of the North Atlantic fish, but it is believed that the scientific work of the bureau will add to the lore of the fishing banks by employment of modern methods. That the fishermen are not scornful of science is indicated by the fact that the Master Mariners' Association of Gloucester, Massachusetts, has expressed the liveliest interest in the work and it is giving the bureau unanimous support. The experienced fisherman is inclined to rely more on his weather eye and his water lore, to say nohting of the proverbial fisherman's luck, than on science, but in this case the facilities of Uncle Sam's chief fisherman are not scorned because facts about the New England fish mean bread and butter to the Gloucester fleets.

Gloucester is the principal New England fishing port, although other towns on the coast of New England also send out their fleets each season. The traditional arrangement is for the master and men who man a fishing schooner to have shares in the enterprise. No regular wages are paid the men but all work hard and when the catch is sold, all the men share. For this reason, it is of very great importance to them to know all there is to know about the habits of the deep-sea fish they seek.

The Bureau of Fisheries maintains hatcheries at Woods Hole and Gloucester, Mass., and at Boothbay Harbor in the State of Maine. Ten thousand fish of the cod, pollock and haddock species are to be tagged with little metal tags which will not readily come off the fish nor interfere with its movements and growth. Posters are being placed at the great fish markets along the coast announcing the work and a reward of 25 cents will be paid by the government for each of the little tags returned with the information concerning where and when the tagged fish was caught.

TO IDENTIFY FISH

To assist the study, the bureau has worked out an indentification system for fish which might be compared to the Bertillon fingerprint system. It has been discovered that the scales of a fish show, under microscopic inspection, characteristic markings which reveal the life, growth and age of the fish. When tagged fish are caught, the fisherman or dealer who finds the tag is urged by the bureau to scrape off a few scales and send them along with the tag. From a scientific examination of these scales, experts of the bureau can learn many things concerning the story of the fish.

The Bureau has fitted up a special steamer to sail on a fish tagging cruise. The Bureau's steamer Halcyon has been outfitted with special tackle and on April 16 it sailed on one of the most curious fishing expeditions ever undertaken, a fishing trip, the purpose of which is to catch fish only to throw them back into the water. The first cruise was in the waters of Nantucket Shoals. The experts of the Bureau in charge of the work were Dr. H. S. Bigelow of Harvard University; Willis H. Rich, assistant in charge of the Division of Scientific Inquiry of the Fisheries Bureau, and William C. Schroeder, Scientific Assistant of the Bureau. Dr. Bigelow is an expert on New England fish and Mr. Rich had considerable experience in tagging salmon on the Pacific Coast in Alaska.

The fish will be caught in nets and the three varieties which the government is investigating will be segregated, tagged and thrown back into the water. In all probability some of the tagged fish may be caught the next day by some fishermen but it is equally likely that some may remain at liberty for years. Some very likely will be caught within a few miles of the place where they were tagged and some, doubtless, a thousand miles away. These are precisely the facts the Bureau desires to determine.

It is known that the great schools of fish migrate from time to time between the coast line and the fishing banks and between the banks. A bank is a submerged plateau. The ocean in most places is of great depth, but in other places the bottom rises up in the form of a mountain or plateau to within a comparatively short distance from the surface. The fish usually stay in the waters over these banks excepting when they are going from one to another.

RADIO AIDS FISHERMEN

The Georges Bank and the Grand Banks are the principal haunts of the cod, and to these fishing grounds the fleets from the New England ports annually sail. They remain at sea until they catch enough fish to fill their holds. On some occasions, for unaccountable reasons, the fish are scarce and time is lost, the ships riding at anchor days on end and using up provisions. These expensive intervals, it is hoped, will be avoided as a result of the facts ascertained from the government experiments.

The government already has done much to aid the fishermen. The radio is employed to a substantial extent. When schools of fish are sighted and reported as moving in any given direction, the news is flashed to the fleets and they up anchor and sail to intercept them with their capacious nets.

A part of the study of fish doubtless will include the ocean currents, one of the most fascinating of scientific subjects. Fish sleep just like other creatures and drift with the currents when in repose. Important and interesting studies of ocean currents have been made. One method of studying them is the launching of bottles, tightly corked so that they will float indefinitely. In 1919 a number of bottles were set afloat in the Bay of Fundy. The United States Weather Bureau co-operated in the work of tracing them and compiling the data adduced.

The bottles have been picked up from time to time, the Weather Bureau within the last few days having reported on four new bottles of the 1919 lot. No. 198 was found on the island of Flores in the Azores on Aug. 8, 1920. As the Bay of Fundy is on the Canadian Coast, this means that this bottle nearly crossed the Atlantic. No. 230 was picked up on the island of Papa Westray, in the Orkneys, Jan. 21, 1921. No. 98 was picked up at Dyffyrn, North Wales, on March 25, 1921, and No. 129 was found two miles from land at the Bohle-Wal station, Soro, Westfinmark, in Norway, on July 16, 1921. The Weather Bureau has figured that these bottles must have traveled respectively, 2000 miles, 2800 miles, 2900 miles and 3300 miles, in respective times of twelve months, seventeen months, nineteen months and twenty-three months. A calculation shows that the bottles traveled between five and six geographical miles per day.

The tagging of fish is a new science, but there is at least one very interesting case of a fish which was identified and known to many people. In the time of the Emperor Justinian of Rome, a whale strayed into the Mediterranean Sea. It was about fifty feet long—not a tremendous whale as whales go in the North Atlantic—but the biggest fish ever seen in the Mediterranean. It capsized many of the small ships of that early time and was regarded as a sea monster of unimaginable terror. It became so well known to mariners and, by report, to the people of the cities, that it was given a name. Porphyrio, it was called and every time a ship set sail, the sailors prayed to the pagan gods to be kept safe from the lashing tail of Porphyrio. The whale lived fifty years in Mediterranean and finally became stranded on the sands at the mouth of the Sangaris River in Asia Minor, where it either was killed or died at low tide.

The Fisheries Bureau does not expect to tag any whales, but if any reader finds a denizen of the deep with a little metal tag on it, Uncle Sam will appreciate it if he will send the tag, a few scales and the data about where and when the fish was caught to the Bureau of Fisheries, Department of Commerce, Washington.

STAR SCULLERS TO WEAR PENN COLORS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—Jack Kelly, undefeated single sculling champion and Paul Costello, present national champion, are among members of the recently formed Penn A. C. of Philadelphia and plan to carry the newer organization's colors in regattas this year. They have applied for membership in the Schuylkill Navy, the Philadelphia organization having control of rowing in the Quaker City. They want to row in the American Regatta at Philadelphia on the 26th inst., as a senior double in which the yare Olympic champions.

GRAIN PRICES ARE LOWERED

Attempt to Stop Sugar Cost Rise Has Effect

Speculative Setback May Recover Slowly

Cotton Also is Caught in Downward Move

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, May 6.—Sixty million dollars was taken off the grain prices held by farmers throughout the United States by the decline in values in the last ten days. This drop in the potential wealth of the agricultural interests was due largely to the government's action against speculation in sugar.

An advance of 2 cents a pound on sugar in the basis of the annual per capita consumption would mean $6 to the theoretical cost of the consumer's sugar bill for a year. To save these few dollars the government has brought about conditions the effect of which has been more far reaching than it was possible to conceive when the effort to check the rise in sugar prices started. The drive has been largely responsible for a drop of almost 5 cents a pound in cotton, which is practically $250 a bale.

LOSSES ARE GREAT

Securities have also declined sharply, and losses to investors have been up in the millions of dollars. The aggregate decline in commodities reaches startling figures.

A break of 99 5-8 cents in wheat, 4 3-8 and 5 1-4 cents in corn, and 2½ cents in oats in 10 days ordinarily would be enough to warrant a good rally, but speculation has received such a bad setback that it may be slow in recovering. Naturally there should be a good rally from the low point, but whether it holds is the problem confronting the trade, as it has become as bearish now as it was a week ago.

Heavy deliveries of grains on May 1, aggregating nearly 23,000,000 bushels in all markets, of which more than 15,000,000 bushels was at Winnipeg, have exerted a depressing influence on values, as the shipping demand has disappointed holders and caused liquidation.

Good rains in Kansas, Oklahoma and throughout Nebraska offset the effect of drought in the central west and improved crop conditions in the southwest, which is natural with a fair supply of moisture.

LOSS SENSATIONAL

A government report is due after the close on Tuesday. It will show a sensational loss in wheat acreage and a higher condition than that of 75.2 in April, estimates ranging up to 79. Last year it was 83.5.

Buying of corn was by traders having every confidence in the stability of values and the market became overbought. Heavy selling on Saturday caught stop order liquidation and forced an unexpected break.

Corn at 80 cents is regarded as debatable at the moment, although the trade in general believes that it is worth more money, and that high prices are to rule for months to come. The country is not selling any corn of consequence and the movement is below the average. Cars are more easily obtained, and there is a fair export and domestic trade.

EARLY INTEREST IN CONVENTION

Republican Party Leaders Favor Chicago

Sufficient Votes Pledged, Treasurer Says

San Francisco is Bidding for Both Meetings

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Republican party leaders here are already inclined to accept the recent prediction made by Fred W. Upham of Chicago, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, that Chicago already has enough votes pledged in the national committee to assure it the 1924 Republican convention.

Although the convention is more than a year off and the final selection of a convention city will not be made until December, there seems to be unusual interest in the matter this early in the political game. At the headquarters of the Republican national committee here there are no figures or no records to confirm the Upham estimate, but officials of the committee do not discount the claim of Treasurer Upham, who is leading the fight to take the convention to Chicago. The national committee, it is explained, does not keep track of convention city pledges made in advance by national committeemen and therefore is unable to check up Mr. Upham's count.

However, Mr. Upham is regarded by Republican leaders here as a conservative and truthful politician and if Mr. Upham, as quoted in Chicago dispatches, claims that his city has twenty-nine pledges in hand, the average Republican leader here is willing to bet that he has them.

Such a number of pledges, if they hold, will put out of the running San Francisco, Cleveland and Washington.

Outside of San Francisco's bid for both conventions, little interest has been shown so far as to the Democratic gathering next year. The Democrats had a great time in San Francisco in 1920 and many of them want to return. If it becomes apparent that Chicago has won the Republican convention, San Francisco will concentrate on appeals to national committeemen of the Democratic party.

St. Louis and Washington are regarded as contenders against San Francisco for the honor of entertaining the Democratic politicians, but the Democratic committee has not yet warmed up.

WASHINGTON, Mayo 6.—El grupo radical de La Follette en el Congreso, en el que se incluyen tanto demócratas como republicanos, han convocado a una conferencia nacional sobre avalúo de ferrocarriles en Chicago, para los días 25 y 26 de Mayo, anticipándose a las medias de la Administración sobre el problema de los caminos de fierro.

Los líderes del partido republicano se inclinan a estar de acuerdo con la predicción de Fred W. Upham, de que la convencion de 1924 se celebrará en Chicago.

Los Estados Unidos van a expedir nuevos billetes del Tesoro, que devenguen interés de 4¾% como resultado de la promesa de un superavit nacional de $125,000,000 para el fin del año fiscal.

Los Indios Sioux, que andan tras del pago de una extensión de tierras en los Black Hills, van a entablar un juicio por $700,000,000 contra los Estados Unidos.

El Senador Ball, republicano de Delaware, se ha unido al Diputado Britten, republicano de Illinois, para recomendar a Alameda, California como lugar adecuado para el apostadero naval de la costa del Pacífico.

Tren Expreso Asaltado en China

PEKING, Mayo 6.—Un tren expreso fué atacado entre Shanghai y Pekín, por bandidos. Ocurrió la cosa cerca de Lincheng, Shantung sudoccidental, a las tres de la mañana. Comunícase que fué muerto un extranjero, y varios otros apresados y llevados como rehenes. Murieron igualmente muchos chinos, habiendo sido hechos numerosos prisoneros de igual nacionalidad. La Srita. Aldrich, hermana de la Sra. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., e hija del difunto Senador Nelson W. Aldrich, se hallaba en ese tren, según se dice. También Robert Scripps, de la Liga Periodística Scripps. No ha sido aún posible confirmar la identidad y nacionalidad de los extranjeros muertos o plagiados.

Ratifican la anterior noticia el Ministerio de Comunicaciones, lo mismo que el Presidente y manifiestan lamentar mucho la circumstancia de que el tren, que hasta hoy a las 10 p.m. debería haber llegado a Pekín, haya quedado metido en una zanja, hacia donde fué precipitado por haber desclavado los bandidos uno de los railes.

NOTAS LOCALES

No Sabe que Está Divorciado

Un mundo de gente se dedica a locos desenfrenos, en tanto que otro permanece estacionario, olvidado del tiempo y de los acontecimientos. Al primero pertenece la Sra. Edna M. Cook, divorciada y satisfecha; en tanto que en el otro se halla engolfado en el estudio de la teología, el Reverendo Francis P. Cook, divorciado, pero sin que hasta ahora se haya percatado de ello. Ella se encuentra libre, y, por lo que puede presumirse, contenta de estarlo; él se halla también libre; pero como no lo sabe, está molesto e intranquilo. Tal ha sido la revelación recogida en nuestros tribunales a los que acudió el Sr. Cook, del famoso seminario teológico de Madison, para informarse de si su mujer había ejecutado su amenaza de divorciarse de él.

Da los Nombres de sus Plagiarios

Unos gritos provocaron alarma entre los vecinos próximos al 308 de la calle Clay, sirvieron para que la policía se dirigiera ayer temprano al lugar donde Astrea Jolly, muchacha de 16 años, había estado cautiva, según ella relata, desde que la plagiaron en las inmediaciones de su casa la noche del último jueves. Tres fueron sus apresadores, quienes le dieron maltrato, según manifiesta la víctima, quien proporcionó a la policía informes que dieron por resultado la aprehensión de los tres jóvenes delincuentes. El primer detenido fue William Joseph, de 18 años, domiciliado en la calle Cincuenta y Siete Este, 2546, según comunicaron los Tenientes Detectives Culp y Sherrard. Con datos que suministró el preso, dicen los detectives que pudieron echarles el guante a L. H. Finnell de 20 años calle Cincuenta y Tres Este, 1158, y a Frank Sancen, de 21 años, calle Cincuenta y Dos Este, 1233½. La muchacha, según se asegura, ha identificado a los tres.

Marinos Escaldados. Uno de Ellos Perece

La noche del último sabado, a bordo del acorazado New York, hoy surto en el puerto de Los Angeles, resultaron varios marineros escaldados por el vapor ardiente que se escapó al estallar un evaporador que existe a estribor del referido barco. Uno de los mozos falleció anoche de sus quemaduras, y otros cinco están tan graves, que no hay esperanza de que vivan. Súpose ayer de este siniestro por un informe del Capitan R. C. Moody, commandante del buque de guerra. Otros tres de sus hombres recibieron quemaduras menos graves, y se espera queden pronto curados.

Todos los marineros escaldados eran miembros de la tripulación del New York y son oriundos de Honolulu. Se hallaban francos, y estaban jugando dados, juego prohibido, cuando se verificó la explosion. V. Peter, el que murió ayer tarde de sus quemaduras a bordo del buque hospital Relief, era fogonero de tercera.

DEPORTES

Pista

Sudcalifornia, y especialmente Los Angeles, se ha distinguido siempre por su reclamo y bombeo en favor de este Estado; pero ninguna oportunidad mejor que la del próximo sábado para que Los Angeles realice el más grande tour de force en lo que se refiere a anunciar a California.

Ese día, que será 12 de Mayo, el encuentro anual de pista y campo interescolar del Estado tendrá lugar en el campo Patterson, Colegio Occidental, y del apoyo que allí preste la gente de Los Angeles depende el que California esté o nó representada en el encuentro nacional interescolar de Chicago, que se efectuará el 26 de los corrientes.

Pugilato

Phil Salvadore, campeón pesoligero de la Costa, arrojará manana en la noche su corona sobre el tablado de Doyle, en Vernon, retando a Bud Soules a que se apodere de ella. Hace poco que Salvadore propinó una buena solfa a Joe Benjamin, al paso que Soules tuvo un combate reñida con el mismo contrincante. Esto prueba que el promotor Wad Wadhams ha podido arreglar una pelea ideal, en la que vamos a ver sobra de actividad.

Baseball

Oakland y Vernon se dividieron ayer en el parque Washington el doble partido, ganando el primero los de aquí por 11 a 3, y siendo de los Robles el segundo por 6 a 4, en diez turnos. Los Tigres ganaron la serie, por cuatro juegos a tres. Dos carreras y golpes que Willie y Lafayette lograron de Frank Shellenback proporcionaron dos tantos a Oakland, así como la victoria en el décimo turno del partido.

EUGENSIA CLUB IS TO MEET TUESDAY

"HOW LIFE BEGINS" WILL BE LECTURE SUBJECT AT SOUTHWEST MUSEUM

The Eugensia Club of the Southwest Museum will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the history hall of the museum, where Dr. E. S. Bickford will present a film entitled "How Life Begins." This will be followed by a brief talk on "Nature Relating to the Human Family," by Gladys Jewett Gowdy, member of the International Audubon Society. A short musical program will precede the lecture. Immediately following the program an informal tea will be served.

On this date the mothers attending will be permitted to drop whatever question they may choose into the question oox, and it will be answered the following week by experts in their particular field.

All mothers interested in this activity are cordially invited to come and enjoy both an attractive and interesting afternoon.

BRYAN FIGHT LOOMS IN CHURCH ASSEMBLY

HIS DESIRE FOR OFFICE TO BE ABSORBING TOPIC OF PRESBYTERIANS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, May 6.—The Presbyterian General Assembly, which convenes at Indianapolis the 17th inst., will have many absorbing topics to dispose of. First in importance is the question of whether William Jennings Bryan will be able to muster enough votes to make him the moderator.

Many of the church leaders were disturbed last year at the General Assembly meeting in Des Moines when word came that Mr. Bryan was en route to the assembly with the moderator's bee buzzing in his bonnet. It was found, however, that Mr. Bryan could not be elected because he was not a duly-elected commissioner. This year he will be presented as a commissioner with full rights to an election.

One argument advanced against Mr. Bryan as mdoerator is that the Presbyterian Church will have another year of technical administrative work for which he is said to have no fondness. A desire also to avoid theological controversy, which is said to be certain if Mr. Bryan is elected, is another reason why so many will vote against him.

Several leading Chicago ministers have expressed a preference for Dr. Charles F. Wishert, president of Woostee College, as moderator.

The delegates also will thresh out the question whether there will be a heresy trial centering in the asserted heterodoxy of Harry Emerson Fosdick of New York. Dr. Fosdick preaches in a Presbyterian church, but retains his relationship with the Baptist denomination. Mr. Bryan is recognized as an opponent of Dr. Fosdick and the brand of theology he represents. The attack on the First Presbyterian Church of New York for keeping Dr. Fosdick as its pastor is being led by Dr. Clarence E. McCartney of Philadelphia.

Will Hays's plan to raise $15,000,000 for the benefit of ministerial relief will also be discussed by the assembly.

TIGERS AND OAKS SPLIT

Acorns Drop Opener, 11 to 3, but Squeeze Out Bengals in Tenth Frame of Second Game

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Had not George Lafayette embarked on a field day with the bat in yesterday's double-header, it would have been whole hog for Vernon and not even a shoat for Oakland.

But in the tenth inning of the second contest, Lafayette shot a single to center, scoring two, shattering a tie which had held on one count or another since the sixth inning, and giving the game to Oakland, 6 to 4. Lafayette was mainly the Oakland team in this brush. He was at least the elephant's biceps. George scored three of Oakland's runs and drove in the other three. Meaning that he was a personal and prominent factor in the entire score. Strange what a rumpus one guy can cause.

Vernon took the series when it romped away with the opening game, 11 to 3.

ERROR AIDS TIGERS

Elmer Reiger and Duster Mails were paired off for the twilight struggle. An error aided Vernon to a run in the first frame, but this boot would have been harmless except for Bodie's timely clout. Oakland tied in the second inning, when Knight, batting for Mails, even so early, singled across a run. Murchio started the third inning on the mound for Oakland. Right at the start, Rader slugged one through the box that injured the new pitcher's hand. Murchio stuck out the round, but Vernon registered two. Arlett relieved him at the commencement of the third inning, and Buzz was invincible except for one fleeting instant in the ninth inning. Oakland tied in the sixth inning, safeties by Cooper and Brubaker and Lafayette's two-bagger counting two.

Oakland went out in front with one in the ninth inning. Lafayette singled, was sacrificed by Brubaker and scored on M. Smith's single. Vernon came within a slide of winning in the second half, but was turned back with a tied count. One down when Chadbourne, who had been hitting well all day, shot to left. He was held at first while R. Murphy flied to Cather for the second out. Bodie then leaned on one for a right-field single, Chadbourne taking third. Schneider found one to his liking and lined it just inside the left-field line. Chadbourne came home on the play, with Bodie following in a cloud of dust. Cather took the ball close to the fence, and fired to Brubaker, whose relay to Thomas got Ping cataputing into the plate without much to spare.

REIGER HIT HARD

Reiger had been hit rather sharply in the ninth inning, and Frank Shellenback was sent forth at the start of the tenth inning. Apparently he was not right. He opened by walking McGaffigan, and Willie clicked a right-field single. Cooper grounded to the box. Cather was purposely passed, loading sacks. A double play would now send the Oaks back to the field. But Lafayette had another shot left, and he fired it to center. McGaffigan and Willie rolled in. Brubaker and Thomas were unable to get the ball out of the infield, but the frijoles had been frittered away. Nothing doing with Arlett in Vernon's tenth.

Bill James and Ray Kremer proved to be rather equally yoked in the opener. Each was cracked for a homer with somebody on base before the second inning had ceased to boil.

At the start, Kremer's delivery drew Vernon bats like a magnet draws steel pins. His first three offerings were hit safely, J. C. Smith, Chadbourne and R. Murphy concentrating singles in center with perfect unanimity, the first-named scoring. Bodie fouled for first out. P. Samson Schneider then shouldered a line smash to the same spot. Claude Cooper charged in over the now-scorched grass and tried to scoop ball in-

SPORT SHRAPNEL

By HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Frank Dillon for some weeks now has been contemplating a re-entry into baseball after an absence from the game dating back to the spring of 1916.

It is regarded as probably some club will take him on as an assistant manager or coach. This would be satisfying to Coast League fans, a majority of whom remember him favorably. Dillon would be invaluable to any club in an advisory capacity.

Dillon formerly played in the majors, holding down first base for Detroit and Brooklyn. He was brought to the Coast by Jim Morley and given the management of the Los Angeles club. In this capacity he won four championships, and in his knowledge of baseball was regarded as the equal of any man in the country. He also developed many good players, including Cravath, Ehmke, Easterly, Ellis, Oaks, Terry, McMullin, Bill Burns, Nagle and Spider Baum.

When shortly before the start of the 1916 season. Dillon was released, it was not because of inefficiency, but through the desire of Johnny Powers, owner of the club, to enliven interest in the game through a change. Also, Frank Chance was available for the position, and of course, with his reputation added several layers of luster to the establishment.

Dillon was the greatest single factor in the history of league in raising the standard of baseball, according to Jim Morley.

'When I brought Dillon to Los Angeles," said Morley, "the tone of the game was not very high. The players for the most part had been brought up in a rough school. Rowdyism on and off the field was prevalent. There were a lot of fine fellows in the game, but enough of the other kind of put it in disfavor. At that time there was only one hotel in San Francisco which would admit our team when it went north. But with the coming of Dillon there was a gradual change. Quiet, unassuming and always gentlemanly, the players began to feel the influence of his presence. A great player himself, a trifle gray, and a just manager, they also respected him. The present high tone of the game unquestionably dates back to the day that Dillon took charge of the Los Angeles club two decades ago. And his influence in this line is still felt."

Dillon put into baseball the best years of his life, and never took a great deal out. The big money was not then. Salaries, even those of managers, were meager. There are individual players today who receive more in one season than Dillon drew in his entire career. Out of his earnings he saved enough to buy a little ranch down at Yucaipa, where he has since been living.

During the next three weeks our citizens will see so many new baseball faces that they will think an extra heavy tourist rush is on.

In the first place, the Los Angeles club will be here for those three weeks, and the Angels have been away so long that they will look new. At least, they have been battered up enough to look strange. And during each of these three weeks, Manager Marty Krug's club will meet a team which has not been seen here this season.

Portland plays Los Angeles this week, Seattle the week following and last but not least, San Francisco, the third week. Rather an attractive layout. All three are interesting, colorful teams.

Explanations will be in order when the Angels return, but final judgment must be reserved until these are in. Despite a disastrous road trip they are by no means out of the race. Possibly they will be able to get thawed out and started during their stay at home, although indications are for rather a rough three weeks, perhaps rougher than Elinor ever dreamed of in her wildest forays of imagination.

Bill Essick will lead the Vernon Tigers out of town tonight, playing at Salt Lake, Sacramento and Oakland.

PICKS WILLARD TO WIN

BY HARRY NEWMAN
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 6. — We have given Jess Willard, the giant boxer from Kansas, the double o and while we are not prepared to say that he has fractured the old tradition about them never coming back, we are sure that Jess has returned sufficiently to knock over his youthful opponent, Floyd Johnson of Des Moines, when they clash for fifteen rounds at the new Yankee ball park next Saturday. It is not that we think Willard is such—a—much but that Johnson is a very poor performer and hasn't got enough to extend the slow plodding Willard. Looks like a soft spot for Jess to stage his comeback. But, it won't mean a thing. Johnson is so bad he is bound to make Willard look good.

There is no denying that Willard looks good now. But how good he is underneath the surface is something else again. No matter from what angle you try to dope that Willard-Johnson bout it looks bad. We should say after seeing Johnson stumble through his recent bout with Fred Fulton that Willard will take him in a few rounds.

BIG THREE TO DEFEND HONORS

Miss Kavanagh Will Play in Crown City Go

Many Comers May Make Going Extremely Hard

More Than a Hundred Enter Southern Event

BY BOB LOCKE

The Southern California Golf Association will stage another tournament today when the women play for the title of the South. The qualifying round will be played off today and match play will then get under way with a bang.

More than a hundred golfers have signed up to play and with the comers in the majority there will be a fast race for the crown. Needless to say the Big Three, Doreen Kavanagh, Margaret Cameron, and Mary Brown will all be there to defend their places in the golfing sun. However, there will be no walk-away for any of them as there are several entries who have been heard from more than often in late tourneys.

MRS. ROOS IS GOOD

Mrs. Robert Roos, winner of the Northern California title, will be very much in the running for Southern honors. Mrs. Roos is a very strong player and forces her opponents to the limit of their game. Pasadenans have placed their money on Miss Kathlyn Wright to walk away with the silverware. Miss Wright, one of the "younger set" has been shooting good golf lately and will put the Indian sign on her opponents if she gets half a chance.

MANY COMERS

Others who are slated to give the biggest part of the competition are Mrs. J. R. Engle, Mrs. G. M. Midgley, and many other players of prominence in the tourney.

9:30—Mrs. Guy Cochran and Miss Margaret Cameron.
9:35—Mrs. H. D. Hammond and Mrs. A. N. Edwards.
9:40—Mrs. Luther Kennett and Mrs. H. Sewell.
9:45—Miss Kathlyn Wright and Mrs. G. M. Midgely.
9:50—Mrs. Harry Voorhees and Miss Mary K. Browne.
9:55—Miss Maude Bell and Mrs. Francis McDonald.
10:00—Miss Doreen Kavanaugh and Mrs. J. R. Engle.
10:10—Mrs. M. D. Williams and Miss Hester Uhl.
10:20—Mrs. J. F. Clark and Miss Ann Webster.
10:25—Mrs. Alice Hubbard and Miss Helen Lawson.
10:30—Miss Mildred Landreth and Mrs. J. M. Read.
10:35—Mrs. H. Cartwright and Mrs. R. G. Miller.
10:45—Mrs. C. W. Cook and Mrs. C. P. Thomas.
10:55—Mrs. Maude Kegley and Mrs. L. A. Hauser.
11:00—Mrs. C. H. Earle and Miss Elizabeth Rowe.
11:05—Mrs. A. K. D. Trabue and Miss Louise Pike.
11:10—Miss Ruth Killian and Mrs. T. H. Dudley.
11:15—Mrs. L. S. Collins and Mrs. J. H. Meyering.

PERKINS IS WINNER IN HILL CLIMB

Malcom Ord Hero of Day by Many Daring Attempts to Reach San Miguel Top

That old veteran of the motorcycle-racing game, "Dud" Perkins, added another star after his name in the hall of fame yesterday, when he scaled the summit of San Miguel Hill going over the 74 per cent. 464-foot grade, the summit of San Miguel Hill, in 15 1-5s. in the annual Girard motorcycle hill climb.

Although Perkins was the only rider to scale that difficult hill, the real hero of the day was none other than Malcom Ord, a Long Beach youth. Three times he was within feet of the summit, but every time, his machine somersaulted and and deprived him of the chance to be one of the first to reach the summit of San Miguel Hill.

Now, San Miguel Hill is a much more difficult grade to climb that the one upon which the San Capistrano hill climb is held. "It's the hardest hill in the country to climb," said Perkins. "That bit of a knoll right at the peak just about makes it impossible to scale."

Frank Escobar, driving an Indian motorcycle, won the thirty-seven-inch expert event when he climbed 281½ feet up the hill. D. Dorsey, also driving an Indian, was a close second, with 278 feet to his credit.

"Speed" Humphries on a Harley Davidson won the sixty-one-inch expert event by climbing 367 feet ten inches up the stretch. The eighty-inch free-for-all went to "Dud" Perkins, while Malcom Ord was second and Sam Hamilton third.

Summary:

CELLO HERE SOON

Tommy Cello, the San Francisco lightweight, will come to Los Angeles shortly. Cello will be handled here by Lem Danniker, who is a well known ex-boxer. Cello has not had any bouts since his return from Australia, but expects to get a bout with Frankie McCann here

National Association of Amateur Billiard Players, with headquarters in New York, will shortly start competition at the 18.1 balkline style.

HOPES OF YANK PLAYERS HIGH

British and Americans Ready for Deal Tourney

First Round Matches Will be Pulled Off Today

Thirty-six Hole Play Order of Day in England

BY WALTER HAGEN

DEAL (Eng.) May 6.—American and British amateur golfers are all ready to be called to the tee for the first match round at Deal. If I were writing this story about our own amateur championship I would begin by describing the big field, the qualifying round and the possibilities of this and that one being left behind by poor medal play on the opening day.

Over here in the "tight little isle" the Royal and Ancient Club has never found it necessary to have a qualifying round, no matter how many enter the tournament. We in America figure that the combination of medal and match play makes a stiffer test of the game. We figure also that thirty-six-hole matches are the means of determining the better golfer, because the element of luck is more likely to even itself up in thirty-six holes than eighteen.

AN ALL-DAY

A thirty-six hole affair is less fatiguing and not so much of a "Merry go round;' 'one knows beforehand that he is going to meet just one opponent that day, and it should be an all-day job. This relieves one of worrying about his afternoon's opponent.

However, this championship is being played in England, and our boys must accept conditions here, but I want to go on record as predicting that some day these things will be changed, the same as we had to change our years ago.

The field of players at Deal is a large one, and our American players are hopelessly outnumbered, but should our representatives be fortunate enough to survive the first and second match rounds, they will be in a splendid position. Instead of the odds in numbers being twenty to one, it will narrow down to four or five to one. Over a hundred players will fall by the wayside on the first day, and fifty more on the second. It is not unreasonable to expect that our talent will survive the first two days' or-

Before going on the field today, Paddock made a statement to the press, in explanation of his position in participating in the games here, and expressed the hope that regardless of his own case, the American amateur organizations would get together and win next year's Olympic games. He said it should not have been his place to decide whether he should run in this meet.

"That should have been the duty of the International Students' Association, of which the American collegiate body is a member, and to which my university belongs," said Paddock. "In good faith, I was invited and in good faith I have competed. My eligibility is a question for the collegiate organization and the Amateur Athletic Union to settle. Whatever that decision may be, I desire that it may bring about definite co-operation among all the athletic bodies of my country so that America may have a glorious success in the Paris Olympic games."

EIGHT COLLEGES TO COMPETE IN MEET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—Eight college teams carrying the colors of Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Harvard, Norwich, Pennsylvania, Virginia, M.I. and U.S. Military Academy will meet in the first annual tourney at Governors' Island, N. Y., May 3, 4, 5, 8, 10, 12 and 16. It will be a lose and out affair. One game will be played on the polo field at Fort Hamilton, Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, where the teams will be quartered.

Northern Prep Tracksters Should Give South a Scare

STATE BOASTS OF MANY STARS

All Would be Certain Point Getters at Nationals

Los Angeles Must Back State Meet to Insure Trip

BY ROBERT E. RAY

Records turned in by up-State prep athletes in the Northern California Interscholastic track meet at Sacramento last Saturday threw a wrench into the dope machinery on the State meet, which will be held here at Patterson Field Saturday afternoon.

The performance of Earl Lockhart, sterling Sacramento distance runner, in winning both the half-mile and mile runs in the fast times of 1m. 59 3-5s. and 4m. 35 1-5s. stamps him as about the best now performing on high school cinder paths. The news of Lockhart's ability will be about as welcome to Southern California distance men as the word "guilty" to a man on trial for murder. Up until last Saturday it was figured that Lovejoy of Long Beach and Hansen of Manual Arts would fight it out in the 880-yard run and that Plate and Mitchell of Polytechnic would have things all their own way in the mile.

AN IRON-MAN

However, Lockhart seems to be an iron-man, something on the order of Elmer Boyden, the Vallejo star, who won firsts in the broad jump, half and quarter at the national meet at Chicago in 1921, and should make the Southern distance runners step lively in both distance events.

Sacramento High also has a quarter-miler who should make the competition in the 440 very keen. Pollock is the lad's name and he stepped the 440 in 51s. at the Northern California meet. This is better than the fastest time made by Milt Nash of Huntington Beach and if the Oiler speedster expects to win Saturday he will have no time to while away during the race.

Morton Kaer of Red Bluff was the high man of the northern meet, taking three firsts and breaking two Northern California records. Kaer won the high stick event in 15 4-5s. and rambled over the low hurdles in 24 4-5, the latter a really astounding performance. Kaer's winning leap in the broad jump was 21 ft. 5 in., which does not surpass the best jumps of Sid Meeks of Hollywood, but nevertheless it is nothing to be looked upon with scorn.

CERTAIN WINNERS

Two Northern Californians look like certain winners in the weight events. White of Modesto won the shot-put with a toss of 49 ft. 7 in., which is about a foot better than the best put of Coyne, the Hollywood weightman. Krenz of Stockton outclasses the other discus tossers in the State. At Sacramento Saturday the Stockton demon hurled the platter out 135 ft. 5½ in., which is almost ten feet better than the farthest tosses of Regli of Mountain View and Myers of Chaffey Union. Bud Houser won the discus in the Nationals last year with a throw not as far as Krenz's. Thus it is figured that Krenz would be a certain winner at Chicago this year, providing enough money is made at the State meet Saturday to defray the expense of sending a squad of California preps to the National Interscholastic Meet.

The entrance of the northern stars into the State meet also takes away points from both Hollywood and Huntington Beach and although these two schools are still favored to win, the difference between the scores of the Foothillers and Oilers at the end of the meet is expected to be very slight.

Southern California and especially Los Angeles has always been noted for its boosting and advertising of California, but next Saturday Los Angeles will have a chance to put over the biggest advertising stunt for California in its career.

On Saturday, May 12, the annual State Interscholastic track and field meet will be staged at Patterson Field, Occidental College, and upon the support rendered by the people of Los Angeles hinges whether California will be represented at the National Interscholastic Meet in Chicago May 26.

There are twenty-eight high school athletes in California right now who would be almost certain point winners in the Nationals and if they are to be sent back to Chicago, as they rightly deserve, over $3000 must be raised at the State Meet Saturday. By turning out Saturday the people of Los Angeles will not be giving their money away because they will see the best crop of high school athletes that California has produced in many years, if not in all time. Also they will be providing the means to send back to Chicago twenty-eight prep athletes who will give California more advertising than the famous University of California football eleven.

SOME BUNCH

The men who should make the trip follow: Hershall Smith of San Fernando and Archie Woodyard of Jefferson in the sprints; Pollock of Sacramento and Milton Nash of Huntington Beach in the 440; Earl Lockhart of Sacramento, Lee Hansen of Manual Arts and Cap Lovejoy of Long Beach in the half-mile; Carl Plate and Charlie Mitchell of Polytechnic in the mile; Ross Nichols and Chester Bickmore of Huntington Beach and Morton Kaer of Red Bluff in the high hurdles; Kaer and Les Wasserburger of Lincoln in the low hurdles; White of Modesto, Coyne of Hollywood, and Aleksi of Oxnard in the shot put; Krenz of Stockton, Cecil Myers of Chaffey and Regli of Mountain View in the discus; Turner of Hollywood, Nichols of Huntington Beach and Myers of Chaffey in the high jump; Harry Smith of San Diego; Lee Barnes of Hollywood and Nichols and Bickmore of Huntington Beach in the pole vault; Sid Meeks of Hollywood and Burr of Hanford in the broad jump, and the Pasadena relay four of Pollack, Hurlic, Whizar and Hassler.

Every one of the above men are high school stars of the first magnitude and it's a red hot cinch that they would come through at Chicago. Smith of San Diego recently established a new National Interscholastic record in the pole vault, clearing the bar at 12ft., 11 7-8in. Bickmore and Barnes also cleared over 12ft., which should net them second and third places. The Pasadena relay team holds the National mark of 1:32 and should be an easy winner at Chicago. If Los Angeles is unable to raise $5000, let alone $3000, it will be the first real cinch the live wires of this city ever passed up.

FILIPINOS ARE READY FOR TILT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MANILA (P. I.) May 6.—Gov.-Gen. Leonard Wood entertained at luncheon here today the Filipino athletes before their departure for Osaka, Japan, to participate in the first Olympic games with Japan and China at the Olympiad to be held in Osaka on the 21st inst. Gov.-Gen. Wood, in addressing the athletes, said: "Take care of yourselves and keep in training. Eleven million people in the Philippines will be watching your progress anxiously. We hope you will win, but win or lose, we expect you to give the best you have in you."

AZUSA WINS AGAIN

Azusa continued its winning streak by trouncing Glendora, 10 to 2, in an Orange Belt League game yesterday on the losing squad's lot. Keough, Azusa twirler, allowed but two hits, and errors by his mates were responsible for the Glendora runs. Sixteen errors were made by the two squads. Keough fanned seven and Dierks whiffed thirteen. Score:

CHICAGO, May 6.—Loy Molumby, who with Mike Collins of Minneapolis, represented business interests in Montana and landed the world's heavyweight championship match between Jack Dempsey, title holder, and Challenger Tom Gibbons of St. Paul, for Shelby, Montana, on July 4, left tonight for Great Falls to complete plans for staging the contest.

ISMAN TO BOX SOON

Sam Isman, the former amateur champion of the Coast, will box around Southern California soon. Isman is handled by Billy Craig, who was a good welterweight at one time. Craig plans to make Sam a good boy and as heavyweights are in demand now, Isman looks as good as any of the four round boys.

It will interest soccer players of this country to learn that the Football Association, the governing council of the game in England, have voted in favor of limiting the offside area to forty yards from each goal. However, a change in the existing rule can only be brought about by a majority vote of the international board in June.

Dallas is to have a motor racing speedway. Detroit and Atlantic City may soon boast similar structures.

Nine Thousand Fans Take in Thrilling Contest

Vernon Art Stars Rally and Trim Rosslyn Hotel

Before a crowd of over 9000 people, the Hollywood ball club nosed out the Pasadena Elks, 2 to 1, in a thrilling contest played yesterday afternoon at Brookside Park. Two rookie castoffs, Awerkamp, formerly of the Angels, and Miller, one-time Tiger, engaged in a thrilling twirling duel, with Awerkamp having an edge.

The former Angel allowed but three hits, fanned eight and walked two, and was steadiness personified all during the air-tight struggle, and only in one inning, the sixth, did the Elks manage to bunch two hits off him. Miller also pitched a whale of a game, being touched for only five bingles. Miller fanned six and walked one, and after the third inning chucked scoreless ball.

Garrity scored both the Hollywood tallies, scoring in the first on his own single, a sacrifice hit, an infield out and Manager Carleton's single over second base. Leak drove Garrity across in the third. Sinclair counted for the Elks in the sixth on his single, an infield out and Hillman's one-base blow. The same teams will meet next Sunday afternoon in the dedicating game of the Hollywood club's new ball park. The score:

RALLY IN NINTH NABS

After Filbert, Rosslyn Hotel twirler and Littlefield, Vernon Art Stars' pitcher, had engaged in a pitchers' battle for eight innings, the former blew sky-high in the ninth and the Art Stars chased nine runs over the plate before the carnage could be stopped. The final score was 9 to 1. Up to the rally the Rosslyn Hotel crew was leading, 1 to 0. Fleming of the Vernon Arts nine was the hitting star, with a homer, two doubles and two singles out of five trips to the plate. The score:

HYNES IS VICTOR

Hynes had things all its own way on its own lot yesterday and defeated Palomar, 10 to 4, in a game marked by the ragged playing of the losers, who committed five errors. Steiner, on the mound for Hynes, toyed with the Palomar sluggers, allowing them but seven hits. The score:

deal, as they are scheduled to meet some very ordinary players with one or two exceptions. The first match round is always the hardest. I recall that Bob Gardner had a difficult time at Muirfield on the first day, but after this strain was over he sailed through easily to the final round.

UPSETS DOPE

Jerry Travers was an eight-to-one favorite to win the title over here at Sandwich in 1914, yet he lost to an inferior golfer on the first day's play. I always will believe that if Jerry had survived that first ordeal he would have won that championship.

Sandwich lies next door to Deal, yet is a vastly different golfing proposition. It has been the scene of many tragedies in International conflicts. Walter Travis putted his way to a British championship just nineteen years ago. It was a big upset for British golf and regarded at the time as a genuine disaster, yet in all these years no American entry has won another title.

Evans was defeated decisively here the same year that Travers lost despite the fact that he played par golf. Ouimet also suffered defeat when he was looked upon as a good betting proposition. It was then that he was right at the top of his game. These were little tragedies for American golf. It was here at Sandwich that I won my title last year. As I look across the sand dunes the old place looks strangely familiar to me. This event last June was another tragedy for the British.

An eventful day is just ahead of us. There will be much to record tomorrow in the way of actual news, of surprises and disappointments.

WARREN STAR AT TRAPS

Local Shooter Scores High With 98x100 Score; Reed Runner-up in Vernon Weekly Tourney

W. G. Warren shot his way to top place in the registered club trapshooting tournament, held yesterday at the Vernon Gun Club.

The good score of 98x100 was turned in by Warren and for such a good piece of gun pointing, he took first choice of the slabs of bacons on hand for all shooters and a Vernon Club take home silver trophy.

REED RUNNER-UP

Lou Reed was the runner-up in the event with a score of 97x100. This latter score was equaled by Don Morrison, the Peters' professional, but professional shooters when it comes to getting in on trophies are out of luck like a pug nosed ant eater.

Stan Bruner with his rusty pump gun and standing at twenty yards bombarded his way to top hole in the fifty-target handicap shoot. His score was 49x50. A choice ham was his end of the purse.

Hams also were awarded to West, Warren, Hebdon and Morrison, so Morrison wasn't so badly out of luck after all. Despite the trout season being on throughout the State, a crowd of thirty shooters turned out at Vernon for the day's gun pointing.

INDIANS OPEN POW-WOW

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DEL MONTE, May 6.—The California Indians sport pow-wow opens here tomorrow with a trapshooting event in the morning, and blind bogey golf in the afternoon. More than 200 sportsmen will participate in the events.

Washington & Jefferson College has introduced golf. Enthusiasts want it added to varsity sports.

TIGERS SPLIT WITH OAKLAND

stead of playing it for a single. The ball shot through him and darted to the fence for a hot-house home run, meaning one which blooms inside the fence. Chad and Murphy counted ahead of Pete. This made four runs in with only one out, but there was only slight activity on the part of the Oakland Volunteers of America, who apparently had adopted the Salvation Army slogan, "A man may be down, but he's never out."

KREMER STAYED IN

So Kremer stayed in and worked out his own destiny. Gorman and Murphy singled farther down the line, but not until after Rader had been retired, and James made it three.

It being a rough-and-ready pastime, the Oaks snapped into James for three in the second. Cather led off with infield single. George Lafayette then lifted the ball into third tier of the right field bleachers, which gave the four-bit customers a close-up of a home run. Two in, and tambourines sounding down the line. James was somewhat jarred by the home run and the wild music. A melodeon was the only thing which would have soothed him right then. He walked Brubaker and Thomas spanked him for a single, sending Bru to third. Jim Jolly then walked down the sawdust trail to the box, and Bill went to do penance in the clubhouse by taking a bath. Jim walked one, but only one more run counted, Brubaker slipping across when Kremer drove into a double play. McGaffigan lined to Bodie.

This made it close, but the score subsequently drifted far apart. Chadbourne singled in second, scoring from first when Cooper cuffed and booted Rod Murphy's single around center field. Claude appeared to be sparring with the ball and getting the worst of it. The next inning he was placed on the bench to recuperate, and Johnson singled for him.

ANOTHER IN FIFTH

Chadbourne gave Vernon another run in the fifth inning, when he singled and registered on Bodie's strong he-man double. Kremer's pitching was soup for Chadbourne. Three times in a row Chet had hit the first ball served by Kremer for a single on the theory that the soup is served first. Chad clouted his fourth in the sixth inning, an infield single, but it was not a soup or salad hit, being forked off Kremer's third offering. Three registered in this round, one being driven in by Jolly. Then Jim sent Gorman around the paths with a triple in the seventh inning, and after a period of refreshment following his hard run, leisurely checked in on J. C. Smith's double.

Jolly was in the best form he has displayed this season, subduing the Oaks with four hits after taking hold in the second inning.

Not a $5.00 brand cheapened to Dollar appeal, but the original $1.00 razor in a Five Dollar Edition.

For twenty years GEM has said that no razor could be worth $5.00 as long as the Gem is $1.00. Competition now grudgingly admits it.

When they met our $1.00 price we met their $5.00 standard—just to keep up the value difference.

Take this Gem De Luxe Supreme for instance. You will admit it's certainly $5.00 standard in every respect. As a matter of fact it surpasses the picture.

The price is just $1.00 for the handsome Ivory-like case complete with razor outfit. Heavy nickel plate is sanitary and wears forever; gold film plate only wears off. A supply of Gem Double Life Blades completes the outfit.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

Answered by
ED ROMMEL

Pitcher, Philadelphia Athletics, who won more games than any pitcher in either league last season, although a member of a tail-end team.

• • •

I have always paid a great deal of attention to my fielding, when in the pitcher's box. Skill in fielding is a big asset to any pitcher. It is something every hurler should master. It pays, too, to practice covering first base on bunts. The fact that there are other men behind him is no excuse for poor fielding on a pitcher's part.

OLD HERO AGAIN IDOL OF FRANCE

the champion then. In this round he repeatedly threw away all discretion in trying to land a variety of blows, but they failed to reach their mark. It was Georges's round. The terrific infighting and speed shown by the former champion won him the sympathy of the crowd.

SAVED BY BELL

Coming in for the fifth round, Carpentier rushed his opponent with a deluge of infighting. He shot out his right and registered a terrific punch to the stomach of Nilles, who protested to the referee that the blow was too low. The referee decided that the blow was fair. It was only the bell that saved Nilles.

The heavyweight champion, thereafter, showed that he was at a disadvantage, covering his head to protect his weakness.

The "idol" saw his opportunity in the eighth as Nilles opened his guard. Quick as a flash Georges's right shot out. It landed cleanly on Nilles's chin, flooring him. Those at the ringside said the blow was a perfect uppercut to the point of the jaw. It literally lifted Nilles from the floor.

As the seventh second was being counted over Nilles he turned over on his back and motioned that he "abandoned" the contest.

Reds Break Losing Streak by Winning, 8 to 7

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BROOKLYN (N. Y.) May 6.—Andy High's double with the bases full drove Weinert out of the box and aided materially in Brooklyn's victory over Philadelphia by 7 to 4. Cadore pitched his first game of the season and was steady until the ninth, when he gave three bases on balls. Fournier made his debut with Brooklyn, relieving Schliebner when Manager Fletcher sent in Winters, a right-handed pitcher. Fournier fielded well, but made no hits, walking once and grounding out the next time. Cy Williams made his eighth home run of the season, with nobody on, in the eighth. Score:

CARDS CONQUER

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) May 6.—St. Louis made it three out of four from Chicago by smothering the Cubs, 16 to 4 here today. Rogers Hornsby, home run batting champion, knocked out two home runs, bringing his season's total to four. The Cardinals pounded the pitching of Osborne and Cheeves to all corners of the ball park and Chicago's defense was very ragged. Score:

SALT LAKE COPS TWO IN SERIES

Wilhoit Knocks Four Men in With a Homer and Wins Game for Team

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, May 6. Salt Lake won the two final games of the series with Sacramento, 13 to 8, and 5 to 2. In the first game, the Bees overcame a six-run lead, due largely to a home run with the bases full, by Wilhoit, in the fourth. After Penner had been knocked out in the first inning of the second game, Canfield and Singleton had a neat pitching tussle, only four hits being made off each. The Senators won the series, 4 to 2. The score:

Beavers Grab Pair and Take League Lead

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 6.—Before 13,000 people, Portland regained first place by taking today's double-header from Seattle, 8 to 7, and 3 to 0. The double win gave the Beavers the series, 6 games to 1. In the first game, Manager Middleton managed to squeeze out a victory for himself, though the Suds crowded him at all times. In the second, Schroeder was in superior form. He held the Suds to seven hits, struck out eight, and only in one inning, the sixth, did a Seattle batter get to third base. Blake pitched good ball also, but Brazill's homer in the seventh with one on, encompassed his ruin. Poole hit another, his second of the afternoon, in the next inning. The scores:

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—The Philadelphia Americans made it 2 out of 3 from New York here today, winning the deciding game, 5 to 1. It was the first series Philadelphia has taken from the Yankees in years. Rommell was effective with men on bases, Witt and Ruth doing most of New York's hitting. Jones lost his second game of the series, but was handicapped by poor support. A new attendance record was established for a three-game series, 110,000 persons attending the three games between New York and the Athletics. Score:

DOUBLE PLAYS FEATURE

CHICAGO, May 6.—In a game featured by double plays, five of which were made by the White Sox, Chicago made it three straight from Detroit today, 4 to 3, before a crowd of approximately 32,000. Charley Robertson, backed by great support, held the visitors until the eighth inning, when a rally gave Detroit the lead, the locals having scored two runs previous. Chicago won the game in the eighth, when they bunched hits off Francis. Score:

SEAMAN IS LOST FROM DESTROYER

Local Boy Swept Away in High Seas Off Point Loma Buoy

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, May 6.—Harold Crater, seaman, who enlisted in the Navy from Los Angeles, was lost overboard late Saturday night when the destroyer Farragut was passing the whistling buoy off Point Loma. Crater was a son of Mrs. Anna Crater Zeigler, 1750 West Avenue 46, Los Angeles.

The destroyed was breasting the heavy swells off Point Loma when young Crater lost his footing and was swept from the deck. The engines immediately were reversed and the Farragut brought to a stop a short distance from where the young man went overboard. Boats were launched and strong searchlights played on the water for several hours, but no trace of the missing youth was found.

The Farragut and the mine sweeper Partridge spent most of today searching for Crater's body without success.

SCOUTS AT ORANGE GET EAGLE BADGES

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ORANGE, May 6.—The crowning event in scoutdom came Friday night for five Orange county Boy Scouts when they were presented eagle badges, the highest individual award in scouting circles, at a monster scout rally in the Orange High School Auditorium.

The boys who received the badges were Charles Miles, 13 years of age, Orange; Jack McFadden, Anaheim; Harvey Durkee, Newport Beach; Kenneth Ward, Huntington Beach, and Lanier Davis, Fullerton.

The program was under charge of Leon O. Whitsell of Orange, chairman of the County Court of Honor. Other members of the court who participated in the ceremonies were R. R. Miller, Santa Ana; C. C. Smith, Anaheim, and E. J. Marks, Fullerton. Frank Henderson, principal of the Orange High School, gave the investiture ceremony talk to the eagle scouts.

REDLANDS MAN TAKES POSITION IN CANADA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, May 6.—Archie M. Pratt, who for years was sales manager for the Mutual Orange Distributors here, and who recently resigned, has been made manager of the deciduous fruit growers and farmers in British Columbia, an organization just completed by Louis Supiro.

Mr. Pratt was urged to go to British Columbia to investigate the prospects of the company. It is an organization of all the deciduous fruit growers and most of the farmers of the whole section, with the exception of those affiliated with what are known as the Nash interests.

Mr. Pratt was just recently elected the president of the Rotary Club, and sent his resignation to that organization by wire.

VACATION BIBLE STUDY IS PLANNED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SOUTH GATE, May 7.—Vacation Bible study is being planned for the Community Church during the month of July, beginning on the second and ending on the twenty-eighth with a big picnic.

These sessions will be held in the morning beginning Monday and continuing five days during the week, at which time a competent instructor will be selected to conduct these classes. Rev. David Brigham, pastor of the church, announces that sessions held last summer were highly successful. The sessions will be of three hours duration.

MONROVIA WILL HAVE BIRTHDAY

Thousands of Children to be Entertained

Interesting Contest is on for Queenship

Valley Quintet to Observe Town's Founding

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MONROVIA, May 6.—Five little girls are candidates for queen of Monrovia day, to be celebrated the 19th inst. Thousands of children of the San Gabriel Valley will be the city's special guests, as the day's festivities will be devoted to the youngsters, from the parade of the fairies in the morning to the games and May Day dancing of the evening. The day is the city's birthday, when Monrovians celebrate and invite old friends in for a reunion and picnic.

This year there will be an all-States picnic, with registration booths and other details that have proved popular elsewhere. Former residents of eastern and middle western States are already planning to broadcast invitations to their former friends and neighbors to visit them.

FAIRY PARADE

The fairy parade will take the place of the regular floral pageant of the morning and promises to be unique in the extreme. Each float is to represent some fairy story or well-known character of childhood's literature. There will be industrial, automobile, civic and other divisions as well.

Another event for the coming celebration is to be the Boy Scouts' marathon, to be run over a course embracing half a dozen valley cities, finishing on Monrovia Field. A huge silver trophy cup is offered as the prize for the scout troop winning the marathon.

For the queen candidate who wins the most votes in proportion to the enrollment of her school, regal honors and much entertainment is promised. As an additional prize, there will be a remarkable doll's house, complete in every architectural detail, with furniture, carpets, curtains, etc.

IT COMES APART

The house can be taken apart and is a replica of the handsome colonial home of H. E. Waterman, head of the Monrovia Lumber and Milling Company, by whom it is offered the queen. Balloting on the candidates is going forward with much enthusiasm, and closes next Saturday evening. The candidates include Kathryn McKusick, Orange-avenue School; Mercedes Tusquelles, Charlotte-avenue School; Dorothy Backman, Catholic School; Frances Hornung, Wild Rose School, and Mary Elizabeth Byles, Linwood-avenue School.

Prominent Monrovians are interested in the success of the coming civic holiday, which has been celebrated nearly every year since Monrovia's founding in 1886. John B. McBratney, president of the Rotary Club, has charge of the parade. Walter E. Keefe, Chamber of Commerce president, and Harold B. Dunn, local architect, are keenly interested in directing the coming Monrovia day, which will, it is believed, set a new record for affairs of the kind.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HUNTINGTON PARK, May 6.—"Baby Jimmie" is the name that has been given to the deserted boy baby which was found under a large walnut tree at Benson and Florence Boulevard, at the edge of this city and Walnut Park, Thursday afternoon of last week.

Although the baby has not been claimed by its parents, the child will not go wanting for a home, as several visitors called at the Huntington Park Hospital today and said they would be willing to adopt the child. Dr. J. H. Turner of the hospital, stated that the baby is getting along splendidly.

BOAT TIPS, MAN DROWNS

Two Companions Attempt Rescue But Barely Succeed In Reaching Shore Near Capistrano

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, May 6.—Though a good swimmer, Lloyd K. Scott, 23 years of age, lost his nerve, and with it his life, today when he was dumped into the ocean by a swell at Serra, near San Juan Capistrano.

Scott was employed on a road contractor's gang and was camping near the job with his wife and baby. This morning he started on a fishing trip with Hobart Purdy and Clifford Moore. They went in a small launch. It was a little foggy and the men apparently became confused when a sudden swell capsized the small craft.

Instead of attempting to swim, Purdy and Moore said, Scott became panic stricken and clung to them when they attempted to aid him. There was danger that all three would go down and Scott's companions had to shake him off. Before they could make any further attempts at rescue, Scott sank and Purdy and Moore had a hard fight to reach shore. They were completely exhausted when they reached the beach.

Sheriff Sam Jernigan was notified by tlephone and arrived shortly after Scott's body was washed ashore. He summoned Coroner C. D. Brown, who held an inquest at Capistrano and returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

Scott was employed by the Oswell Construction Company of Los Angeles and was originally from Colorado. His body was brought to Santa Ana. The drowning took place off San Juan Point, about 150 feet from shore, where the surf was running heavy this morning.

Two Asserted Reds Arrested at Long Beach

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, May 6.—Two asserted Wobblies said to have been distributing circulars among oil workers at Watson Junction were placed in the Long Beach jail today on vagrancy charges. They gave their names as L. Schultz, 50 years of age, of Los Angeles Harbor, and R. Julian, 40, no address.

Deputy Sheriff Thomas Cavanaugh, former Venice Chief of Police, and other officers made the arrests. They declared the men were seeking to persuade oil wagon drivers to strike and that ten men quit their jobs after the arrests were made.

SANITARIUM BURNS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, May 6.—The Otter Lake Sanitarium, 25 miles northeast of Flint, about to be taken over by the American Legion of Michigan for an orphanage, was destroyed by fire with a loss of $80,000. A defective chimney is believed to have caused the fire.

MINISTER AND WIFE CELEBRATE

Friends Honor Aged Glendale Couple

Rev. Charles R. Norton and Wife

GLENDALE, May 6.—In the presence of the congregation at the First Methodist Church, Rev. Charles R. Norton and his wife for fifty years, Amanda Jane Norris Norton, were remarried this morning after the regular church service as a part of a golden wedding anniversary celebration. Rev. J. C. Kendrick of Pasadena, the minister who read their marriage service fifty years ago today, officiated and gave his blessing.

Rev. Norton has been a Glendale resident for twenty years. He organized the First Methodist Church here in 1903, and served as pastor for four years. In 1910 the Casa Verdugo Methodist Church was organized under his leadership. After serving here for three years he retired and has lived since at 801 East Wilson avenue, Glendale.

Their eldest son, William Norton and youngest daughter, Mrs. Alma Hillyard were the attendants at this morning's ceremony. All of their six children are living in Los Angeles County and were present at the dinner today, as were their five grand-children and one great-grandchild. The children are Mrs. Lester Jones of Glendale, Mrs. Alma Hillyard of Los Angeles, William R. Norton of Los Angeles, Edward and Ernest of Los Angeles and Cecil Norton of Glendale.

Last Friday at a joint meeting of the G.A.R. and W.R.C., a luncheon and reception was given in their honor, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Dufur, of Burbank, who has been married sixty years, sharing honors with the Nortons.

Rev. Norton was born in 1845 at Marietta, Ohio, and served throughout the Civil War with the One Hundred Forty-eighth Ohio Volunteers.

The couple were married May 6, 1873, at the home of Mrs. Norton's father, near Birmingham, in Van Buren County, Iowa, which was Mrs. Norton's birthplace seventy years ago.

Rev. Kendricks also ordained Rev. Norton as a minister four years previous to his marriage.

OH GIRLS! AIN'T IT AWFUL!

Mere Man Tries to Win Queen Honors in College Race; Fair Whittier Students Can't See It

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WHITTIER, May 6.—A man-size revolution is brewing on the Whittier College campus, and the stalwart male element is demanding recognition, decidedly and definitely.

The battlecry is, "No taxation without representation."

How come?

The girls at the college are soon to stage the second annual Woman's Athletic Association carnival, and decided that to add to the interest of the occasion, and incidentally to the exchequer, they would choose a queen by popular vote and charge a small sum for each vote.

At a meeting of the student body it was announced that a secret vote would be taken, and the five names receiving the highest number of votes in this, the primary election, would be placed on the ticket. Harold Cunningham, member of the Men's Glee Club of the college, has been doing some female impersonating in the entertainments given this season, and his stuff has gone over big, so his associates decided to put him on the ticket.

His vote entitled him to a place on the ticket, but the tellers at the primary, either through ignorance of the arrangement, or by intent, left his name off the ballot, which read: Miss Mary Chambers, Miss Mildred King, Miss Alice Hawley, Miss Dorothy Williams, Miss Mabel Simpkins.

Immediately the men got busy on a plan of action and organized a campaign to boost Cunningham. They formed a "Percy for Queen" club, with James Robinson, president; Albert Behnke, campaign manager, and Vernon Hanna for publicity. The men declare that Harold ("Percy") is to win if it takes their last dollar. Stratagems, designs of artifice and subtle devices are under way, to be unloosed when the psychological time arrives.

"Percy," who is blond, petite and has a pleasing personality, is not perturbed, and when informed of the honor thrust upon him, left immediately for home to shave and effect a cosmetic renovation. The contest closes Thursday and the carnival is to be held the latter part of the month.

Pomona Gets Collection of Valued Plants

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLAREMONT, May 6.—The herbarium, valued at $125,000, which Pomona College recently purchased from Prof. Marcus E. Jones of the University of Utah, has arrived on the campus and is being placed by Dr. Philip A. Munz, head of the department of botany. Prof. Jones will reach here before the 10th inst. from Salt Lake City.

The herbarium is coming together with the library and geological collection of Prof. Jones. The geological specimens will be placed in the department rooms on the first floor of the Mason hall of chemistry by A. O. Woodford, head of the department. The lantern slides in the collection will be housed in Harwood Court. Prof. Jones plans to make his home in Claremont, and will co-operate with Dr. Munz in the arrangement of his famous collection, the purchase of which was made possible by Miss Ellen Scripps of San Diego.

He will also complete his manual for the study of plants of the great plateau covering the region from the Rockies to the Sierras. He will also give lectures in the department of botany at Pomona.

SHOP FORCE INCREASED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, May 6.—An official of the Michigan Central has announced that the Marshall shop force will be increased until it is about doubled. The number of men employed now is the largest in the history of the local railroad shops. Owing to the scarcity of houses in Marshall, many men from the farms go to work there, going back and forth daily.

OLIVE WILL CELEBRATE

Program on Friday Will Let the World Know About Growth of Canyon Gateway City

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ORANGE, May 6.—A celebration at Olive, to tell the world of the homesite beauties of the canyon gateway city, which is expected to attract a huge throng, will be conducted Friday.

The program will include an outdoor barbecue, band concert, speeches, radio concert and tour of inspection of the various orange packing and industrial plants, ending at night with a dance.

A lot in the Olive Improvement Association tract will be given away.

Olive, located at the gateway to the Santa Ana Canyon, has grown from a village with a few hundred inhabitants to a thriving town with splendid industrial and homesite possibilities. A new brick business block is under course of construction, sidewalks and curbs are being laid, street improvements will soon commence and new residences are rising by the score.

The town has three orange packing plants, a brick yard, lumber yard, flour mill, citrus by-products plant and other flourishing plants.

Improvements to the domestic water plant of the Olive Improvement Association are under way, including the sinking of a second well. Several thousand feet of new water mains are under consideration from the reservoir to the center of town. The gateway city recently acquired gas service.

WOMAN INVALID ENDS OWN LIFE

Husband Was Away Seeking Attendant

Victim Found in Gas-Filled Apartment

Coroner Waives Inquest Into Cause of Death

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

OCEAN PARK, May 6.—While her husband, Louis Hoffman, was in Los Angeles seeking a nurse to take care of her, Mrs. Tinny Hoffman, 51 years of age, an asthma sufferer, ended her life today with the fumes of illuminating gas.

Hoffman returned home about 6 p.m. with the nurse, Mrs. A. Courtner of 1044 Manhattan street, Los Angeles. They found Mrs. Hoffman sitting in the kitchen, with all doors and windows shut tight, and two jets of the gas stove turned on full. She had been dead some time.

The police investigated the case and informed Coroner Nance it was undoubtedly suicide. The Coroner decided no inquest was necessary and gave permission for the removal of her body to Draper's undertaking establishment in Los Angeles.

In Los Angeles the Hoffmans lived at the corner of Tenth and Olive streets. Mrs. Hoffman has been ill several years, her husband said, and was very nervous.

Auto Driven by Wife of Boxer Kills Woman

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, May 5.—Mrs. Ruby Price of Colton was killed and Mrs. Joseph Strombey of the same city was injured tonight when they were run down by an automobile driven by Mrs. Philip R. Sheller. Mrs. Sheller fainted when she saw she would hit the pedestrians. Her husband, a boxer known as "Young" Sheller, stopped the car. Both were arrested and are held in the County Jail pending the Coroner's investigation.

AUTO CRASHES MAIM FOUR

Orange County Contributes to Sunday's List of Motor Mishaps in Southland

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, May 6.—Two women were hurt and the lives of three other persons were endangered today when an automobile driven by E. E. Peck of Orange turned over following a collision on East Seventeenth street.

All five persons were pinned beneath the car and were rescued with difficulty. Fortunately the vehicle did not catch fire.

Mrs. Goldie Sargent, a nurse at St. Vincent's Hospital, Los Angeles, one of the injured, received a broken collarbone. The other injured woman was Mrs. A. Wallace of Gardena. She suffered a wrenched back and perhaps internal injuries. Both were taken to the Santa Ana Hospital.

Mrs. Sargent's daughter, Sarah Sargent, and another girl, Katherine Ecklund, were the other passengers. They were slightly bruised. Peck, driver of the car, was unhurt, and those in the other vehicle also escaped injury.

TWO IN HOSPITALS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ORANGE, May 6.—Two persons were in the County Hospital near here tonight, both victims of automobile accidents. Mrs. A. C. McGuire was receiving emergency treatment for injuries received in an accident near Irvine.

Fred Borette, Huntington Beach was confined to the institution with both jaws fractured, following an auto accident near the beach town last night.

Borette was brought to the hospital this morning in a dazed condition. According to attendants, the man is in a stupor and cannot furnish any details of how he came to be hurt save that it was in an auto accident.

SAILOR BADLY HURT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FULLERTON, May 6.—In an automobile accident here today, G. W. Schessler, 21 years of age, a sailor from the U.S.S. Arizona, stationed at Los Angeles Harbor, was probably fatally hurt, and two girl companions were injured. Schessler's chest was crushed and he received other injuries.

The girls were Della Vinnig, 14 years of age, of Long Beach, and Irene Wombolt, 16, of Fullerton. Miss Wombolt's arm was broken and Miss Vinnig was bruised.

The trio were riding on West Commonwealth street in a stripped car at high speed, according to witnesses, when they struck a chuckhole. The car bounded and plunged to the sidewalk, where it struck a fire hydrant, breaking it off and sending a stream of water high into the air. The car was demolished by the impact and the sailor was jammed into the wreckage.

Schessler was rushed to the Fullerton Hospital, where it was said his death was expected. The girls were also treated at the hospital, and then went home.

TEN HURT IN WRECKS OF AUTOS

Nine in One Machine Are Injured When It Turns Over at Long Beach

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, May 6.—Ten persons were injured in two automobile accidents here last night, when a car containing nine persons was turned over in a collision at Fourth street and Obispo avenue about midnight, every member of the party was injured. B. A. Buxton, 741 Prospect avenue, driver of the car, suffered severe head injuries and was taken to Seaside hospital in a semi-conscious condition. He will recover.

Mrs. Buxton and four children were cut and bruised. Mrs. Rosa DeBolt, 740 Prospect avenue, suffered severe lacerations and bruises, and her daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Childs, was injured slightly. Miss Helen Beaver, 710 Prospect avenue, was cut about the face and body and bruised.

J. J. Seery, 185 Obispo avenue, driver of the car which collided with the Buxton machine, escaped uninjured.

Bumped on the flood control bridge of West Anaheim street with such force that the car turned over, a machine driven by H. Waldorf 1126 Cromwell street, Los Angeles, was wrecked early this morning. Mrs. Waldorf was severely bruised about the hope, and was given medical aid at Seaside Hospital. Mr. Waldorf and Mr. and Mrs. K. Jones and daughter, 1322 West Ninety-third street, Los Angeles, other occupants of the car, escaped injury. The car which struck the Waldorf machine was driven by D. M. Scott, 115 Golden avenue, Long Beach, according to police reports.

FILM NEWLYWEDS MUST BE AT STUDIOS TODAY

Barbara La Marr and New Husband Jack Dougherty, Have Calls for Work This Morning

BY LINTON WELLS

"Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA BARBARA, May 6.—Screenland's newest married couple—the lovely, vampirish Barbara La Marr and handsome Jack Dougherty—are honeymooning in the beautiful Persian garden of the Hotel Samarkand here today. Arriving here shortly before 1 o'clock a.m., following their elopement to Ventura, Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty retired to their suite, for which reservations had been previously made.

No one accompanied the happy couple. Immediately following the ceremony, performed in the First Congregational Church at Ventura by Rev. Dr. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty, in the bride's red racer, drove northward, while other members of the bridal party returned to Los Angeles.

Only the most intimate friends and members of Miss La Marr's family were acquainted with the marriage plans, and all were sworn to secrecy.

But somehow the news "leaked," and the party was confronted by a newspaperman as they were entering the home of County Clerk Hallowell. Miss La Marr and Dougherty were accused of intent to commit matrimony and finally confessed. At first they wouldn't talk, but were prevailed on finally to acquaint The Times correspondent with the details of their romance.

Eighteen months ago they met, and shortly thereafter Dougherty developed into an importuning suitor. At every opportunity he pleaded with Miss La Marr to marry him. "No," "Some day—perhaps," and similar repoinders greeted his pleas.

Miss La Marr, by her own admission, did not decide to marry Dougherty until 1 p.m. yesterday.

"I had made up my mind to marry Jack some day," she admitted, naively, "but at noon today I had no more idea of marrying him than—well—than of marrying—you. Then—well—I just decided."

Dougherty didn't know he was going to marry Miss La Marr until shortly after 6 p.m. last night, when he arrived at her home for dinner, tired after a hard day's work. His career had almost come to an abrupt end—his horse, in rearing, had fallen backward and pinned him beneath. In consequence, he was somewhat lame.

Miss La Marr greeted him thus: "I have news for you."

"Yes?" inquiringly.

"Yes—you're going to be married tonight."

According to Miss La Marr, Jack's jaw dropped several inches.

"Huh!" he gasped.

Dinner was promptly forgotten. Jack made an unsuccessful attempt to get a license in Los Angeles, and failing, directed his efforts toward Ventura. Enlisting the aid of a friend, all arrangements were finally completed, and at 8:30 o'clock the party slipped away from Miss La Marr's Hollywood home. At 11:10 they were married. The bride wore a dark blue sport suit with hat and shoes to match; Dougherty wore street clothes.

One happy touch was added to the ceremony at the last moment. Dr. Patterson's young daughter appeared just as the two were about to depart. She bemoaned the fact that she was not present at the ceremony. Rushing up to Miss La Marr, she cried her joy over seeing the star, explaining with childish enthusiasm her admiration.

"I have your picture on my bedroom wall," she told Barbara, "and I think you're just wonderful." The star responded with a happy laugh, words of thanks and a kiss.

Dougherty is a genial, redheaded Irishman, 26 years of age. He has been appearing in pictures for about three years. Prior to this he was on the legitimate stage and for a time was connected with the Morosco and Majestic stock companies. Universal is now starring him in two-reel western dramas. He is a Missourian and had not been married before.

Miss La Marr is 27 years of age and is one of filmdom's most celebrated beauties. She had been married before.

About June 1 Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty will leave for Europe, where the bride will play the leading role in "The Eternal City." On her return she will appear in a spectacular Universal production.

The honeymooners expect to leave here tonight for Los Angeles. Miss La Marr has a 9 o'clock call tomorrow morning at the Niblo studios and her husband must show up at Universal City about 8.

BURKE TO SPEAK ON NARCOTICS

Identification Experts Are Gathering Here for State Convention Next Week

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, May 6.—An address on narcotics by Joseph C. Burke, United States District Attorney for Southern California, will be a feature of the opening day of the ninth annual convention of the State division, International Association for Identification, here on the 16th inst., President Freid B. Kutz announced today.

A four-day program filled with talks on identification work and criminology themes has been prepared. Capt. Thomas B. Foster of the United States Secret Service will speak on co-operation between the government service and identification bureaus. Sheriff Traeger, Judge Keetch and Nick Harris are among the Los Angeles persons who have places on the program.

Finger prints and recent improvements in the science of crime detection and identification will be among the important subjects to be discussed by experts. The lie detector and its possibilities will be debated by the convention.

NEW PASTOR ENTERS UPON HIS DUTIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HUNTINGTON PARK, May 7.—Rev. N. Zulch, who was recently called to become pastor of the First Christian Church, began his work here today preaching both morning and evening. Mr. Zulch, who has been at the head of the Christian Church in Jackson, O., was here two years ago, and on driving over the city Saturday remarked at the wonderful growth of Huntington Park since his last visit.

PARROT IS SUCCESS AS BURGLAR ALARM

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, May 6.—A parrot served as a burglar alarm in the residence of Mrs. Emma Bennett, 238 Molino avenue, last night, and frightened away a thief who was ransacking the home.

Jewelry and silverware were left untouched after two watches had been taken from a bedroom during the absence of the family. Police, in attempting to determine why the burglar had apparently left hurriedly, were startled to hear a voice in the kitchen near the bedroom which had been ransacked, crying "Hello! hello, what do you want?" Investigation showed an excited parrot.

NEW DRILLING AREA OPENED

Torrance Industrial District Restrictions Removed

Approximately 100 Acres Are Affected by Action

Many Lease Deals Expected to be Closed Soon

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TORRANCE, May 6.—Removal of restriction against drilling for oil in the industrial district at this place is regarded as one of the most important developments of the past week. This opens up approximately 100 acres that have long been considered excellent oil land, and is expected to result in a number of big lease deals being closed immediately.

The bulk of the industrial property lies just west of Western avenue and the 137-acre Standard Oil lease east of Torrance. It also adjoins the R. W. Edens lease on which the first well to test the district east of the city is being drilled.

PETITION SIGNED

The removal of the restrictions followed the signing of a petition by all the landowners in the industrial district to open it up for drilling. The property was first sold under the declaration of the Dominguez Land Corporation, the original owners of the property, and it was not until two-thirds of the property owners in the district signed the petition that the Dominguez people were permitted to alter the declaration binding the first sales. The amendment to the declaration was passed by the directors of the corporation Thursday.

The progress in Frier No. 1 on the Hub Oil Company's lease on the west side of Torrance is being watched closely as this well is to be put down deeper than the other wells in the immediate vicinity. It is the belief of the Hub drillers that Smith No. 1, now making around 800 barrels, was not put down quote far enough. Smith No. 1 is about 300 feet south of the Frier well. The drill in that well was stopped on a hard shale formation which many now think should have been penetrated. Virtually all the oil men are confident that bigger production will be found in this district if the wells are put down to the right depth.

LEASE CLOSED

R. W. Edens, who has the 106 acres to the east of Torrance where the first well to prove up the territory is now being drilled, closed his first lease on the west side a few days ago. His new lease of one acre lies within a few yards of the residence district and in an area where a number of small leases have been made within the past thirty days.

With the promise of drilling by the first of June a lease was closed by the Good Cheer Oil Company during the week on five acres east of the Harbor Boulevard owned by J. H. Neita, Los Angeles contractor.

The property is located at Two Hundred and Sixteenth street and Dolores street, is two miles southeast of the Peterson-Barker Syndicate's wildcat well on the Edens lease and is nearly four miles east of production. If oil is struck in this territory it will make the Torrance field seven miles long, the proven length of it already being three miles.

TO EXPLOIT NEW FIELD IN MEXICO

Large Oil Companies to Begin Drilling North of Tampico Territory

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, May 6.—One of the greatest movements in recent years for the opening up of new petroleum fields in Mexico has been started by a number of large oil companies in Mexico which have formed a pool for the purpose of exploiting the region directly to the west of the present center of production, according to reports.

Some hundred thousand hectares of land have been obtained, extending in a great belt from the north of Tampico across the greater part of the State of Tamaulipas and into Nuevo Leon.

The companies which have formed the pool are among the largest and most powerful in Mexico and include the Huasteca Petroleum Company, the La Corona, the Sinclair, the Texas Company of Mexico, the International Petroleum Company, the Agwi and a number of smaller organizations. Work probably will be started about June, thirty kilometers distant from the city of Linares, in the State of Nuevo Leon.

The region was studied by geologists three years ago and reported on as giving every indication of containing deposits of petroleum. The lands were purchased at that time by the companies, but have since been idle, although the taxes have been paid. As the lands are at an altitude several thousand meters higher than those of the gulf region, the wells, it is believed, may not have as great an output as those of the Panuco and Tuxpam districts, although it is expected that the product obtained will be of a higher quality and may consequently command a better price.

The transportation of machinery already has commenced, toward a point called Cerro Prieto, thirty kilometers from Linares. From there it is planned to inspect the entire district and determine whether the lands contain oil. The sterile lands will then be sold. The new region appears to possess great opportunities and it is expected that it will some day become one of the great oil-producing centers of Mexico.

STRIKE IS EXPECTED ON NEW FOSTER WELL

CALIFORNIA NO. 2 DOWN 4000, IN SIGNAL HILL FIELD

Already down the 4000-foot level, Fred B. Foster & Company's Californian No. 2 in the Signal Hill field is expected to go on production next week. This is the second well in the Californian Syndicate and will be the fourth Foster well to go on production at Long Beach. Californian No. 2 is located near the 5000-barrel Miley-Mills well.

Eight-and-a-quarter inch casing has been landed in Miracle No. 6 at 3547 feet. The hole is now being washed to the bottom, and will be cemented during the next few days, preparatory to going on production. This well will be the second Miracle Syndicate well in the production list. Miracle No. 3 is drilling 3500 feet in hard sand, and is expected to follow its neighbor No. 6 into the tank before the middle of the month.

Miracle No. 2 has made 3100 feet of hole and is now in sandy shale. The Huntington Beach well of the Foster Company—Foster No. 51 is running ten-inch casing at 3485 feet.

At Santa Fe Springs Foster No. 50 is below 2875 feet in hard sand. No. 56 is drilling in shale and boulders at 900 feet, and No. 61 will begin drilling by the end of the week. Californian No. 1, Miracle No. 1 and Foster No. 54 are on producing.

ASKS LINE EXTENSION

Permission has been asked by the United States Refinery Company to carry its pipe line across the road near the intersection of Norwalk and Telegraph roads, in the Santa Fe Springs field. It seeks to lead this line from its plant to several operating properties in the vicinity.

PREPARE TO DRILL

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

You are politely requested to submit samples carefully wrapped and tagged, with letter accompanying, stating what tests are desired. Make sample of small size. There is no necessity for big chunks. Correspondents offering matter for analysis with card, or scrap of paper, intended to show that the stuff is from Jim Jones, for instance, with no marks of identification on samples, will hereafter receive no attention. Analyses are made free of charge.

Platinum Indicated

GOODSPRINGS (Nev.) April 21. Question: I am sending you a rock numbered 1. It is from the New York mountains, California, and I ask if you would kindly tell me what the rock contains. Does it carry any metal of value? P.

Answer: The rock is somewhat on the order of gneiss (soft granite of the mining boys in the hills.) Carbonates are absent. Titaniferous iron, with microscopical micaceous iron, present. There are tracts of plumbojarosite, with limonite, and more or less lead and zinc. No free gold.

Some Mixture

SAN BERNARDINO, April 21.—Q.: I am sending a sample of what I think is fuller's earth. Could you give me a full report on this, and also state if it is fit for commercial usages. L.

A.: The sample is of doubtful value as fuller's earth. It is a mixture of clay, lime carbonate, and stained with quite a per cent of hematite. Fuller's earth is present, however, in low percentages.

Silicate and Carbonate

CANTIL, April 22.—Q.: I am mailing you two samples of clay for determination by your rare minerals department. Thanking you for this and past favors. M.

A.: Sample No. 1 is of conchoidal fracture, and it is ochreous calcite containing more or less aluminum silicate. No. 2 is impure Bentonite; known also as Denver mud (a clay used in surgery as a dressing.) Not tested for magnesia.

Four Samples

BRAWLEY, April 22. — Q.: Please report on and give opinion of commercial values of the ore specimens which I am sending you by same mail. They are from Imperial county. On sample No. 1, silver and lead present; No. 2, determinate test; No. 3, silver and lead, and on No. 4, determinate test. C.

A.: The samples being very much alike, were sampled together. Pseudomorph after pyrite (oxidized in part;) lime carbonate, silica and aluminum silicate present, with lead-zinc traces and no free gold. For other gold and silver values, you are politely referred to assayers.

Four Other Specimens

ELSINORE, April 22.—Q.: Do any of the four samples warrant an analysis for gold, silver, tin or platinum. Nos. 1 and 2 are both in contact with a two-foot vein. Is No. 3 lime or kaolin? Should No. 4 have a fire assay? W.

A.: It is doubtful if any of the four samples are worth assaying, and especially so for tin or platinum. No. 1 is chiefly a low-grade abrasive, in part garnetyte with quartz, a little garnet, hornblende and pyroxene. No. 2 is a mixture of hornblende, pyroxene and some garnetyte. No. 3 is calcite (variety marl.) No. 4 is quartzitic rock, carrying iron and manganese; carefully panned for gold, with negative results.

Lithium Absent

RIVERSIDE, April 23.—Q.: I am sending you by same mail three samples of mineral. Do they contain lithia, what proportion? Kindly give me a general analysis. H.

A.: Qualitative analyses made on the three samples: One of them proves to be of quartz, limonite, hematite, hornblende and more or less feldspathic matter. The two remaining specimens are very much like the first described. All samples tested together and some strontium found.

Impure Calcite

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—Q.: Herewith is sample of silicious (?) calcite from the desert in San Bernardino county. I am yet looking for phosphate. I have had this sample for several years and all the time wondering if there is any "danger" of it carried that ingredient. I feel like a fellow with ague who wants to get it out of his system; I put it up to you to help me. "J."

A.: Like the average samples of California phosphates, the specimen runs low in phosphoric acid—only 2.1 per cent.

Doubtful Ore

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—Q.: This sample is from a shaft I have dug four feet wide and it is from a depth of forty-five feet. The claim is located eight miles from Calabasas and I think it is silver-bearing rock. Please give me an assay on this rock if you think it is of any value. G.

A.: No fire assays are made by this department of The Times. The samples are of iron and manganese silicates, with the rock epidosyte more or less present.

Five Samples

BANNING, April 25.—Q.: I inclose four samples of rock found in San Bernardino Mountains and will thank you to tell me something about them. I take No. 1 to be corundum; it occurs in stringers in granodioryte, and filling vuggs in crystalline limestone. Has such mineral a worthwhile value, and is there a probability of gem stones in such formation with granular corundum? Is No. 2 limestone? No. 3 is a magnetic sulphide; is it pyrrhotite, and does it carry nickel? Has such quartz as No. 4 any value for ornamental purposes, and is there a probability of it assaying metallic values? Again thanking you for the many courtesies you have extended, I am with best wishes, H.

A.: You're always welcome! There is but little prospect for gem-stone values in any of the samples.

No. 1 consists of two specimens, wrapped separately, and are far removed from corundum; in fact, and indeed, they barely scratch quartz. Iron, manganese, altered garnet, ilmenite, quartz and golden-lustered mica in one sample, and in the other No. 1 we find as of No. 1 first described, with a coating of crystallized calcite and more or less celestite. No. 3 is a mixture of both No. 1's, in part. It carries traces of microscopical pyrite with traces of microscopic pyrrhotite, and too lean in sulphides for nickel values. No. 4 is a greasy-lustered quartz, in part, and is of no value as gemstone. It carries no free gold. Traces of iron oxides with titaniferous iron noted. Another sample not numbered is milk-white calcite with a low percentage of alabaster (gypsum) and of doubtful value for ornamental uses.

Hornblende

FRESNO, April 26.—Q.: Please classify the sample. "SUBSCRIBER."

A.: Named and classified in the subheading.

Three Samples

WHITEWATER, April 26.

Q.: Please classify the three samples. Any oil indications? H.

A.: It is to be regretted that space will not permit the publication of your letter in full. There are no oil indications in any of the samples. No. 1 is a mixture of lime carbonate and silica. No. 2 is impure silica with some chalcedony pebbles (also quartz.) No. 3 is feldspathic rock carrying iron oxides and manganese. The specimens were tested together for free gold with negative results.

No Fire-assays

LOS ANGELES, April 26.

Q.: Please analyze the sample. I think it contains silver and gold. I would be pleased to have your opinion of it. S.

A.: Mighty lean looking ore! It contains no free gold. It is chiefly quartzitic rock showing pistachio-green epidote. One other specimen carries traces of copper, and epidote.

Tellurim Absent

SAN FERNANDO, April 26.

Q.: I am mailing you a small sample of rock. Please let me know if there are any values in it. K.

A.: The sample is impure lime carbonate carrying microscopic pyrite and arsenopyrite; both of the named sulphides in very low percentages.

NEW CONCENTRATOR STEEL ORDER PLACED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AJO (Ariz.) May 6.—An order for about 1,000,000 pounds of structural steel for the New Cornelia concentrator has been placed with the Nogales firm of Roy & Titcomb.

The New Cornelia management now is employing about 500 Papago Indians, who are found notably efficient in open cuts, where white men hardly could endure the summer sun, and in work around the leaching vats. Some of the Indians have become expert powder men.

For Investment—the Bonds of Illinois Power and Light Corporation

This great Central States utility serves more than 300 municipalities in Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas. It is one of the outstanding utility corporations in the public utility field of America.

About 70 per cent of its net earnings are derived from electric power and light, gas and miscellaneous sources, and the balance from city railway systems and electric trunk line railroads.

It has an electric generating capacity of 242,701 h. p. Its gas generating capacity is over 19,000,000 cubic feet per day. Its city railway systems have over 240 miles of track. Its electric trunk line railway system has over 500 miles of mainland track.

Some of these properties are shown in an illustrated 28-page booklet which will give you a better understanding of the business of this company. We will send a copy of this booklet to you without charge or obligation if you write, telephone or call at our office.

Secret of Success

Form the habit of saving and you will succeed, advise some, while others insist that one of the real secrets of success lies in "Not making the same mistake twice."

How often do we see people making the mistake of mistakes, over and over—Not Saving.

It is up to you to profit by their mistakes, so that when the candle of life burns low and your earning power is diminished, it will not be said of you that you did not save.

MINE INTERESTS ARE ACTIVE NEAR NOGALES

CONSOLIDATED COPPER SOON TO RESUME WORK ON PROPERTY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) May 6.—The Consolidated Arizona Copper Company of Mowry is reparing to resume work on its property in the Santa Barbara section, twenty miles southeast of Nogales, near the Southern Pacific Cananea branch. W. J. Mitchell is in charge.

The Tigre Company has purchased a gold property at Los Alamos, on the Navajoa branch of the Southern Pacific.

The Mines Company of America is reported unwatering its La Dura mine on the Corral-Tonichi branch of the Southern Pacific. In the shaft is reported to be a great quantity of rich concentrates, there cached by the management at the outbreak of the Mexican troubles.

A thirty-foot vein of 11 per cent copper ore is reported to have been cut in the Los Alamos property of the United Exploration and Development Company.

HOPE MINES COMPANY SHIPS RICH ORE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

KINGMAN (Ariz.) May 6.—The Hope Mines Company, which is backed by Los Angeles capital, has shipped a thirty-ton car of ore that samples more than $250 a ton and that mainly was taken out in development work. The mine is to supply a contract for 1000 pounds of lenzite crystals, used in wireless equipment. Wire and native silver in large found in workings property at Mineral load will be shipped

FOUR WELLS IN AT HUNTINGTON

Largest Producer Reported by Union Oil

Drop of 10,597 Barrels for Week Reported

Believed Gradual Decrease Will Continue

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 6. Four new wells were brought in here during the week and the total production added to the field as a result was 7511 barrels a day. The largest new producer is the Union Oil Company's Brooks No. 3, which is flowing 2951 barrels of 25 gravity oil.

It is 5000 feep deep and contains an oil string of 1402 feet of screen casing. The gas pressure registers 360 pounds at the casing head. This well is located on the northwest section of the mesa near the Globe Petroleum Company's Encyclopedia No. 1, which it offsets.

Harvey No. 1, which was brought in by the Federal Drilling Company at a depth of 4901 feet, is flowing 2500 barrels of 25 gravity oil. It contains 1146 feet of slotted casing and has a gas pressure of 415 pounds at the casing head.

This well was drilled on a 50-50 basis for the Holly Development Company by the Federal Drilling Company. It is located near Smeltzer street south of Garfield avenue. It is an offset to the Holly Development Company's Turly No. 2 and the Wellington Oil Company's Dewey No. 1.

NEW RELIANCE WELL

The Reliance Oil Company completed Globe No. 1, which is flowing 2000 barrels of 24 gravity oil. This well is 4970 feet deep and contains 1000 feet of slotted casing. The gas pressure is 430 pounds at the casing head. It is located northwest of the Shell Ashton lease and is an offset to Pearce No. 1 of the Amalgamated Oil Company.

The Union Oil Company completed a well which is reported to contain more junk than pipe. It is the Copeland No 7. On account of bad luck and the condition of the hole, it has been decided to put it to pumping in the upper sands and skid the rig to another hole, building a light rig for pumping. It is pumping sixty barrels of 24 gravity oil per day at present. The oil string contains 387 feet of slotted casing and is 4409 feet deep.

As the result of cutting production many men were laid off in the field during the week. There was a drop of 10,597 barrels in spite of the fact that the new wells added 7511 barrels daily. The total for the field was 108,253 daily. Last week it was 118,850, and April 6, it was 131,884 daily. This pinching-in has been going on gradually and there is every reason to believe that the bottom is not in sight.

There are three new rigs in the field this week, bringing the total to 463. Of these 227 are producers, 117 are incomplete and holding up for various causes and 119 are drilling.

The Standard has material on the ground to build Surf No. 3, which is located in the low lands at the south end of production and within about 300 feet of Mills No. 1. They also have material on hand for Mills No. 2, which will be built on the same lease about 500 feet west of Mills No. 1.

Refuses Large Royalty Offer in Signal Hill

Fred A. Walker, owner of an interest in the Transport lease at Signal Hill, has refused an offer of $110,000 for 11 per cent of his royalty in the Illustrated Review mile-deep well, which is being drilled by E. G. Lewis, and which has reached a depth of 2200 feet.

This statement was made in a letter sent by Mr. Walker to Mr. Lewis, according to information given out yesterday. In his letter Mr. Walker referred to his recent offer as follows:

"At the time I purchased this acre of ground, less than a year ago, I paid $110,000 for the fee simple title before there was any production on the land. I consider the land worth far more at this time and will say that I refused an offer of $110,000 for 11 per cent of the production of the mile-deep well.

"It is my opinion that the mile-deep well drilled on this acre will be one of the outstanding features of the most wonderful oil field in the world, as Signal Hill is now recognized to be."

In connection with his other oil activities, Mr. Lewis said yesterday that Illustrated Review No. 2 on the Transport lease may be brought in between the 12th and 15th insts. Huntington Beach well No. 1 has reached a depth of 4832 feet. The Palos Verdes test well in the Panhandle district near Los Angeles Harbor is operating with a ten-inch casing at a depth of 3591 feet.

NEW SECTION OPENED WITH OIL IN TEXAS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PRAIRIE LEA (Tex.) May 6.—Oil operators attach importance to the bringing in of a 500-barrel well here a few days ago. Although wild-catting has been in progress in this section for three years, this is the first well to show commercial production. The fact that it is far removed from any of the existing oil fields of the State means the opening and possible development of an entirely new pool, it is stated. The new field is about forty miles southeast of Austin and about sixty miles from San Antonio. The discovery well was brought in by the Prairie Lea Production Company.

WILL START NEW WELL

Another well is to be started at once by the Sun Oil Company, at Utica street and Deleware avenue in Huntington Beach. The K. & R. Drilling Company has been awarded the contract.

REVIEW OF OIL ACTIVITY

Pinch Down Campaign Progressing; Drilling Activities Show No Symptom of Slowing Down

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

While the machinery created for the purpose of pinching down production in the Southern California oil fields for the next three or four months is not yet in perfect working order, it is beginning to show results.

The daily production for the entire State dropped 25,000 barrels during the week just closed, and in that period the three big southern fields produced approximately 15,000 barrels a day less than their production of the previous week, despite the fact that their new production aggregated 35,000 barrels a day.

The table of California's daily petroleum production elsewhere in this section indicates in detail just how much the fields have succeeded in pinching down their output. In some cases the change is slight, but the fact must not be lost sight of that not less than ten new producers, nearly all of them big ones, came in during the week and made up for some of the oil that was held back in the older wells.

DRILLING CONTINUES

So far as drilling is concerned, the campaign for curtailment of production seems to have had little effect. Oil development is reviving in the San Joaquin Valley. Four new wells were satrted in Kern county during the last week, three being in the Midway field and one in the Elk Hills district.

Last week the local office of the State Mining Bureau issued permits for twenty-seven new wells in the southern fields. This is a gain of six over the previous week. Thirty-two permits for water shutoff tests showed a gain of three over the previous week. There were permits for four deepening wells, all at Long Beach. Seven abandonments went on record, four of them in the Signal Hill field.

Up to Friday night there were ten new producers for the week. The list is as follows:

HUNTINGTON BEACH

Union Oil Company, Brooks No. 3, doing 2950 barrels at 5000 feet.

SANTA FE SPRINGS

Twin Bells No. 2, doing 4000 barrels.

LONG BEACH

The total number of new wells in the State for this year is 532, against 427 for the same date last year, according to the State Mining Bureau.

Huntington Beach reports that there are thirty-four wells in that field which are making more than 1000 barrels a day. The big producers in that field are Amalgamated Oil Company, with 23,929 barrels a day, and Standard Oil Company, with 19,315 barrels a day. The Shell Company is getting about 8500 barrels a day in that field.

DOHENY GETS LEASES

During the last week the Pan-American interests closed a deal which gave E. L. Doheny the Walker-Western leases at Huntington Beach, and added twenty-eight additional acres to Doheny's already large holdings in the southern fields.

The Walker-Western combination had a tract of two and one-half acres, with two wells on it, adjacent to the Sun Oil Company's holdings. One of these wells is on production and the other is being deepened.

North and east of Huntington Beach the same company had a ten-acre tract which went to Doheny. It is reported that a well will be drilled there in the near future.

Doheny is understood to have at least fifteen acres in the Signal Hill field, in addition to the strip of Union Pacific right of way on which he has contracted to drill six wells.

In that connectoin it has been learned that arrangements are being made with certain lease-holders to so pool and exchange their interests that the Pan-American interests can obtain control of considerable small blocks of land adjoining the Union Pacific right of way strip, which would enable Doheny to bunch his holdings into a little field of his own at that point, and keep everything but his derricks off the railroad property.

PIPELINE RECEIPTS

April receipts of the Los Angeles pipe line system of the Union Oil Company of California, which handles production from Santa Fe Springs, Huntington Beach and Long Beach, besides other southern districts, were approximately 4,800,000 barrels. Lack of storage facilities alone prevented this system from materially exceeding this figure, it was said.

May receipts are expected to go higher than any previous month's mark, owing to the fact that a new storage reservoir at the Wilmington tank farm has just been completed and put in operation, with another of these 750,000-barrel concrete-lined oil containers scheduled to receive oil next week, and the newly-purchased oil tankers arriving from the Gulf Coast and going immediately into the coastwise petroleum trade.

SATURATED OIL SAND STRATA ENCOUNTERED

SIGNAL HILL WELL PROBABLY WILL BE CEMENTED THIS WEEK

Five five-foot cores have been taken by Engineer Martin Van Couvering, the first at a depth of 3710 feet, and each was reported as being saturated with oil. No water trouble has been encountered. The syndicate thinks that the well will be cemented within a few days. It is now down about 3800 feet.

Lambert No. 1, located on Orange between Burnett and Willow is reported as being about thirty feet in the oil sand at around 3270 feet. Lambert No. 2, just south of Burnett and east of Orange, is down more than 4000 feet. The Allied Motion Picture Oil Syndicate No. 1, at the corner of Orange and Burnett, is more than 1600 feet down.

Laurence A. Lambert, in commenting upon the favorable showings in three of their leases, said, "Indications are today that we will have two wells on production within four weeks and another in less than forty days."

RARE SILICATES FOUND

Discovery in Arizona to Add to Country's Health Features

The recent discovery of silicates in Yavapai county, Ariz., that are radio-active, will add another to the long list of health restoring features known to the southwest. These silicates were discovered by Francis H. Clark, mining engineer of Los Angeles and Groom Creek, Ariz.

It was a general impression for a long time that these silicates, which have a highly medicinal value, were prevalent only in Europe, but it has been proved by Mr. Clark that the silicates found in Arizona excel those produced in any part of the world.

Mr. Clark has associated with him several well-known capitalists of California and Arizona and plans are being perfected to place the silicates on the market, as well as building a large sanatorium for the treating of inflammatory ailments.

COPPER FIRM ACTIVE

Lower California Company is Making Changes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GUAYMAS (Son.) May 6.—Great activity is reported from the Santa Rosalia district, in Lower California. The Boleo Company, a French organization, took advantage of the time of slack market by changing its system of reduction, scrapping its blast furnaces and substituting reverberatories, using fuel oil.

The company now is refining its own copper, which mainly is shipped direct to Europe, on five steamers owned by the corporation. It is opening a new copper property of 1000 pertenencias in the San Antonio-Triunfo district, where George W. Pickett, formerly of Tucson, is operating mines owned by the Compania Minera y Reduction. Near by, Robert Glazier and associates of Los Angeles have leased the Pescadera gold mine and are installing an amalgamation mill.

Announcement

REPUBLIC PRODUCING COMPANY, which purchased the oil properties of the Republic Petroleum Company last January, announces an addition to its official personnel:

HON. SCOTT FERRIS of New York City, who has been elected President of REPUBLIC PRODUCING COMPANY and WESTERN STATES OIL CORPORATION, of which Mr. Ferris is Chairman of the Board, has become heavily interested in REPUBLIC PRODUCING COMPANY, which becomes the operating Company for WESTERN STATES OIL CORPORATION in California.

A Haskell Organization for California

HON. C. N. HASKELL, first Governor and Constitution maker of Oklahoma, possibly the most outstanding and successful among independent oil men of the country, Chairman of the Board of the well known MIDDLE STATES OIL CORPORATION and SOUTHERN STATES OIL CORPORATION is also back of WESTERN STATES OIL CORPORATION with his unusual talents and extensive resources.

GOVERNOR HASKELL is known throughout the country as a great Developer of Oil Properties and Railroad Builder, and is now constructing more than Three Hundred miles of Railroad in Wyoming and Montana to serve the congested oil fields in these States, and this Railroad will form an important North and South link in the Continental transportation lines of the country and particularly afford an outlet into the Northwest for products of these States.

GOVERNOR HASKELL'S constructive work in MID-CONTINENT and WESTERN Oil Fields representing the investment of over a Hundred Million Dollars has added greatly to the development and wealth of all the Sections of the country in which he is actively interested.

HON. SCOTT FERRIS, for fourteen years in the National Congress and President of SOUTHERN STATES OIL CORPORATION, is also one of the outstanding figures of the oil business and is also Chairman of the WESTERN STATES OIL CORPORATION and is now President of REPUBLIC PRODUCING COMPANY.

THE RECORD of MIDDLE STATES OIL CORPORATION and SOUTHERN STATES OIL CORPORATION for stable, consistent earnings and sharings with their stockholders without syndicating or banking houses' profits in frequent distribution of stock allotments, and at the same time adding a constantly increasing earned surplus over a long period of years, has made oil history and the Haskell policies that have secured these results in the past, and the usual Haskell program of aggressive development of proven oil properties, assures an active California campaign of development of the large and splendid holdings of REPUBLIC PRODUCING COMPANY and other properties acquired.

CALIFORNIA and those interested in REPUBLIC PRODUCING COMPANY in particular, should be congratulated upon the entrance of this great Independent Developer into California Oil fields.

Republic Producing Company
ADAM H. DAVIDSON, Vice-President.

GOOD Business Judgement

THE Marbelite Corporation of America is a thoroughly established institution marketing a product in great demand, with a large margin of profit. It's good business judgment to own securities of this kind.

The Preferred Stock pays 7%. Common shares then participate in surplus earnings to the extent of 8%. 50% of the balance is set aside as a sinking fund. The remaining 50% is applicable to surplus and additional dividends on Common.

After an inspection of the Marbelite plant in Los Angeles—and you are welcome to visit the factory at any time—you will see the physical evidence of a product being made with a definite, known profit. You will see a plant running at full capacity filling hundreds of thousands of dollars of orders already on hand.

It's well worth the little time necessary to learn about Marbelite—a product you will hear about continually, as it's destined to play a conspicuous part in the upbuilding of industrial Los Angeles.

Call or phone for a free copy of illustrated folder—or if you prefer, we will take you on a visit to the plant—within 15 minutes' ride of our office.

Printing Facts
Do You Know That

In the easy-going days of our fathers, after a sheet had been printed it was hung up to dry! But today an automatic delivery drops sheet upon sheet at a speed which to a former generation would seem incredible.

If the ink comes off one sheet onto another, this smudging is called offset. Offset is avoided by giving special attention to the ink, by the use of gas-drying or electric-drying devices, and by slip-sheeting—a costly but often indispensable operation. Only in exceptional cases should the buyer specify that the printer must slip-sheet. Under favorable conditions this can often be avoided without any sacrifice in quality. Anyway, the right kind of printer will slip-sheet when necessary.

OIL PINCHBACK DIFFICULT

Santa Fe Springs Field Having Hard Time to Cut Due to Heavy Gas Pressure in Gushers

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA FE SPRINGS, May 6.—Four new producers in this field added not less than 22,000 barrels to the daily production during the week just closed, and yet, in the process of pinching down, the operators succeeded in holding the output in such control that the actual delivery of petroleum was 8000 barrels less than it was during the previous week.

This would indicate that the field squeezed back 30,000 barrels a day, or a total of 200,000 barrels during the week. Operators say that they are experiencing great difficulty with heavy gas pressure in some of the bigger producers, and that it is going to be difficult to get the pinch-back down to 70 per cent of normal, which is the point where they have been asked to hold their production for the next three months.

A survey of the field made by an official connected with the State reveals the fact that there are now flowing in this field ninety-five wells, fifty-five being in the Meyers sand and thirty-eight in the Bell sand, while one well is producing from the Flox sand. Two hundred and twenty-two wells are now actively engaged in drilling, the report states, and seventy-one are either locations, rigs or are being rigged up.

It is said that nearly twenty wells are now drilling in the Meyers sand, many of them more than 200 feet in the sand itself. This condition will result, oil men say, in the production in this field being increased, rather than decreased, in spite of attempts on the part of producers to lessen the flow. It may make necessary the complete shutting down on a great number of the producing wells, oil men state.

The largest well of the four placed on production during the week was the Schaff-Noble well No. 2, which is located on the A. Wardman property, near the Norwalk road. This well drilled to 4501 feet, came in with an estimated flow of 7000 barrels, and increased under a heavy gas pressure until the flow was placed in the tank. At that time the flow was decreased to conform with recent rulings of the oil producers.

The producer is off-set by No. 2 well of the same concern, which is drilling at 4400 feet. The Keck Drilling Company and the Federal Drilling Company have the contract for the two wells. The Wardman property on which the Keck-Wardman Superior No. 1 well was drilled, is located aross the street from the new producer.

The Twin-Bell No. 2, after being deepened to the Meyers sand, produced 6500 barrels the first day, the drillers stated. This well has been a producer for several months in the Bell sand, and was not killed until last February, when the deepening process was started. The new producer has been leaned down until it is making about 4000 barrels of oil, it is said.

The well is located on the Grhs lease which was formely known as the Barnsdell property near Butler Road and Telegraph Road corner.

Producing nearly 2000 barrels of 30 degree gravity oil per day theHill-Midway-General Petroleum Company well on Butler Road was placed on production a few days ago. This well was drilled to the 3800-foot level and is one of the largest producers in the Bell sand. A heavy gas pressure which has been present since the well was placed on production would indicate oil men state that the production would be even higher than the initial flow.

The Union Oil Company completed Alexander No. 8 at a depth said to be near 3800 feet in the Bell zone but the control head leaked and the officials decided to mud the well in which the change in control heads was being made. The Union Oil Company Bell sand producer was making nearly 2000 barrels at the time it was killed, the dirllers stated.

The Oscar R. Howard-Bell well, flowing more than 5000 barrels, according to the drilling crew, was completed this week and has been placed on production. The well was drilled to 4666 feet and is located near the Universal Oil Company holdings on Little Lake Road. The well is surrounded by producers of large size, including the Universal-O'Connell, the Parkford and other wells of that type.

Since the cleaning-out process has been completed the Universal Oil Company's Blanchard No. 2 has increased its flow until the brokers state the well is making better than 2000 barrels per day.

The General Petroleum Company's well No. 8 on the J. A. L. K. community lease is expected in within the next few days as it is drilling at 4670 feet. Other wells on that same lease drilled by the General Petroleum have produced at about this depth in the sand. The well is offset by several of the largest wells in the field.

Attempts were made by the Santa Fe Dome organization to place on production their well Saturday, but were abandoned through the advice of the drillers. The hole is in such a condition they believe that a side-tracking job will be necessary. Two lengths of drill stem have been lost and could not be secured. The stem was imbedded 150 feet in the sand. They attempted to swab in the well above this lost stem but were unsuccessful.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 6. — There was an easy market for California dried-apricot futures prevailing at the close Saturday. The last quoted basis on which packers had announced their willingness to book orders was as follows:

Santa Claras, standards, 12 cents; choice, 14 cents; extra choice, 15 cents, and fancy, 16½ cents; San Joaquins, standards, 11 cents; choice, 12½ cents; extra choice, 14½ cents; fancy, 15 cents; Northerns, standards, 11½ cents; choice, 13½ cents; extra choice, 14½ cents; fancy, 16 cents; all packed in twenty-five-pound boxes, f.o.b. California. Reports from many sources indicate that there will be an unusually big apricot crop in California this year.

Coast advices on the prune situation continue favorable, and now it appears probable that the largest producing sections will have greatly curtailed crops this year, the general estimate indicating a crop of only 150,000,000 pounds for the entire State.

Trading on the spot dried-fruit market this week was largely confined to small quantities, the price basis being nominal. Prunes are being taken in a small way, and a little raisin business is noticed. Peaches are in fair supply and with no particular buying interest at the moment, the market is somewhat inclined to easiness. Apricots are strong and in short supply.

CITRUS FRUITS

There was an easing off in orange prices toward the close of the week, Floridas being particularly affected. There were 46,400 boxes of Floridas sold during the week.

The market for Californias also eased off, but recovered on large sizes at the closing sale. There were 138 cars of California oranges sold during the week.

CANNED GOODS

Bookings of futures Wisconsin peas are reported to be very good this year, and canners have already disposed of a considerable proportion of their expected pack. No. 2 tins of standard five-sieve Alaska sweets are selling at $1.05, f.o.b. cannery, this being the inside price save in instances where buyer purchases what the canner considers a fair assortment. Standard early Junes are available on futures contracts on the basis of $1 per dozen cannery, but the market is showing an advancing tendency on this grade. A feature of future trading this year has been the active call for No. 10 tins. Many canners have withdrawn on this size, having boked enough business to take care of their expected pack.

Trading in the spot market last week was featured by buying of California cling peaches for prompt shipment from the Coast at $1.70, and by the demand for spot crushed pineapple.

COFFEE

A few evening-up trades were indulged in by Saturday's brief coffee market. From start to finish the tone was irregular, with initial trading done at advance of 1 to 3 points. After selling at 9.82, July eased off 7 points in the last few minutes of trading to 9.75. The same proportion of loss was seen in December, with initial trading at 8.42 and the final figure 8.38. Sales numbered 14,000 bags, finals going 9 points higher to 4 points lower.

The refined-sugar market has been in an unsettled state for a greater part of the last week, with a general lack of confidence, owing to the pressure of second-hand offerings. The sugar-futures market discounted a higher actual market Saturday morning, when, on the appearance of adidtional short covering and buying for long account futures scored net gains of 23 to 27 points.

The hysterical liquidation which had prevailed early last week as the result of propaganda to reduce sugar consumption had apparently spent itself, and the option market was quite firm, in reflection of the firmer views of first-hand holders of Cuban raw sugars, who were naming 6 3-4 cents cost and freight. While the covering movement became less pronounced at the close of business, due to the absence of sales on the street, the turnover was fairly large, totaling approximately 26,000 tons.

CRUDE OIL

Announcement was made today of another 10 cent reduction in the price of Mid Continent crude oil by Prairie Oil and Gas Company, the Texas Company and Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company and other leading purchasing agencies operating in that field. The new price range on Mid Continent crude is from $1.20 a barrel to $2.30 a barrel at the wells. Saturday's was the third reduction since the first of the year and all grades are now quoted 30 cents a barrel below the high level reached last winter when by an unbroken succession of increases Mid Continent crude was marked up 30 cents.

It seems to be the concensus of opinion among oil men and expert observers of the situation that the decline in Mid-Continent and, in fact, all crude taken from the ground on this side of the Rockies, has been due to the effect of the huge supply of California crude. Shipments from the Pacific to the Atlantic and Gulf are running at the rate of more than 1,000,000 barrels weekly, which means that approximately one-twelfth of the country's crude supply is being received by eastern refineries, whereas the biggest refining capacity is in the Mid-Continent.

COPPER, ZINC

After dropping to 6.80 cents St Louis zinc rallied for a gain of 15 points during the week and closed at 6.95 cents a pound for prompt and May shipments, with futures still available at a discount of 5 points for each succeeding month.

There was less pressure to sell futures and this discount is expected to narrow appreciably in the near future. The reason for the increase in price was the fact that galvanizers are now buying. There was no zinc exported last week but according to the custom house returns, 5664 tons were shipped abroad in April as follows: 638 tons through New York, 192 tons through Baltimore and 4610 tons through southern ports.

The turn in the copper market came last week after one or two producers and custom smelters had quoted as low as 16 3-8 cents for electrolytic delivered. The week closed with the lowest price acceptable by either producer or smelter at 16½ cents, while most of the producers were asking 16 5-8 cents for delivery through May and June. Early in the week one or two second hands were offering as low as 16 cents but advanced their price to 16.55 cents later on. Copper exports through the port of New York during the week aggregated 956 tons.

BOND MARKET

The bond market closed the week much steadier than at the opening, with several of the more active rails and industrials showing fair gains.

Week-end profit taking was absorbed without much difficulty all along the list but taken as a whole there was little aggressive buying, or selling, for that matter.

Libertys were fractionally higher, continuing the rally started on Friday. Last prices showed net gains of 1 to 6-32, with the second 4 1-4s leading the van. The 3½s showed the only loss, moving off 2-32 in a quiet market.

Foreign loans showed fractional changes in both directions in view of the minor variations noted in foreign exchange.

French bonds averaged a shade higher, as did the Belgian issue, with United Kingdom 5½s remaining unchanged for the short session. Mexican 4s and 5s were up a quarter and an eighth respectively while the irrigation 4½s yielded 3-8 of a point in a slow market. South American loans were generally around previou closing levels.

BUTTER, EGGS

Receipts of butter Saturday were 13,283 packages. Much to the surprise of the buying interest the market developed increased firmness at the close and prices advanced 1-4 cent a pound. Although the arrivals were large they contained small amounts of gilt edged goods. There were several jobbing buyers in the market, in need of fresh receipts and some stock was taken up at 43½ cents to grade extras. But at the close most of the trading was in range of 43 to 43 1-4 cents. Under grades are quiet and prices pretty much the results of what samples will test. Packing stock sold fairly well but at irregular prices. Call sales were 47 and 72 tubs of extras at 43 cents, 45 and 85 at 43½ cents, 50 at 43 3-4 cents, 25 at 43 cents, all for spot delivery. There were no sales made for future delivery

Receipts of eggs were 33,318 cases. There were no material changes in the market Saturday.

Call sales were 50 cases s. p. firsts at 29½ cents, 50 cases No. 1 dirties at 25 cents spot delivery. In futures one car April refrigerator firsts seller November at 34½ cents per dozen.

Pacific Coast white extras 37½ to 39 cents; white extra firsts 35 to 37 cents; firsts, 32 to 33½ cents; medium, 31 cents; No. 1 pullets, 31 cents.

OPTIMISTIC TREND FELT BY OIL MEN

San Joaquin Valley Reflects New Turn After Period of Unrest

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, May 6.—The feeling of unrest which has been apparent throughout the San Joaquin Valley fields for several months is rapidly subsiding and for many weeks there have been signs of returning prosperity. With two cuts in the price of oil in the southern fields without the price of fuel oil in the valley being lowered, operators have gained confidence to go ahead with development work and as a result many projects are being worked out which will add materially to production in the San Joaquin Valley fields.

The work at Wheeler Ridge, south of Bakersfield, is progressing. It is expected that no less than ten new wells will be completed within the next few months. The Standard is forging ahead, starting one well after another, and new concerns are building rigs.

Four new oil wells were started last week in Kern county fields, three of them being in the Midway and one in the Elk Hills. Tests for water shutoff numbered five and repair jobs totaled three.

The Pacific Oil Company during the week spudded in three new holes, two in the Midway field on section 31, 31-24 and one in the Elk Hills on section 35, 30-24. This company also tested out two of its wells, the No. 30, section 29, 32-24 and the No. 62, section 27, 31-23, both in the Midway.

The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company has spudded in its No. 29 well in the Midway on section 9, 32-23.

The Standard Oil Company has successfully tested its No. 2 well in the Wheeler Ridge field on its No. 2 lease from the Kern County Land Company, section 28, 11-20.

The Gray Meirs have been doing considerable development work in the old Kern River field on section 3, 29-28 and have just completed the test of No. 1 well. In the same field, only on section 33, 28-28, Kern River Oilfields of California, Ltd., has finished repairing its No. 2-D well.

ARCHAEOLOGY CLUB OF MUSEUM TO MEET

The Archaeology Club of the Southwest Museum will conduct its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening, in the art gallery of the museum at 8 p.m. The subject of the evening will be the "Yosemite and Mono Basin Indians." The discussion will be led by Dr. John Comstock, director of the museum, and Mrs. Cecile Norton Winchester, president of the club.

THERE are two non-competing concerns in Los Angeles who would like to avail themselves of the kind of copy I am able to write. Not necessarily large concerns but firms with personality, that are established, and believe Los Angeles is the New York of the Pacific Coast. I would like to discuss advertising copy with them.

Miracle No. 6 Is on Ice

The 8 1-4-inch casing slid down the hole as prettily as anything in the world—circulation came without a moment's delay—the cement marched straight to the point where it belonged and stayed there. Without a pause of any kind, or the delay of a minute, Miracle No. 6 was cemented in the oil sand—in the very same oil sand from which the great D'Angelo No. 1 got its 4000 barrels of production.

Two More in Cold Storage

Mathews No. 1 (Foster No. 52)—that beautiful offset to Boeske No. 2—is standing with 10-inch casing, cemented at 3121 feet.

Almost Ready for Refrigeration

Miracle No. 3 (Foster No. 48) is roaring right now at 3400 feet. There is oil in the slush pit and oil in the circulating trough. She looks like a giant. A couple of hundred feet more and we'll cement her. A few feet after that and she'll be, we believe, one of the biggest wells on Signal Hill.

200 Feet More and Then—"Hello, Californian Oil Well"

Even old Californian No. 2—the stubbornest critter that ever was born—has mended her ways. Ornery creature that she's been, she's quit fooling around—seems to realize we haven't spent $150,000 on her for nothing and is letting us make 25 or 50 feet of hole a day without heaving a bunch of oil over the derrick every time we put a couple more joints of drill pipe in her. If Californian No. 2 doesn't make 4000 barrels of oil per day two weeks from now she sure is running an awful bluff.

But Why Go On?

OIL CURTAILMENT IS FELT

Effects of Retrenchment Program Appearing Very Evident in Signal Hill Field

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, May 6.—The widespread retrenchment program ed by Southern California operators during the past two weeks ing felt heavily in the Signal Hill field. Wells everywhere in the are beaned down, many of them now producing less than one-half their flush capacity. The field has been pinched in almost 40,000 a day, operators declare, thus taking the lead in the program production in an effort to keep production on a par with line and storage facilities.

The new will go down to a depth of 4000 feet, it is said, and expected that the hole will in volume similar to that of the Miley-Mills No. 1, a 3800-barrel well.

GOOD PRODUCER

Perhaps the most noteworthy new producer in the local field during the past week was the General Petroleum's Black & Drake No. 3, which was completed at 8 o'clock Monday night, and which has since flowed at a rate of approximately 366 barrels an hour. The well is within 200 feet of the first of the now famous west side wells, the field's greatest outlaw, the Black & Drake No. 1. This well blew out January 26, 1922, developing as a 5000-barrel hole at the 2800-foot level.

The newest of the General Petroleum gushers is flowing through four and three-quarter inch casing and stands with a total of 1180 feet of perforated casing in the hole. The total depth of the hole is 4969 feet and is at present the deepest well the General Petroleum interests own in Southern California. The oil shows a gravity of 29.4 Baume, with a total sand and emulsion cut of 3 per cent, the flow being entirely free of water.

Operators in the California-avenue section of the field were elated early this week, when gravity tests from the Downs-Fleming Syndicate No. 1 disclosed the product to be 31.1 Baume. This showing was made Tuesday, in spite of the fact that the well, flowing close to 2250 barrels a day, showed a 3 per cent water and 6 per cent emulsion cut.

The well is to be followed by another hole in the same lease, according to an announcement made by Frank H. Downs, Long Beach Councilman and head of the syndicate. The No. 2 well will be started within thirty days, he said.

METROPOLITAN SELLS

Holdings of the Metropolitan Petroleum Corporation have been taken over by Cambridge Syndicate, headed by Sewell Brown of Los Angeles, it has been announced by Vern Dumas, head of the Metropolitan interests. Terms of the contract provide for the payment of $50,000 cash to the Metropolitan and 50 per cent of the royalties. Out of this the original owners are to pay the land owners 25 per cent. The Metropolitan is one of the now famous Blue Tank group.

Another derrick is soon to be added to the forest of rigs in the local field. The increase in projected development was made possible by the California Signal organization Tuesday, when a lease of 60 by 300 feet was signed by Dr. B. H. Trauger of Long Beach. The lease is located near the Black Star Syndicate's No. 1 Randall. The new well will be known as California Signal No. 4, the trustees being Dr. Trauger, L. L. Elliott, J. S. Dehnel, R. C. Mulick and Walter Curtis. The property involved formerly constituted a lease held by the Machris Brothers of Los Angeles and the Wilshire Oil Company.

UNION OIL TO ENTER NEW FIELD

Company Begins Operations in Mid-continent; Plan to Sink Test Well

A new mid-continent field will be entered by the Union Oil Company of California during the coming week when it spuds in its Circle Ridge well No. 1 in a field of the same name in Wyoming.

The Union recently acquired 960 acres of Shoshone Indian lands in the Circle Ridge district and made immediate plans to sink a test well. In contra-distinction to the average Southern California well drilling in this section is comparatively shallow, and it is expected that a complete test will have been made by the time the bit reaches the 1100-foot level.

C. R. McCollom, chief geologist of the company, who returned last week from an inspection tour of the Union Oil properties in Wyoming, Colorado and Texas, states that while he was in Wyoming a well was put on production at a depth of 1050 feet—the point at which Southern California drillers are just about getting warmed up to their jobs. Mr. McCollom said the well in question yielded 300 barrels daily, a production which, in view of the shallowness of the hole, the company considers good.

Circle Ridge is located four miles northwest of Maverick Springs, Wyoming, in which district the Union of California has extensive holdings, besides 5000 barrels daily of shut-in production.

Splendid progress is being made in the Wellington No. 1 test well which is being drilled on the 12,000 acres in Larimer County, Colorado, that were recently leased by the Union. The drill is now down below 1250 feet with no difficulties encountered to date. In this field it is the intention of the company to carry through to approximately 4000 feet, where it is believed that a complete test of the structure will have been made.

In Young county, Texas, where R. M. Putnam is in charge, development activity is being pushed and it is believed that the production of the Union Oil Company in the Lone Star State will soon register a material gain.

OIL PROSPECTS GOOD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, May 6.—The Porterville Oil and Gas Company well No. 1, drilling one mile south of Poplar has passed a depth of 1200 feet and for 150 feet has been drilling in blue shale with streaks of sand said to be carrying large quantities of oil and gas.

Drilling is progressing at the rate of fifty to seventy-five feet per day. Additional casing is being rushed from Bakersfield and the management hopes to cement off the water soon.

The Baker Oil Company well northwest of Porterville has been drilled to 2430 feet, the last thirty feet being oil sand highly impregnated with light gravity oil, according to reports. Attempts to shut off water were finally successful.

Another well is to be located at Poplar, according to reports and another at Lois. It is understood that in this well every stated depth will be cemented against water. The Lois discovery well is near the location of the new well. Work on the Lois well was abandoned on account of water.

Government Is Asking Bids on Kern Oil Land

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, May 6.—Bids for the purchase of three leases in Kern county oil fields have been asked by the United States government through the office of Deputy Supervisor E. P. Campbell in Bakersfield. The land to be leased is located in Naval Petroleum Reserve Number 2, and comprises the following:

Lease No. 3—East half and east half of west half of Section 18, 32-25, containing 480 acres.

It is pointed out that bids will be received for the purchase of any or all of the leases as the bidder may elect, but individual bids must be submitted covering each tract desired.

The government will receive royalties on production from this land ranging from 12½ to 20 per cent. Kern county oil fields furnish the government with huge royalties as is shown from a report made during the week, giving the figures on royalties received from the government from Naval Reserve No. 3 in the Midway field. The sum of $2,881,000 has been received by the government since the leasing bill went into effect from this one reserve.

READY TO DRILL

In the Huntington Beach field the Southern California Drilling Company has been awarded the contract to drill No. 2 for the Utical Oil Company. The drillers are already rigging up.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—Frederick Samuels, assistant to the president of the Oceanic Steamship Company, is on his way to Washington to confer with government officials regarding a ten-year mail contract to Australia. On behalf of the Spreckels interests he will present to the government plans for two large passenger steamers which the company is planning to build for the trade between San Francisco and Australia and will ask that the mail contract be awarded at a higher rate than the one now paid the Oceanic Steamship Company on the steamers Ventura and Sonoma, which now are plying the trade routes to the Antipodes.

The Shipping Board steamer Susquehanna, allocated to Swayne and Hoyt of San Francisco, for freight and passenger service between Pacific Coast ports and the east coast of South America, was grounded at the Culebra Cut in the Panama Canal, according to word received by the marine department of the local Chamber of Commerce today. The vessel was floated and reported to have sustained no damage. The Susquehanna, which left here April 15, will proceed to South America.

California Raisin Day was observed on board the Pacific Mail liner President Pierce, passengers on the vessel which arrived from the Orient reported. Raisins were featured on the bill of fare, the dining salon was decorated with pictures of California missions and there was a raisin day festival in the evening.

The steamer Stockton of the Struthers and Barry Line arrived here today with a small zoo for shipment to New York. Among the animals were three lions, one elephant, six tigers, six leopards, one black panther, thirty-one monkeys, one tapir, one crocodile, four civet cats, one gold tiger cat, six moosangs, one banturang, twenty-eight snakes, 4000 birds, twelve bleeding-heart doves and four honey bears.

Since the Chinese game of Mah-Jongg became popular in the United States, the Pacific Mail Steamship Company has brought 400 tons of the sets into this port from China. The Toyo Kisen Kaisha reports bringing in about 150 tons while the China Mail Steamship Company has brought in about forty tons.

No word has been received in local marine circles from the barkentine Alta, now seventy-five days out of Los Angeles for Bellingham. The Alta has on board Capt. Sexton, his wife and children and twenty-five men in the crew.

W. H. Sellander, general passenger agent for the Matson Navigation Company, who has returned to San Francisco, after a month's tour of the United States, says the prospects are good for a large tourist travel to Hawaii this year.

The Dutch steamer Simaleer was shifted from the Western Sugar Refinery wharf today to Pier 27, where it will begin loading cargo for Batavia.

The old government cruiser Yorktown, which is at the Crowley yards in Oakland, will be completely dismembered and sold for junk during the coming week.

TACOMA, May 6.—Bringing several hundred tons of general merchandise the steamer Wilhilo of the Williams Line arrived Sunday morning from New York. The vessel will load copper and lumber for her return trip.

The Lake Francis, new steamer purchased by the St. Paul mill, arrived from San Francisco early Sunday morning. She will load lumber for California.

SEATTLE, May 6.—The steamship Dorothy Alexander, which left Seattle at midnight last night for California ports, will have a passenger list of 250 out of Victoria, chiefly Canadians going south on vacation trips.

Capt. Charles A. Glasscock, formerly master of the steamship Admiral Watson of the Pacific Steamship Company, has been appointed commander of the Alaska Steamship Company's liner Northwestern, it was announced today. He succeeds Capt. J. G. Nord who has been assigned to the command of the Alaska Steamship Company's new liner Alaska.

The steamship Monticello, first vessel in the resumed service of the United American Lines from ports of Continental Europe and Great Britain to Seattle, is due to arrive here June 8, it was announced today. She will load here for London, Liverpool, Glasgow and Hamburg.

The auxiliary-powered schooner Boxer, of the United States Bureau of Education, was given a trial voyage and speed test here today after undergoing repairs in the plant of the Seattle Shipbuilding and Drydock Company. The vessel is scheduled to sail from Seattle next Thursday for Bristol Bay, the Kuskokwim River, Hooper Bay, Nome and St. Lawrence Island in Behring Sea.

COOS BAY (Or.) May 6.—The steamer C. A. Smith departed last evening with a cargo of lumber for Los Angeles.

It was believed today that the schooners Bangor and Sequoia and the steam schooner Yellowstone which were crippled by the I.W.W. strike and delayed here will be able to secure sailors and leave tomorrow or Tuesday.

PORTLAND (Or.) May 6.—The steamer North King, first steamer used in the Alaska cannery service by a Portland firm, left the river today on her initial trip to Nushagak Bay, Alaska, with cannery supplies and workmen. The sailing bark Levi G. Burgess, which for years past has done the work on which the North King has now embarked, has been tied up here and will not be commissioned this season.

Modern masts were stepped yesterday in the steamer Lake Sebago, which is being extensively overhauled here to fit her for the lumber trade. The name of the vessel is to be changed to Robert Johnson. She will operate in the service of the Pacific Spruce Corporation.

The Garland Line steamer William Campion which arrived in the Columbia River today will take 3,500,000 feet of lumber for Atlantic ports.

The steamer President Hayes, due here Tuesday from South American ports, is bringing heavy shipments of coffee, linseed oil and frozen meat for this port.

Wheat to the amount of 8500 tons for Europe and 200 barrels of flour for Central America are being loaded here by the Swedish motorship San Francisco.

Reports received here from Coos Bay today were that the steamer Brush wrecked near Point Arago, has almost completely broken up. Lumber from her cargo is still being salvaged as fast as it comes ashore.

PORT NOTES

On her first call at Los Angeles Harbor, the former U. S. Army transport Dix was due at daylight this morning on her initial voyage for the Robert Dollar Company, which purchased the famous old craft from the government. She has 4000 tons of cargo for Los Angeles from New York, Baltimore and Norfolk.

Four thousand cases of Scotland stove [illegible] and 2000 tons of canned goods and borax will be loaded on the Dutch liner Moerdijk, due this morning from the north to load for the United Kingdom and Europe.

Yesterday was a busy day for the local [illegible] of the Royal Dutch Shell Oil Co[illegible] tankers being in port to load 315[illegible] of fuel oil for widely separated corners of the globe. Two of the British vessels, the tankers British Star and San Fabian, were on their initial calls here. The San Fabian, a unit of the huge fleet of the Eagle Oil Transport Company, loaded 125,000 barrels of oil at the Union Oil terminal.

The heaviest fog of the year, coming at an unusual season, blanketed the outer harbor and roads at the port until noon yesterday. Twenty offshore and coastwise vessels were delayed in making port, while a number of small boats from the battle fleet experienced minor accidents as a result.

Ten thousand cases of California gasoline will go out to New Plymouth, New Zealand, on the Shipping Board liner West Katan, due here this week in the Australia-Pacific service of Swayne & Hoyt, Inc. It will be the first case oil shipment made to that port from Los Angeles.

Traffic Rule Is to Affect Street Cars

An amendment to the traffic ordinances, effective next Sunday, will compel street cars to make turns on the "Go" signal of the traffic officer or automatic semaphore. For several years street cars have been moving through downtown curves on the "Stop" signal. This is a police regulation designed to prevent "squeezing" of autos between the car and the curb on some of the narrow streets.

The practice of street cars turning on the "Stop" signal was always a cause of some confusion to automobile drivers and resulted in the City Council amending the traffic measures on April 6. The change was aproved by Mayor Cryer April 11.

Warning signs will be employed by the Automobile Club of Southern California and the Los Angeles Railway to familiarize autoists with the new procedure and to guard against accidents.

REPORT GOLD FIND IN CIMARRON MOUNTAINS

SHAFTS SUNK IN GREENBACK MINE 100 FEET REACH WIDE VEIN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CASA GRANDE (Ariz.) May 6. In the Cimarron Mountains, forty miles south of this point, is declared to have been found in one of the great gold fields of the Southwest. In the Greenback mine, several shafts sunk about 100 feet are said to have found continuous ore in a vein more than ten feet wide, with assays running from $12 gold to even $300.

The group of twelve claims has been under development for two years, with Frank W. Royer as engineer and Paul Henshaw as superintendent. On the property are three parallel veins, all said to sample well in gold.

At the head of the Greenback Company is H. J. Humphrey, president of the United Comstock Mines Company of Virginia City, Nev., and one of the pioneers at Goldfield.

The W. T. Davis gold property, four miles southwest of the Copperosity, has been sold to a New York organization, at a price reported to have been $100,000. Water is to be developed, with expectation of building a large reduction plant.

"The Lucky Beggar"

Although there are more than 3,000,000 fakirs in India, a beggar never starves, except voluntarily in self-punishment, so afraid are the natives of incurring the wrath of their multitudinous gods if the holy men are not cared for.

CRICKETERS TO PLAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—Bermuda A.A. of Hamilton, Bermuda, will send a cricket eleven to play a series of games in Philadelphia and New York City in June.

Have You Investment Opportunity?

Wish to hear of manufacturing business or industrial proposition of any nature which is legitimate and which needs from $20,000 to $50,000 additional capital for expansion.
Or would like to hear of building or mortgage investment opportunity or something substantial—some growing concern where there is a real opportunity for reasonable profits.
No patents, oil or mining propositions considered.
Safety of investment more important than large profits. I will appreciate if you will state the nature of business and capital required, so that if I am interested I can arrange interview.
Will give close consideration to any high-class proposition and worthy project with bright future. References exchanged.

New Irrigation District Plans Given Approval

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, May 6. — The proposed Vandalia Irrigation District, comprising about 1600 acres southeast of Porterville, has been approved by the State Engineering Department, according to word received by Tulare County Supervisors. Having already been sanctioned by the Supervisors, it is expected that the system will be constructed in the near future.

This district covers considerable acreage in the Mentz and Vaughn subdivisions east of Plano which have been highly developed with citrus fruits. The plan calls for utilization of surface water of the Tule River, with wells if needed.

A petition submitted to the Supervisors about two months ago contained the names of practically every land owner in the proposed boundaries. Organization is expected to begin at once and next spring and summer will likely see thedistrict operating at full capacity.

SPECULATIVE MARKET TAKES DECIDED DROP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—With production still holding at high levels, interest in financial and business circles centered during the past week in the rather pronounced weakness shown by the chief speculative markets.

The average of industrial shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange declined four points, cotton lost nearly two cents, and wheat reacted approximately four cents. Among other commodities which show a tendency to decline were copper, lead, rubber and sugar.

In some quarters, it was held that the reactions were a natural accompaniment of the slackening of the buying movements which have been so strongly maintained during the early spring.

As to what will happen next, there is further difference of opinion. Some maintain that consumers will not pay the higher prices. Such persons naturally take a bearish view of the stock market. Others emphasize the point that the wage increases will enlarge the purchasing power and expect consumers to make their demands felt regardless of the higher prices.

As to the stock market itself, it has been apparent that the recent reactions were precipitated and forced by active short selling by an aggressive bear party. It is generally admitted, however, that extensive liquidation was induced. Stop-loss orders were caught, weak holders were shaken out, and tired longs were induced to let go. As the week closed a steadier tone was, however, apparent.

ASKS COURT TO HALT DAM IN DEER CREEK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, May 6.—A water suit has been filed in the Superior Court at Visalia by Edward F. Halbert of this city, against the Deer Creek Ditch Company. Halbert asks a restraining order to prohibit the defendant company from daming the waters of Deer Creek for diversion into ditches.

Halbert says he has a riparian water right alonfl the banks of the stream, which will be impaired if the defendant company dams the river.

TO LET ROAD CONTRACT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VISALIA, May 6.—Tomorrow Tulare County Supervisors will open bids for eight miles of surfacing of its highway, four miles out of Dinuba, two miles out of Lindsay and two miles south from Plaza toward Tulare. This is expected to be the first of a series of such jobs which will be done until all the county system is topped with an asphalt surfacing.

VETERANS TO AID ORPHANS

Legion Auxiliary is Raising National Fund

High Official is Guest of Local Voiture

Box-Car Gang Will Induct Many Candidates

Tentative plans for a nation-wide movement to provide for orphans of ex-service men of the World War will be outlined today to local members of La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, the playground branch of the American Legion, by Howard E. MacDonald of Seattle, national correspondent of the organization.

Howard E. MacDonald

While in the city, Mr. MacDonald will be the guest of Locale Voiture No. 47. In explaining the details of the plan to a Times representative, Mr. MacDonald said that a fund is being raised by national subscription and will be used to provide for the children of dead veterans whose cases are needy. The money is now being gathered from members of the society and will be permitted to accumulate until the tentative plans have been submitted to the national convention at San Francisco, October 15 to 19.

HOME LIFE SOUGHT

"We have determined not to build an orphanage for these children, or to place them in public institutions of any kind, as we believe that no matter how perfect a juvenile institution may be in its methods of raising children, in none of them is a child given the same opportunities that home life in a private family offers," Mr. MacDonald said, and continued:

"It is our intention, when possible, to allow the children to remain with the surviving parent. The mother can best look after the interest of her own children. Funds will be provided for their maintenance so that they may be properly cared for without proving a burden to the parent."

Clarence E. Cronkhite, national vice-president of the organization, who resides in Los Angeles, will be in charge of the work in California. Both Cronkhite and MacDonald recently returned from Kansas City, where they attended a meeting of the Children's Welfare Committee of the society.

ALL IN FUN

La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux was organized in 1920 by a group of legionnaires in Pennsylvania who felt that the formal meetings of the American Legion did not provide an outlet for the fun-making tendencies of the ex-soldier, sailor and marine. At the Kansas City national convention the society had grown to be such a success that it was officially designated as an auxiliary body of the Legion.

It now has a membership of approximately 100,000, and has more than 500 Voitures Locale in various sections of the country. The organization takes its name from the French railway in which American soldiers were transported during the war. The cars were marked "40 hommes et 8 chevaux," or 40 men and 8 horses.

Today's program calls for an executive conference of the national and local officials. Mr. MacDonald will be guest of honor at a dinner at the Paris Inn at 6 p.m. At 8:30 p.m., a large promenade will be conducted at El Segundo, of which Chef de Gare A. W. Smith will be in charge.

Legionnaires of Redondo Beach, Inglewood, Manhattan Beach, El Segundo and Playa Del Rey will be initiated into the box car gang tonight by the famous wrecking crew of the Los Angeles County Voiture.

TUFTS GRADUATES MAY FORM BODY

A meeting of Tufts College graduates at the Pig and Whistle, 729 South Broadway, Saturday night, will probably result in the formation of a local alumni organization, it was said yesterday. Another meeting has been called for June 2 at Brookside Park, Pasadena. Those present at the Saturday gathering were Charles H. Emmons, '05; M. H. Houghton, '11, and Mrs. Houghton; Earl S. Wallace, '10, and Mrs. Wallace; C. N. Amsden, '11, and Mrs. Amsden; Leslie Schwartz, '09; Rev. G. W. Colson, '02; Prof. H. M. Morley, '02; N. J. Brown, '11; George A. Miller '05; Dr. S. Lokrantz, '18, and Guy E. Marion, '03. Tufts graduates are asked to send their names to Earl S. Wallace at Pasadena.

CURVE TO BE TAKEN FROM ROAD TO PARKS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

THREE RIVERS, May 6.—Moffat Brothers' merchandise store and soft-drink emporium at Three Rivers, which has offered refuge to many hungry and weary tourists en route to and from Sequoia and Gen. Grant parks and the upper mountains, will have to be moved twenty-five feet back from the roadway so that the State Highway Commission can negotiate the turn in the Three Rivers highway with safety for all traffic.

A complete survey of the entire road from Visalia to the end above Three Rivers has been made in compliance with request of the State Highway Commission.

RANCH SALE REPORTED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LEMON COVE, May 6.—Sale of the famous Orval Overall ranch here to Mrs. Louise Blakesley of New York for $150,000 is reported. This property comprises 180 acres of improved land on which is one of the most modern and finest ranch homes of the valley. The Overall ranch lies on the road to General Grant and Sequoia and is one of the scenic beauties of the drive and has entertained many tourists en route to the big trees. It is one of the show places of Tulare county.

The Wire Tappers

by Arthur Stringer

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALMENT.

Jim Durkin earns his living as a telegrapher until the lure of easy money in wire-tapping leads him from the straight and narrow to a cell in jail. MacNutt, a crooked race track manipulator, needs Durkin's brains and experience in his business and secures his freedom. In a house rented for the purpose, MacNutt has tapped the private wire over which is flashed the result of every race to the followers of the turf at Penfield's gambling rooms. At MacNutt's headquarters Durkin meets Frances Candler, a clever young Englishwoman, with whom he is to work in this game of converting stolen information into cash.

CHAPTER III

More than once, during the feverish, kaleidoscopic days that followed, Durkin found himself drawing aside to ask if, after all, he were not living some restless dream in which all things hung tenuous and insubstantial. The fine linen and luxury of life were so new to him that in itself it half intoxicated; yet, outside the mere ventral pleasures of existence, with its good dinners in quiet cafes of gold and glass and muffling carpets, its visits to rustling, dimly lighted theaters, its drives about the open city, its ever-mingled odors of Havana and cut flowers — there was the keener and more penetrating happiness of listening to the soft English voice of what seemed to him a bewilderingly beautiful woman.

She was that, at least to him; and Durkin was content to let the world think what it liked. He found work to be done, it is true, —rigorous and exacting work while it lasted, when the appointed days for holding up Penfield's dispatches came around. But the danger of it all, for some reason, never entered his mind, as he sat over his instrument, reading off the horses to the woman at his side, who, in turn, repeated them over the telephones, in cipher, to MacNutt and Mackenzie, and then, when the time allowance had elapsed, cutting in once more and sending on the intercepted dispatches, even imitating to a nicety the slip-shod erratic volubility of Corcoran's "blind send."

Only once did a disturbing incident tend to ruffle the quiet waters of Durkin's strange contentment. It was one afternoon when Mackenzie had been sent in to make a report, and had noticed certain things to which he did not take kindly, Durkin thought.

"I mnot saying anything," he blurted out, when they were alone, "but don't let that woman make a fool of you!"

"You shut up about that woman!" retorted Durkin, hotly. Then, imagining he saw some second and deeper meaning in the other's words, he caught him by the lapel of the vest, and held him against the wall.

"You are saying something, you hound! What do you mean by that, anyway?" he cried, with a white face. The man against the wall could see that a word would bring the onslaught, but he was used to trouble of that sort and many a keener menace. So he only laughed contemptuously, with his shoulders up, as he pulled the other's fingers from his throat.

"You damned lobster, you!" he said, going off on the safer tack of amiable profanity. Then, feeling himself free once more, his old bitter audacity proclaimed itself.

"You fool, you, don't you know that woman's been—"

But here the entrance of the girl herself put a stop to his speech. Yet, troubled in spirit as some currish and unspoken insinuation left him, Durkin breathed no word to the girl herself of what had taken place, imperiously as she demanded to know what Mackenzie had been saying.

On the day following, as McNutt had arranged, the two paid their first visit to Penfield's lower house, from which Durkin carried away confused memories of a square-jawed doorkeeper—who passed him readily enough, at a word from the girl—of well-dressed men and overdressed women crowded about a smoke-wreathed, softly lighted room, one side of which was taken up with a blackboard on which attendants were feverishly chalking down entries, jockeys, weights and odds, while on the other side of the room opened the receiving and paying tellers' little windows, through which now and then he saw hurrying clerks; of bettors excitedly filling in slips which disappeared with their money through the mysterious pigeonhole in the wall; of the excited comments as the announcer called the different phases and facts of the races, crying dramatically when the horses were at the post, when they were off, when one horse led, and when another; when the winner passed under the wire; of the long, wearing wait while the jockeys were weighing in, an dof the posting of the official returns, while the lucky ones — faded beauties with cigarette-stained fingers, lean and cadaverous looking "habituals," stout and flashy looking professionals, girlish and innocent-looking young women, heavy dowagers resplendent in their morning diamonds,—gathered jubilantly at the window for their money. The vaster army of the unlucky, on the other hand, dropped forlornly away, or lingered for still another plunge.

Frances had no love for this part of the work, and in this Durkin heartily agreed with her.

"The more I know of track-racing and its army of hangers-on," he declared to her, "the more I hate it, and everything about it! They say there are over fifty thousand men in the business, altogether—and you may have noticed how they all—the owners and the bigger men, I mean — dilate on their purpose of 'improving the breed of the thoroughbred' — but to my mind, it's to improve the breed of rascality!"

He noted her habitual little head-shake as she started to speak.

"Yes, I think more unhappiness, more wrecked lives and characters, more thieves and criminals, really come from the race-track than from all the other evils in your country. It's not the racing itself, and the spectacular way of your idle rich for wasting their money! No, it's not that. It's the way whatyou call the smaller fry cluster about it, so cruelly and mercilessly 'on the make,' as they put it, and infect the rest of the more honest world with their diseased lust for gain without toil. I have watched them and seen them. It is deadly; it stifles every last shred of good out of them! And then the stewards and the jockey clubs themselves try to hide the shameful condition of things, and drape and hang their veil of lies and hypocrisy and moral debauchery over these buzzing clouds of parasites; and so it goes on! For, indeed, I know them," she ended, bitterly. "Oh, I know them well!"

Durkin thought of the four great circuits, eastern, southern, western and Pacific slope, of the huge and complicated and mysteriously half-hidden gambling machinery close beside each great center of American population, New York and Washington, Chicago and St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans, where duplicity and greed daily congregate, where horses go round and round in their killing and spectacular short-speed bursts, and money flashes and passes back and forth, and portly owners sit back and talk of the royal sport, as they did, Durkin told himself, in the days of Tyre and Rome. But day by day, with the waning afternoon, the machinery comes to a stop, the sacrificial 2-year-olds are blanketed and stabled, the grand stands disgorge their crowds, and from some lower channel of the dark machine drift the railbirds and the tipsters, the bookmakers and touts, the dissolute lives and the debauched moral sensibilities, the poolroom feeders and attendants in the thick of the city itself, the idlers and the criminals.

The thought of it filled him with a sudden emotional craving for honesty and clean living and well being. He rejoiced in the clear sunlight and the obvious respectability of the avenue up which they were walking so briskly — for about Frances Candler, he had always found, there lurked nothing of the subterranean and morbidly secretive. She joyed in her wholesome exercise and open air; she always seemed to be pleading for the simplicities and the sanities of existence. She still stood tantalizingly unreconciled, in his mind, to the plane of life on which he had found her.

It was one night after a lucky plunge on a twenty-to-one horse had brought him in an unexpected fortune of $1800, that Durkin, driving past Madison Square through the chilly afternoon of the late autumn, with a touch of winter already in the air, allowed his thoughts to wander back to what seemed the thin and empty existence as a train-dispatcher and a Postal-Union operator. As he gazed out on the closed cars and the women and the lights, and felt the warmth of the silent girl at his side, he wondered how he had ever endured those old, colorless days. He marveled at the hold which the mere spectacular side of life could get on one. He tried to tell himself that he hated the ill-gotten wealth that lay so heavy and huge in his pocket at that moment, and he smothered his last warmth of satisfaction with the phrase which she had used a few days before: "Their diseased lust for gain without toil." Then he tried to think of the life he was leading, with one figure eliminated, and the blankness of the prospect appalled him.

With a sudden impetuous motion he caught up her hand, where it lay idly in her lap, and held it close. She tried to draw away, but could not.

"Everything seems so different, Frank, since I've known you!" he said, a little huskily.

"It's different with me, too!" she all but whispered, looking away. Her face, in the waning light, against the gloom of the dark-curtained taxicab, looked pale, and, as he had so often felt, almost flowerlike.

"Frank!" he cried in a voice that started her breathing quickly. "Won't you—won't you marry me?"

She looked at him out of what seemed frightened eyes, with an unnatural and half-startled light on her pale face.

"I love you, Frank, more than I could ever tell you!" he went on, impetuously. "You could walk over me, you could break me, and do what you like with me, and I'd be happy!"

"Oh, you don't know me, you don't know me!" she cried. "You don't know what I've been!" And some agony of mind seemed to wrench her whole body.

"I don't care what you've been — I know what you are! You're the woman I'd give my life for—I'd lay it down, without a thought, for you! And, good Lord, look at me! Don't you think I'm bad enough myself—and a hundred times more weak and vacillating than you! I love you, Frank; isn't that enough?"

"No!" she mourned, "it's not enough!"

"But you've got to be loved, you want to be loved, or you wouldn't have eyes and a mouth like that! It's the only thing, now, that can make life worth while!"

She let him catch her up to his shoulder and hold her there, with her wet cheek against his; she even said nothing when he bent and kissed her on the lips, though her face grew colorless at his touch.

"I do love you," she sighed weakly. "I do love you! I do!" and she clung to him, childishly, shaken with a sob or two, happy, yet vaguely troubled.

"Where?" she asked.

"Anywhere, where there's daylight and honesty and fair play!"

RODEO AND BARBECUE DRAW LARGE CROWD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VISALIA, May 6.—The ninth annual round-up of Cutler Brothers at Moore Creek range on Boyd's Grade, nine miles northeast of Orosi, was conducted today with cowboys in the saddle at daybreak and several hundred San Joaquin Valley people participating in the rodeo, big free barbecue, branding and other events.

Cutler Brothers' range is the second largest in Tulare county. Cowboys worked all week bringing the stock within range for the drive to fenced acreas and b randing operations. From 280 to 300 calves were branded last spring, but this number is expected to be increased this season. The cattle have ranged the great pasture acreage from Auckland to the plains since coming out of the High Sierras in the fall.

Many of the best riders in Tulare county were present.

RECEIVER SOUGHT FOR OIL COMPANY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VISALIA, May 6.—Hearing of the application of the Swall family for a receiver for the Reserve Oil Company has been postponed until the 14th inst. by reason of a crowded court calendar. The Swalls bought heavily of stock in the oil company which operated in the Lost Hills, but never got any oil, after turning over its holdings to another concern, requesting stockholders to assign their stock to the new company and receive something like 14 cents on the dollar. Many Visalians bought in the company and most of them are holding their stock.

GETS ACCIDENT DAMAGES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VISALIA, May 6.—G. Mitsuda will receive $4728 from J. W. and C. V. Isbell, of the Isbell Construction Company, as a result of decision handed down by Superior Judge J. A. Allen in a damage suit, arising over collision of the plaintiff's auto with a wagon of the defendant's, left on the county highway near Sultana. The plaintiff asked $13,443.15, charging that the wagon had no lights and covered the eastern half of the paved portion of the road and that the plaintiff's car was badly wrecked at 2 a.m. He was injured and his wife was killed in the wreck.

COUPLE DIE TOGETHER.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DES MOINES, May 6. — Mrs. Gene Booth of Storm Lake, despondent and heartsick, plugged the keyholes and cracks in the house, turned on the gas and lay down beside her husband who was helpless from a stroke of paralysis. They were found dead in bed the next day. Both were near 70 years of age.

NEW CITY MANAGER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

Best Man at Wedding Fires Shots at Random; Youth Struck

One of several shots fired last night in celebration of a wedding or of Cinco de Mayo or the way the best man felt struck Tony Martinez, 14 years of age, a guest at the wedding, in the hip. At least so the police said. They arrested the best man, Antonio Esparza, on a charge of battery.

The wedding was that of Louis Pais and Crescencia Santos and the celebration was at 1718 Paducah avenue.

SIR ARTHUR WILL BRING US SPOOKS

Conan Doyle to Arrive in Los Angeles on 13th; Quite Auspicious

Los Angeles will be introduced to spooks, or psychic beings that people the "other world," by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, noted creator of Sherlock Holmes and spiritualist. Sir Arthur and a party of seven have engaged a suite at the Ambassador for the 13th inst. The arrival of the noted investigator into the realm of the supernatural on the 13th, usually accepted as an auspicious date for spooks and that sort, is thought to be especially significant.

The arrival of Sir Arthur at this time will afford the renowned authority on ghosts and the like an opportunity to answer the charge of Houdini, made a short time back, that the spiritualist is nothing besides a "master of hokum." This coming from Houdini, who has fooled the public for years, was accepted with a certain amount of interest here.

The present lecture trip in the United States by Sir Arthur is after a year's absence. Since his recent trip across the country the author investigator has said that Americans are better friends of spooks than they were.

"Americans used to laugh at ghosts," said Sir Arthur, now they take them under their wing and cuddle them."

VICTIM OF AUTO NOT IDENTIFIED

The man was knocked down on Central avenue, near Twenty-third street, according to the police report, by a car driven by Wayman Hayman of 1410 East Twenty-third street. He died of a fractured skull while on his way to the Receiving Hospital.

Hayman told the police, they say, he was blinded by the light of a trolley car and did not see the man until too late to stop. He was held pending action by the Coroner.

Yet within a short time eleven of those brave men who had worn the uniform were lynched—not for any crime but 'just to show them they were no better than they were when they left in the service of their country.'"

HITS FILIBUSTER

Explaining that the Dyer antilynching bill had passed Congress and declaring that it would also have passed the Senate if it had been allowed to come to a vote, the speaker scored the Senatorial filibusterers who prevent the passage of important measures by indulging in long-winded speeches on trivial subjects.

"Instead of having only about 100,000 members of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People we ought to have 1,000,000 members fighting the battle for justice to the 12,000,000 of your race," said the speaker. "I understand you have only 1000 members of the association in Los Angeles. That is your shame and disgrace. In the first place your pastors should get right with God and do a little more honest work as well as praying. Prayer alone won't stop lynching. We've been praying for thirty-five years, yet they continue to burn and shoot innocent men and women. For the sake of justice to your brothers and sisters of this nation stop your bickering and quarreling and organize to teach and preach human rights from your pulpits and in your schools until America shall recognize her shame and eliminate it."

HARBOR STRIKE NEAR COLLAPSE

Stampede of Workers Back to Jobs Expected

Substitutes From North Due if Radicals Persist

Shipowners Have Effective Check on Wobblies

An immediate resumption of work by the majority of the 1700 marine workers and seamen at Los Angeles Harbor who quit their jobs April 26 when called out by the I.W.W., was forecast by representatives of the shipowners last night.

With but one day remaining before an army of workers from the North is scheduled to arrive at the harbor, scores of the strikers yesterday appeared before their former employers and announced their willingness to return to work today. No official action has been taken by the strikers as an organization, however, although their leaders a week ago Sunday made verbal promises to return to work within a week unless an early settlement was effected.

ONE ARREST MADE

Yesterday was declared by police officers to be the quietest day since the strike call was issued. Only one man, B. Johanson, was arrested, being charged with picketing. Johanson was out on bail on a criminal-syndicalism charge at the time of his arrest, according to police, and is now being held at the harbor jail without bond.

Eugene Mill, president of the Shipowners' Association, announced yesterday that at least 200 workers were scheduled to arrive at the harbor tomorrow. He expressed the belief that coastwise shipping, which has been the hardest hit, would return to normal schedules within the next few days.

According to reports received by police, the meetings being held by the strikers have shown a steady decrease in attendance during the past week.

SERVICE BUREAU BUSY

The Service Bureau, as instituted by the Shipowners' Association of the Pacific Coast, is the best possible agency for keeping the waterfronts of Pacific ports and ships under the American flag free of Reds and radical agitators, according to Mr. Mills.

"Our employment system has been especially devised to weed out I.W.W. agitators who, like all human parasites, always select a prosperous seaport or other industrial community for their insidious activities," said Mr. Mills. "We are co-operating with the Department of Justice in handling this affair and we know the deep-laid plans of the I.W.W. from the beginning.

KEEP RECORD ON REDS

"In an effort to strengthen their power on the Pacific Coast the I.W.W. a year ago ordered something like a pilgrimage of Reds from the Atlantic Coast to Los Angeles Harbor," he continued. "Since then they have been drifting in here at the rate of about 100 men per month. However, with our own records and those furnished by the Department of Justice we are able to weed those fellows out as soon as they appear and they soon disappear inland and up the Coast when they find they are blacklisted.

"Los Angeles Harbor has a nest of approximately 250 Reds, scattered about the port. We know that the number has not increased in a year. We are able to keep about seventy-five of these fellows either in jail or on their way there, so that we really have only about 175 Wobblies to account for. Our records show that 100 of these men are scattered among the building trades.

WORK AS ORGANIZERS

"This gives us only seventy-five Reds to account for on the waterfront. Some of these fellows are clever and are working under cover as I.W.W. organizers. They are the men who instigated the present trouble, and we are gradually weeding them out.

"The majority of the waterfront workers at this port live here, own homes and are men with families. They have never been in sympathy with the I.W.W., and walked out either through a misconception of the affair or through intimidation. We want these men back at work, there will be no discrimination against them, and we expect them to return to their jobs as soon as the present unnatural conditions are readjusted."

A centralized employment bureau is the most efficient system for Los Angeles Harbor, shipping men at the port agree, declaring that the present method is a great improvement over the old hall method, in use during the days of the marine unions.

Folds of Silk Generate Spark; Woman Injured

An electric spark caused by rubbing the folds of a dress together may have caused the gasoline explosion which burned Miss Mary G. Fitzpatrick of 3109 Perlita avenue yesterday. Miss Fitzpatrick, who was treated at the Receiving Hospital by Dr. Hoke, declared there was no fire near from which the gasoline fumes could have been ignited.

She had first and second degree burns on the arms and chest, but will recover. The accident happened at 3045 Laclede avenue, where Miss Fitzpatrick was visiting a friend. She was cleaning the dress at the time. Patrolmen Reeves and Asselin took her to the hospital.

NOTED SHIP PAYS VISIT TO HARBOR

Tug Roosevelt Was Used by Admiral Peary in Dash to North Pole

Battling its way down the Coast from Puget Sound through heavy seas and towing the heavily-loaded lumber barge Dascula, the seagoing tug Roosevelt, the vessel used by Admiral Robert E. Peary in his trip to the North Pole in 1906-07, arrived in Los Angeles Harbor yesterday to pay its first visit to this port.

The Roosevelt was recently bought from the Bureau of Fisheries by the Western Transportation Company of Seattle and has been refitted and made into a seagoing tug for use in the lumber trade between Los Angeles and Puget Sound. The tug's first trip south was made in six days, considered an unusually good record in view of the stormy weather she encountered.

She is in command of Capt. Will Sporman, who was enthusiastic over the sea qualities of his new ship when he arrived at the harbor. The 1000-horse power engines which propelled the Roosevelt to the North Pole, are still being used in the tug and performed wonderfully on the trip from Puget Sound, Capt. Sporman said.

The Roosevelt was visited by several hundred sightseeing parties yesterday. The vessel was built in Bath, Me., and is made of solid oak. She is 182 feet long and has a net tonnage of 343. Before being placed in the coastwise service she was on duty in Alaskan waters for the government.

CROWDS AT NEW CHURCH DEDICATION

First Methodist Episcopal Four-Story Sunday-School Building Completed

The Sunday School building, the first unit of the new $1,500,000 building of the First Methodist Episcopal Church to be completed, was dedicated yesterday in the presence of a huge congregation and many invited guests.

In delivering the opening address, Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Helms, pastor of the church stressed the fact that the young people need social, recreational and physical development as well as religious teachings and that in erecting the building arrangements were made so that the youths of the church will be developed along well-rounded, healthy, vigorous lines into worthy and helpful christian citizens.

The new building is four stories high and contains facilities for educational and recreational sports of all kinds as well as general Sunday School equipment which is unsurpassed on the Pacific Coast. Each cass in each department is furnished with a separate room. The unit also contains the various church offices as well as the Sunday School offices and each floor is equipped with private booth telephones and elevators.

The fourth floor is given over entirely to a large hall where basketball and other indoor games may be played ans is equipped with a motion-picture machine. This hall also will be used for a dining hall and will accommodate 800 persons. Smaller dining halls with kitchenettes are installed on each floor.

It is expected that the main part of the edifice will be ready for occupancy within a few weeks.

TODAYS BIBLE TEXT

THE KINGDOM WITHIN:—The kingdom of God cometh not with observation: Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there; for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you.—Luke xvii, 20, 21.

For the Kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.—Romans xiv, 17.

PRIZE BABIES WIN AWARDS

Annual Kiddies' Parade at Ocean Park Attracts Thousands; Gorgeous Floats Seen

Beautiful babies, gorgeous floats, a crowd of 50,000 spectators and three judges who were faced with the perplexing problem of selecting the winners from the entrants, were in attendance yesterday at the Third Annual Kiddies' Parade at Ocean Park.

The event was a typical southern California affair, and virtually every city in the Southland was represented by floats. One of the winners was from New York and another from Colorado.

One hundred and forty-eight floats were entered for the $700 prize money offered. The parade extended along the beach promenade from Venice to Ocean Park—a long, varicolored stream of beautifully decorated floats with their small but interesting passengers, who were viewed by an immense crowd which lined the two miles or more of walk between Venice and Ocean Park.

Yesterday's parade was declared by those in charge to have surpassed the parades of the two previous years in point of attendance and in the number of entrants.

As the best example of a real flower, William Shurt of Venice was given the silver cup offered by Mrs. Earle Fraser, director of the show. A trophy offered by Neil Nettleship for the best-decorated child float was awarded Horace Lambden of Santa Monica.

The judges were Mrs. Cloe Craig, Frank Pryor and Mrs. I. Mitchell. Other awards, according to classification, were:

Commercial: Marguerite Schrieber and Robert Taylor, first; Santa Monica Dairy, second; Los Angeles Times, with Archie Schaefer, third; Pickering Places, fourth.

Original: Betty Jane Keith, Denver, first; Violet Garberg and Milton Grafton, Venice, second; Cecilia Flease and Harriett Jacobs, Ocean Park, third.

Cupid: Dorothy Brock, Venice, first.

LOS ANGELES GOLFERS WIN

Realtors Capture Match From Bay City Hosts at Del Monte During Gay Celebration

BY EDWARD G. LEAF,
"Times" Staff Representative

DEL MONTE, May 6.—Golf reigned supreme here today, the third and last day of the Inter-City Hi Jinks, at which San Francisco has played host to the Los Angeles Realty Board.

Aside from the public wedding at the Roman baths at noon there was nothing to distract attention from the golf finals which began early this morning and continued late into the afternoon. Saturday's program wound up with a big banquet of a purely informal nature in the main dining-room of the Del Monte Hotel.

Speeches were banned, aside from a brief word of welcome and friendship by the president of the San Francisco Real Estate Board, Harry B. Allen, and impromptu entertainment by some of the versatile members of the San Francisco board held sway.

ENJOY MINSTREL

Following the banquet the "Low Jings," a minstrel and vaudeville show which starred talent incidentally for first rank of the San Francisco board, was held in the art gallery of the hotel.

Los Angeles, which early in the program gave a good account of the athletic ability of its board members, carried off the honors in the golf tournament and to B. A. Burton of Los Angeles went the distinction of being the State's star realtor golfer.

Burton concluded the final match by defeating W. G. Young also of Los Angeles. Burton's victory, however, was hard fought, for Jimmy Donohue of Los Angeles gave him stiff competition in the morning and the round with Young in the afternoon was decided only at the nineteenth hole.

Howard J. Mallen of San Francisco put up a hard fight in the second flight but was finally defeated by Frank Ayres of Los Angeles. Mallen outplayed Braley of Los Angeles, also first baseman on the victorious baseball team, and Ed Tufts of Los Angeles lost a 20-hole match to Ayres.

Billy Dunn, San Francisco realtor, became involved in one of the most hotly contested matches of the day finally losing in the fifth flight to K. M. Jeffrey at the 22nd hole. Sam Buckbee was also a competitor in this flight but had to default in order to return to San Francisco.

NAMES THREE AS KIDNAPERS

Youths Arrested After She Tells of Mistreatment

Carried Away Twice, Victim Says; Two More Sought

Screams that roused the neighborhood around 808 Clay street, led the police early yesterday to the place where Astrea Jolly, 16 years of age, had been held captive, according to her account, since she was kidnaped from the vicinity of her home Thursday night. She was mistreated by three captors, she declared, and gave information to the police which caused the arrests of three young men.

William Joseph, 18 years of age, of 2546 East Fifty-seventh street, was the first arrested, according to Detective Lieutenants Culp and Sherrard. From information he supplied, the detectives declare, they arrested L. H. Finnell, 20, of 1153 East Fifty-third street, and Frank Sancen, 21, of 1223½ East Fifty-second street. The girl is asserted to have identified all three.

SCREAMS FOR HELP

Fear of her captors, the girl declared, caused her to keep silent until they left her early yesterday morning, and then she screamed for help. Neighbors who heard her cries telephoned the police, and detectives then found the girl for whom the whole police department had been searching since early Friday morning.

She was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Saverien, police surgeon, examined her and found she was suffering no serious physical effects from her experience. She appeared mentally confused, however, and could give no very clear account of what had happened.

The arrest of Joseph was the second time he had been taken into custody. He was first taken Friday night on information supplied by the girl's brother, but released later for lack of evidence.

ABDUCTED TWICE

The girl was twice abducted, according to her story. The first time, she entered an automobile at the invitation of two young men who asked her to take a ride. They mistreated her, she declared, but brought her back again to the vicinity of her home, where they permitted her to get out of the car. Then, she declared, she was seized forcibly by three other men and forced into a second car, which carried her off, after a fight with the first pair.

It was this second car that was seen by her mother, who tried to prevent the kidnaping. Mrs. Jolly jumped on the running board and attempted to free her daughter, but was shoved away roughly and the car moved on bearing the girl out of sight.

TWO YOUTHS SOUGHT

At the girl's home, 2505 East Fifty-third street, Mrs. Jolly declared she had recognized one of the men in the automobile as a youth who had called at her house two or three times. She gave his name as Hugh McCann, and declared McCann's roommate, whom she knew as Hadley, was in the car also. The police were unable to locate either McCann or Hadley. It was said McCann had been seen in Huntington Park early Friday and had disappeared when he learned his name had been men-

ONE DEAD, FIVE DYING IN BLAST

Nine Scalded in Explosion on New York

Victims Are Transferred to Hospital Ship

Quiz Ordered by Navy Men; Details Withheld

Scalded by live steam from the explosion of an evaporator on the starboard side of the battleship New York, stationed at Los Angeles Harbor, late Saturday night, one man died yesterday and so seriously injured were five others that they are not expected to survive the night, it was learned yesterday through a report by Capt. R. C. Moody, commander of the vessel. Three others were less seriously burned and are expected to recover.

All of the injured were members of the crew and were from Honolulu. They were off duty and were engaged in an clandestine dice game when the explosion took place, it was said.

V. Peter, a third class fireman, died from his injuries yesterday afternoon, on board the hospital ship Relief.

INQUIRY PLANNED

Those expected to die are also on board the Relief. They are C. P. Bridges, fireman, third class; J. Manaku, Jr., seaman, second class; J. Mitchell, fireman, first class; J. H. Richards, engineman, second class, and J. Soloman, fireman, second class.

S. Gunderson, fireman, second class; J. A. Garrity, fireman, third class, and J. Ventello, engineman, second class, are expected to live, though seriously scalded. Garrity and Ventello were kept aboard the New York and were placed in the sickbay for treatment by the ship's own surgeons. Gunderson, whose hurts are more serious, was transferred to the Relief.

The explosion, the most serious that has taken place in the Navy in several years, will be investigated by a special board of inquiry which Admiral Eberle will name, it was said. Naval officers refused to discuss the matter and nothing more than the bare fact that an explosion had occurred and the names and ratings of the injured was given out officially.

PLAYERS TRAPPED

The evaporators, one located on each side of the vessel, are isolated from the engine room and the boiler room by water bulkheads. They take the exhaust steam from the turbines and reheat it, it was said, performing the function of auxiliary boilers.

The evaporator room, being warm and secluded, is a favorite place for games of chance aboard ship, it was said, as the men stand less chance there of coming under the eyes of officers. Gambling aboard ship is forbidden by Navy regulations.

Capt. Moody even refused the home addresses of the injured men and declined to discuss possible causes of the explosion of the evaporator. He said the cause was "unknown."

Wild Flowers Will be Topic of Addresses

A number of addresses are announced for today, tomorrow and Wednesday at the Southwest Museum by the Wildflower Club. A collection of flowers also will be displayed.

Rev. George Holt of Pasadena will speak today at 8 p.m. on "Scenic Tour Among the Wild Flowers of California," or "California At the End of the Rainbow." In connection with the lecture, lantern slides will be shown.

Tomorrow at 3 p.m., Mrs. H. H. Rockwell of Glendale will speak on some phase of wildflowers and the activities of the Wildflower Club and at 8 p.m. Francis M. Fultz, lecturer on flowers, will speak on "Our Socialist Wildflowers." The address will be illustrated with slides.

Wednesday afternoon and evening a general survey of flowers will be given. Guides will be present to explain and identify the flower specimens.

BANDITS HAVE BUSY TIME

Four Hold-ups Reported to Police and Two Young Suspects Are Taken Into Custody

Two arrests were made by police early yesterday in connection with one of four reported week-end hold-ups. The most lucrative of the hold-ups produced for the bandits $100, a gold watch and a coupe taken from the vicinity of Second and Figueroa streets from Mike W. Alman of 128½ North Flower street.

Ralph Binson of 2366 West Fourteenth street was the victim in the case in which the arrests were made. He was on First street near Olive street late Saturday night, he declared, when two men, armed with pistols, forced him to submit to search and took $5 from him.

He telephoned Central Police station and Detective Lieutenants Dryden and Partin arrested in the vicinity of the robbery two youths who said they were George Wheeler, 19 years of age, and Albert Dolan, 16. The detectives declare Binson identified them as the pair who had robbed him.

BANDITS GET CAR

Alman was returning the coupe to an automobile renting station at 146 South Figueroa street, he told the police, when two armed men stopped him, searched him, and forced him to get out of the car. They then got into it, he decared, and drove away.

The Shell Oil station at Rodney drive and Sunset boulevard was visited by two men who made a purchase of gas and oil, then held up W. H. Gorkens, the attendant, and robbed the cash register of $45. Gorkens reported the robbery to the Hollywood police station.

The fourth robbery was reported by E. Belcher of 1323 Orange Drive. Belcher declared he was on his way to his home in an automobile when he was stopped by two men at Santa Monica boulevard and Orange drive. They robbed him, he declared, of $30 in cash and three diamond rings worth $500.

CHANGES MADE IN TAX RULING

Holders of Securities Are Benefited

Amendment Said to Favor Taxpayers

Collector Goodcell Explains Regulations

Instructions regarding the enforcement of the new revenue regulations in regard to bonds and other securities have been received by Collector Goodcell.

Every owner of such securities and all residents of Southern California who make an exchange of property in deals during 1923 are affected by the far-reaching amendments to the revenue act.

One of the regulations stamps out the old system of exchanging securities, which was permitted under the old law. Under the new amendment property held for investment, on which no gain or loss is recognized, does not include "stock, bonds, notes, choses in action, certificates of trust, or beneficial interest on the securities or evidence of indebtedness or interest," as was the case prior to the change of the law.

FAVORS TAXPAYERS

Regarding the change of property, the new amendment favors the taxpayer in that it limits the amount of taxable gain which must be declared in an income tax return. The new regulations provide that the amount of gain resulting from an exchange of property shall be computed in accordance with designated sections of the law, but in no case shall the taxable gain exceed the amount of money and the fair market value of the property received in exchange.

So important is this part of the amendment that Collector Goodcell has worked out a number of examples for the information and convenience of taxpayers:

A exchanged certain property which he had purchased subsequent to March 1, 1913, for $5000, for real estate having no readily realizable market value and $2000 in cash. No gain or loss is realized from such exchange. However, if A subsequently sells the real estate, the difference between the amount realized therefor and $3000, the basis of the property exchanged reduced by the amount of cash received in the exchange, is taxable gain or deductible loss, as the case may be.

CITES INSTANCES

A exchanged certain property which he had purchased subsequent to March 1, 1913, for $14,000, for stock having no readily realizable market value and bonds having a readily realizable market value of $16,000. A realized taxable gain of $2000, the amount by which the fair market value of the bonds exceeds the cost of the property exchanged. The entire amount received from the subsequent sale of the stock received in the exchange constitutes taxable income.

In connection with the reorganization of a corporation, received in place of stock purchased by him subsequent to March 1, 1913, for $9000, stock of a fair market value of $8000 in a corporation a party to the reorganization, together with cash in the amount of $4000. A realized from the exchange a taxable gain of $3000, the amount by which the sum of the cash and the fair market value of the stock received exceeds the cost of the property exchanged. If A subsequently sells the stock, the difference between the amount received therefor and $8000, the $8000 representing the basis of the old stock, $9000, reduced by $1000, the amount of cash received in the exchange which was in excess of the taxable gain, constitutes taxable gain or deductable loss, as the case may be.

A transferred to a corporation all of the outstanding stock of which was owned by him, property purchased by him subsequent to March 1, 1913, for $40,000, in exchange for stock of the corporation of a fair market value of $50,000, together with Liberty Bonds of a fair market value of $10,000. A realized from the exchange a taxable gain of $10,000, the amount of the fair market value of the Liberty Bonds received in the exchange.

The actual gain from the exchange was $20,000, the excess of the sum of the fair market value of the Liberty Bonds and the fair market value of the stock received in exchange over the cost of the property exchanged, but since the fair market value of "such other property received in exchange" is only $10,000, the limitation that the amount of the taxable gain derived shall not exceed the amount of the money or the fair market value of such other property received in exchange must be applied. Consequently, the taxable gain is limited to $10,000. Upon the subsequent sale of the stock the difference between the amount received therefor and $40,000, the cost of the property exchanged, constitutes taxable income or deductible loss, as the case may be.

It is assumed in the above examples that the property exchanged was not of a kind properly to be included in inventory. If the property exchanged was acquired prior to March 1, 1913, or by gift, devise bequest or inheritance, the taxpayer should consult Collector Goodcell.

The amount of taxable gain or deductable loss, if any, from exchanges effected prior to Jan. 1, 1923, should be determined under the statutes and regulations in effect prior to the amendments; exchanges effected subsequent to Jan. 1, 1923, are controlled by the statute and regulations, as amended.

GIRLS WARNED OF GOLD YARNS

"Never Again!" Says Victim of Pledge

Mrs. Vesta Joyce

IN THE language of the poet, Mrs. Vesta Joyce, recently divorced from Samuel F. Joyce, might say: "Never again will I listen to the voice of a man whose voice is golden."

Mrs. Joyce has a message for unsophisticated girls who are tempted to marry without the knowledge of their mothers. She met, was wooed and won by Joyce while they were both students at Stanford University.

She wrote her mother after the marriage that she had wed "a wonderful man."

In Judge Summerfield's court Friday, Joyce was wonderful because of his siren voice. His air castle was a mansion, full of gold, limousines, yachts and costly rugs. He came down to earth after marriage, and in the language of the girl's mother, he was "just a big, irresponsible boy with a vivid imagination."

It was his first trip from home, and he posed as a Croesus to the girl he wooed. As his bride she pawned her diamonds to send him to Virginia City where his mental mines were located.

"I had an open mind. I believed all he said. Oh, he was wonderful," she declared. "He was going to pour his wealth into my lap. I did not consult my mother. I regret it. My experience was bitter. My message to girls is to consult a wiser head. My mother would not have been beguiled by his tales of wealth."

Cut Hair While His Wife Cut Up, Husband Avers

Mrs. Ethel Sauressig posed as a lady barber but in reality she was a social lioness, according to a cross-coplaint for divorce filed against her by William Sauressig, who also is a tonsorial artist. He charged that while his wife was supposed to be asking "a little something on the hair," she was out saying loudly that "I made that last hole in four."

The Sauressigs operated a shop in Long Beach. They were business as well as matrimonial partners. But the husband, according to his complaint, was left to shave florid faces while his wife wore off the grass on the neighboring golf links.

Later Mrs. Sauressig desired to improve her stance so she went to night school, he said. Her husband found that she was learning all right but that it was dancing; he asserts, for he found a handsome sheik teaching her the King Tut toddle.

There is community property listed at $77,250 in the complaint.

THAT PRACTICE OF CHRISTIANITY

"Commercialism" Subject at Sunday Lecture

Success Described as Any Real Happiness

Do With What You Have, is General Theem

BY ALMA WHITAKER

When Edward Oliver Tilburne was announced to speak upon "Christian Commercialism" on Sunday morning at the College of Applied Sciences, it gave promise of being a highly topical subject. I was, therefore, surprised to find less than twenty people assembled to hear him.

The hall, however, is designed to accommodate hundreds, so perhaps the fair weather had tempted most of his audience to the beaches. He certainly had something to say and said it well, in spite of the discouraging attendance.

Mr. Tilburne's discourse was better, more spiritual, than the matter which adorns the proscenium of his platform. Across the arch one reads "I am. I can. I will. I dare. I do."

Down the left-hand pillar is inscribed the master formula of attainment, the secret of success: "Know exactly what you want. Want it hard. Confidently expect to get it. Persistently determine to attain it. Be willing to pay the price."

All of this gave an impression of mere materialism. So did the opening of his discourse, in which he told us that "Success in Life" was the greatest and most important thing to us.

REAL "SUCCESS"

But he soon made it clear that by "success" he did not necessarily mean money—but rather whatever makes for happiness, whatever makes us stronger, more efficient, whatever we are best qualified to do and through which we can give the greatest happiness to others.

Thus in taking the first chapter of the second book of St. Peter for his theme, interpolating explanatory remarks of his own to make his points clearer as he read, Mr. Tilburne could in no wise be accused of crass materialism.

Moreover this man is obviously familiar with the Bible and, while conceding the necessity of business, commercialism, material success, was able to claim by many quotations and excerpts, that Jesus Christ understood and respected business and commercial dealing and that Christians were justified in conforming to conditions as they found them.

His theme, therefore, was not "Christian Commercialism" in the sense of commercializing Christianity, which I had anticipated, but rather a reasoning justification of commerce and business as practiced by Christians—when they are Christians.

Thus he gave instance after instance in which Jesus Christ Himself recognized and upheld business dealings, how He frequently used business conditions to point His parables, how He understood that life is largely business, and how Jesus Christ Himself was a business man. He reminded his hearers of the story of the unjust steward, of the buried talents, of His injunction to His disciples to make friends and not to antagonize the conditions they found, of the laborer who was worthy of his hire, of the good wife who bought fine vineyards, pointing these excerpts to prove that every one of us is expected to make a return on the gifts which are ours.

PASSIVITY NEEDED

But, contended Mr. Tilburne, in all His work, his greatest problem was to get people to remain passive, to do their best and then let things work out for them. To realize that God is the Father, Jehovah the Provider, the Potter in whose hands we are clay.

God, he said is physical as well as spiritual, and as a Father, He provides the essentials for us. Ours not to force the issue, but to do the very best we know with conditions as we find them.

Above all, did the speaker dwell on the virtue of salvaging that which is lost, of saving, conserving, economizing, making everything in life, including ourselves, give 100 per cent service. Thus he extolled the woman who darns and patches little Johnny's pants. He told how whole cities are lighted by the utilization of refuse, how the junk man waxes rich on what people have thrown away, how the Salvation Army gladly accepts and utilizes cast-off clothing, discarded articles and wring from them 100 per cent service.

In this way he pointed the moral of the story of the prodigal son of the father who was salvaging that which was lost.

But we often destroy those things which this physical Father, this understanding God, has provided for our security, as when we destroy the forests and occasion floods. Trees, he reminded us, automatically attract water in this divine scheme of nature, but when we destroy the trees, we have lost the value of that water.

EXPLOIT ASSETS

All of which was designed to show us that our real success in life lies with our practical and honorable exploitation of the assets God has given us and in bringing them each in their sphere up to 100 per cent service. We ourselves, he said, know where we fail, in which departments we fail of that 100 per cent. But God our Father sees us perfect, in each of us lies the possibility of perfection in those lines in which we are qualified.

For prayer at this service, we were asked to relax, to go into a serene silence, to fold our hands lightly in our laps, palms upward, and to dwell upon the thing we want most to attain that 100 per cent perfection. After a few moments, the speaker prayed that these our meditations might be acceptable to God.

Mr. Tilburne closed his discourse with a reiteration of that first chapter of St. Peter II, which he interprets as demanding faith, the courage of virtue, self-control, patience, kindliness and brotherliness.

"For if these things be in you and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren or unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Next Sunday Mr. Tilburne will begin a series of lectures on the history of the Bible.

The train is scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles at 7:45 o'clock tomorrow morning bearing a crowd of realtors who are tired, perhaps, but who are nevertheless happy and loud in their praises of the hospitality of their colleagues in the northern part of the State.

FARMER TO AID CRYER, HE WRITES

Congratulations Sent by Defeated Candidate to Mayoralty Race Winner

Mayor Cryer yesterday received congratulations from Bert L. Farmer, defeated candidate and next highest man on the ticket. The letter was characteristic of the man who was highest on the ticket four years ago in the race for the Council but who was decisively defeated in his campaign for Mayor. It reads:

"Mayor George E. Cryer:

"The voters of Los Angeles have expressed their entire confidence in your administration as evidenced by the vote you received on Tuesday. Please accept my congratulations and the wish that the coming two years will be the best in the history of Los Angeles. I shall endeavor in every way to aid you and I can speak for the members of my campaign committee, who with Mr. John Reid, my manager, extend to you their hearty good will and wishes for an administration that will be in keeping with your high standards and lofty ideals. May you be the best Mayor Los Angeles has ever had and may we, as citizens, at all times have reason to thank God for the fact that you are in charge of our civic affairs.

(Signed)

"BERT L. FARMER,
"Citizen."

SHIP FRIEND DISASTROUS TO FIANCEE

Hollander Meets Intended Bride, but She Fell in Love With Another

The presence of a handsome young Hollander on the boat which was bringing his bride-to-be to this country will probably result in Hendrik Boere, Jr., of Los Angeles losing Bertha Wendal, 19 years of age, a pretty Dutch girl whom he had wooed at long distance, according to despatches from New York.

Although young Boere had never seen the girl he was to marry she was apparently won by his ardent correspondence and started for Los Angeles, accompanied by his parents, who acted as guardians to the girl on her long trip from Holland.

But on the ship Miss Wendal met and fell in love with Bertus De C. Tanzyl, who was on his way to the United States to make his fortune. When the Rotterdam docked yesterday in New York, Miss Wendel informed the Boeres of her change of mind and declared that she wanted to marry Tanzyl.

At this stage of the game the immigration officials at Ellis Island stepped in and detained the girl from entering the United States, pending an investigation. If Tanzyl can prove that he is able to support Miss Wendel as well as find work for himself so that neither will be dependent on the country, the couple will be allowed to enter.

STATUS OF LOST MAN IS SOUGHT

Court to Decide if Missing Realtor is "Legally" Dead; Gone Two Years

After a lapse of more than a year since the last administrative court action in the case of Edmund P. Brooks, realtor and Mason, who mysteriously dropped out of sight on June 10, 1921, the bench will again take cognizance of the case Wednesday when Superior Judge Rives will decide whether or not Mr. Brooks is legally dead.

Officers investigating the case are said to subscribe to the theory of dual personality—that Brooks is still alive and engaged in business elsewhere under a name he believes to be his own, with his life as Brooks a closed book.

Relatives of the missing man residing at Blythe and at Edinburgh, Ind., believe him dead and have petitioned the probate court here to judge him deceased so that his estate may be divided.

Brooks was last seen June 10, 1921 when, with several hundred dollars in his pocket he left his home at 702 East Fifty-third street, in the company of a man said to be S. G. Davis, for a business trip to Santa Barbara.

Shortly after Mrs. Belle Machado, Mr. Brooks's housekeeper, received letters from Santa Barbara signed by Davis, indicating that her employer had met with an accident. Other letters assertedly from Mr. Brooks reached Mrs. Machado from San Francisco. Two weeks after her employer's disappearance Mrs. Machado received his watch and a letter apparently from Davis, she told investigators at the time, to the effect that Davis could not find Mr. Brooks.

Deputy sheriffs took up the manhunt at the instance of Mrs. Machado, but were unable to trace the missing man either to Santa Barbara or to San Francisco.

The opening of Mr. Brooks's safety deposit box, to which Davis had access, through a letter said to have been written by Mr. Brooks, in November, 1921, revealed an empty envelope in the place of the bonds and securities it was believed to contain.

SUSPECTED SLAYER IN PSYCHOPATHIC WARD

Ramon Sanchez, arrested Saturday at San Pedro by Patrolman Casselberry on suspicion of murder, was transferred to the psychopathic ward at the County Hospital yesterday.

Sanchez is said to have publicly confessed a murder of a woman and a child in the hearing of Patrolman Casselberry and it was believed that he was responsible for the death of a woman and a child near Bakersfield recently.

Investigation revealed that since March 28 Sanchez had not been in Bakersfield.

An I.W.W. membership card was found in Sanchez's pocket.

Kellogg's Bran gives permanent relief because it is ALL BRAN!

Every member of your family will enjoy better health—eat better, work better, sleep better—if they eat Kellogg's Bran regularly. Its natural, positive work for health is actually a blessing to humanity! Kellogg's gives permanent relief from constipation because it is ALL BRAN! It is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation.

Kellogg's Bran cleans and purifies the drainage channel; it clears away the toxic poisons and frees you from the ravages of such dread diseases as Bright's, diabetes, etc., as well as sick headaches, rheumatism and mental and physical depression. A week's trial of this great nature food will prove that its work for health is wonderful!

Consider Kellogg's Bran as a food. It is not a laxative nor a medicine. Bran is the outer coating of whole wheat and contains such nourishment factors as mineral salts and other elements vital in sustaining life!

Kellogg's Bran is cooked and all ready to eat. It is delightful as a cereal, or sprinkled over your favorite hot or cold cereal. Another popular way to eat it is to cook or mix it with a hot cereal. In preparation, add two tablespoonfuls of bran for each person.

Delicious bakery batches are made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

DO TWO THINGS—Eat Kellogg's Bran each day for permanent relief from constipation and be certain to eat at least two tablespoonfuls in chronic cases, with each meal.

First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant. All grocers.

SEE THE ROSES AND NOT THORNS, PASTOR URGES

KHJ Audience Is Told That Hated Tasks Should be Performed in Cheerful Spirit

"The church member who does only what he is compelled to do to escape hell is not only a coward but he is also a miser trying to drive a hard bargain with God," declared Dr. Bruce Brown, pastor of the South Park Christian Church, in the course of an eloquent sermon preached to the KHJ audience from The Times Broadcasting Station yesterday morning. Following are a few choice excerpts from Dr. Brown's discourse on "The Second Mile."

"Many centuries ago there lived a great teacher. Among the many wonderful words he spoke—words that still shine as stars above the mountain tops of time—are these: 'If a man compel thee to go a mile, go with him two.' To understand the meaning of this we must go back, in imagination, to the distant past and see conditions through the eyes of the one who spoke those matchless words.

"His people were in bondage to the Roman Empire—and no people ever more bitterly resented an alien rule. The most hated thing was a military regulation—that a company of Roman soldiers could command the services of any man at any time and place, and he had to go, without excuse, to be their guide. Christ lays down for them the simplest imaginable philosophy of life: 'If these foreign soldiers compel you to guide them for a mile, volunteer to go with them the second mile.' The philosophy of the great Teacher is that since the first mile is compulsory, we should get all the possible good and hapiness out of it. We should make the best of the inevitable and the uninviting.

SEE ROSES NOT THORNS

"There are some conditions that never change. Some prisons are sealed by destiny. You can be an untamed starling and beat and break your heart and hope against the bars of fate or you can be a canary and learn to sing in your penitentiary. If there is music in the soul there is many a song in the first and second mile of life. 'Some people are always complaining because there are thorns on rose bushes,' wrote a crippled little English girl, 'but I am happy because there are roses on thorn bushes.'

"The man who works more than he is paid for will some time be paid more than he works for. If I should coin a new beatitude it would be this: 'Blessed is the man who loves his job.' Certainly cursed already is he who works only for wages. What is true everywhere else is true in religion. Few ever get out of the first mile, they only do what they are compelled to do to keep out of hell. They are cowards and misers.

THE THIRD MILE

"You can remember father when he was straight as an arrow and mother when her hair was like midnight, her eyes like starlight and her smile like sunshine. But you saw them grow old and faded and gray. They climbed the hill together and many a beautiful day they spent with one another, and when they tottered toward the sunset's evening glow, hand in hand they went—and tonight they sleep side by side in the little country cemetery. They loved each other better at 70 than at 20. I believe there is the second mile of growing old.

"All of us must pass through the first mile, some pass the second. Is there a third mile? Yes, I believe there is. After the second mile which ends at the doors of death I think we come into the beginning of the third mile that leads to the throne and diadems, to a new song and the gates ajar where our Father shall receive us into His glory and wipe all tears of sorrow from our eyes."

DEPLORES TRAGEDY OF USELESS LIVES

Dr. W. E. McCulloch, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, preached yesterday on "Useless Lives." He said in part:

"The miracle of the withering of the fig tree may be beyond our understanding but the moral lesson is obvious. A fruit tree that bears leaves and no fruit is failing to function properly and is therefore useless. We believe that God has a purpose for every human life. If we are wise we shall fall in line with that purpose, harmonize our wills with the Divine will and utilize our resources in such a manner as to produce the best possible life results. There is nothing worse than the tragedy of a useless life. What can even the loving Master do for a person who buries his talents, who is heedless of opportunities for doing good, who shuns wholesome hard work, who declines to accept his rightful place in the great scheme of things? There is no satisfaction so blessed as that which accompanies the consciousness that appointed tasks are being done faithfully, that definite aims are being realized and that actual fruits are being produced that the Master can approve."

LEGION FLOCKS TO CIRCUS

War Veterans Swarm to Charity Show; Today to be Given Over to Police, Fire Departments

Defenders of the nation, many of them with maimed limbs that bore testimony to their service in the A.E.F., thronged the Charity Circus at Praeger Park, where yesterday it was "American Legion Day."

Accompanied by their families, the soldier and sailor veterans of the World War laughed with glee over the antics of "Poodles" Hanneford and other clowns in the big tent, feastened their eyes on the beautiful ballet dancers in "King Tut's Harem" and delighted their vision with the fashion show, in which lovely models, including Miss Hazel Keener, winner of a $1000 Iowa beauty prize, displayed the niftiest of sport costumes in superb style.

POLICE DAY

And as yesterday was given over to the youths who so valiantly served Uncle Sam in 1917-1918, so today will be devoted to the preservers of the city's peace and safety, for members of the Los Angeles police and fire departments will be guests of honor at the circus. With members of their families, they will be welcomed to the park by Harcourt Hervey, director, and Sheldon H. Barrett, manager, of the benefit for the Children's Hospital. Musical programs will be given by the police and fire department bands.

Other days and nights at the circus, which will continue until May 13, are to be as follows:

NIGHTLY FEATURES

Jinnistan Grotto night, Tuesday; Knights of Pythias, Pacific Electric Club and professional and semiprofessional baseball clubs of Los Angeles, Wednesday; Knights of Columbus, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Catholic Foresters, Y.M.I., Y.L.I., Los Angeles Railway Club, Motorcyclists' Club of Southern California and Los Angeles Letter Carriers' Association, Thursday; Elks and Retail Grocers' night, Friday, and Shriners' night, Saturday.

Sunday will be the grand closing night and a special program of stunts is being arranged as a grand finale to the circus, which is expected to add a large sum to the endownment fund of the Children's Hospital, a nonsectarian institution, which last year treated 16,420 little sufferers of the Southland.

MAGNIN STRIKES AT SUPERSTITION

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin discussed the question "What Killed Lord Canarvon?" in his address at the Temple B'nai B'rith last Friday evening. In part Dr. Magnin said:

"It is difficult to think that in this age and generation there are people who still believe in demonology, who supose that disease and death are caused by spirits, genii; demons who take vengeance on human being for some reason or other. It took many years, much hard thinking and more suffering to bring human beings to the point where they could and would accept the theory or rather the law of cause and effect in the physical world. To suppose sickness is ordinarily caused by breach of a taboo or even by a violationn of ethics or upon miracles for healing is something that I can not fathom. There are times when the condition of a person's mind or his moral standard of living can determine his health or lack of health but for the most part I prefer to regard physical circumstances as the direct cause of physical ailments and want to employ the very best medical assistance that I can to help me at such times.

To pray for help is natural and proper. After all, physicians are human and fallible, but to refuse medical or surgical help on the grounds that ailments are the result of our spiritual conditions alone defies the facts and experiences of life. And to believe that spirits are wandering around ready to destroy us is a return to barbarism."

MAN OF SORROWS CALLED JOY-GIVER

Rev. Edgar Fay Daugherty, pastor of the First Christian Church, preached yesterday on "Christ and Our Burden of Sorrow." He spoke in part as follows:

"Christ has a tendency in his sayings to startle, to surprise, men, by the new and original, to which he calls men in their view of things harassing and perplexing; in none more than in 'Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted.' The hosts bow before Him as the Son of God; in his spirit men pray as the Prince of Peace and hope to live; in his power as King of Kings relations of brotherhood are growing amid men; but it is as 'the man of sorrows and acquainted with grief' that he enters the sacred chambers of human hearts.

"Bereavement opens deeply the fountain of grief. In the night of its coming the stars of hope shine their brightest as revealed of Christ. It frequently happens in experience with bereavement, that when the point and time of anguish is reached, God rolls away the mists from our eyes and in the place where our tears splash, our highest rapture rises.

"We may laugh at sorrow today when it is far away, just as the fool laughed yesterday in the claim 'there is no God,' but, however, fair life's status, the storm will some day break and the floods arise, and our lives will fail unless we are in company of Him who said 'Blessed are they who mourn, for they shall be comforted.'"

PASTOR DISCUSSES THE LAWS OF LIFE

Rev. Alden Lee Hill, pastor of the Highland Park Christian Church, preached yesterday on "The Laws of Life." In part he said:

"We are all interested in the business of living because we are all busy at the job. The Scriptures abound in rich and striking metaphorical descriptions of life. The language of the harvest field is found often in both the Bible and our hymn book. One of the immutable laws of life is so stated: 'Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.' We no longer believe that youth can sow its 'wild oats,' without reaping a bountiful harvest of the same. We are also aware of the fact that simply refusing to sow 'wild oats' is not sufficient, because there must be the sowing of the positive good.

"Jesus immortalized this figure as it relates to the winning of souls with his parables on the sower and the tares. President Garfield named as his favorite hymn the following: Ho! reapers of life's harvest, why stand with rusted blade until the night draws round thee and the day begins to fade? The Master calls for reapers, and shall He call in vain? Shall sheaves lie there ungathered and waste upon the plain?"

MINISTER DISCUSSES UNACCOUNTABLE MAN

Rev. M. Howard Fagan, pastor of the Wilshire Boulevard Christian Church, preached yesterday on "The Unaccountable Man." He said in part:

"To the people of Jesus's day He was an unaccountable man. They knew His parents, His brothers and sisters, His occupation but they could not understand the man. His wonderful wisdom was unaccountable. The doctors of the law were amazed at His understanding; the officers sent to arrest Him returned and said, never man so spake; at the passover the Jews marveled, saying, "How knoweth this man letters, having never learned?" Jesus made no mistakes. He was never called upon to modify a single utterance. His mighty works were unaccountable. He healed all manner of diseases and sickness among the people. To the unbelieving His mighty power today to redeem and re-create humanity is unaccountable. His matchless purity was unaccountable. He challenged His enemies by saying, 'Which one of you convicteth me of sin?' There is but one explanation for the unaparalleled life of Christ—He is the Son of God."

TELLS COST OF CHRISTLESS LIFE

Dr. R. A. Torrey, pastor of the Church of the Open Door, preached yesterday on "What it Costs Not to Be a Christian." In part he said:

"The world is full of men and women who do not like to think. There is no place where the mistake of not thinking is made so often or where it is so fatal as in the matter of being or not being a Christian. Men and women drift on in a Christless life without taking time to consider the most important question of time and eternity. And so they make shipwreck, both of the life that now is and the life that is to come. Not to be a Christian costs sacrifice of peace, a peace of conscience and peace of heart. A Christian has peace, for having peace with God we have peace in our own hearts. God tells us there is no peace to the wicked, and by wicked is meant any one who has not surrendered his will to God. There is not a person out of Christ who has peace."

TAFT WOULD KEEP SUN IN SUNDAY

"Keeping Sun in Sunday" was the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Rev. Clinton J. Taft at the Plymouth Congregational Church. Following are excerpts from the sermon:

"If we are to keep the sun in Sunday we must bear in mind that Jesus declared, "It is lawful to do good on the Sabbath.' That's the way He spent His Sabbaths—in helping others to be happy, removing obstacles from their lives and giving them a chance to enjoy normal health. He was most bitterly assailed for this, but he disregarded criticism and went right on helping folks.

"Those who seek to make others happy on the Lord's Day are bound to add to their own felicity, according to the law of compensation which makes action and reaction equal. Visitation of the shut-ins, the unfortunate ones in hospitals, the carrying of messages in song and cheering words to all such and the studying of the wretched conditions under which multitudes live with a view to permanently changing them, surely will be commended as wholesome uses of the Lord's Day."

Studio Experts Attack Problem of 'Kleig Eyes'

The committee selected by the Goldwyn Company to pass on the numerous suggestions offered as preventives for "Klieg eyes" has experimented with more than 300 submissions.

Louis Kolb and S. S. Bradley chief electrical engineers of the Goldwyn studios, Dr. Edwin Larson, former professor of the postgraduate eye class of the university of California, Dr. Earl T. McCoy, well-known oculist, Abraham Lehr, vice-president of the Goldwyn Company, and H. E. Edington, business manager of the Goldwyn studios, compose the committee.

Many of the medical preventives upon examination were found to contain chemical properties which would ruin the eyesight if used. One formula, coming from a gentleman in the East, would have whitened the subject's eyes until there would be nothing left but the pupil, according to Dr. Larson, who makes a thorough analysis of each medical preventive submitted. Many of the medical formulas are copied direct from the labels of well-known eye medicines, and submitted as original.

"We have a substance," said Dr. Larson, "that can be put in the eyes to eliminate the ultra violet ray, but the tears wash it out so rapidly that it is necessary for the patient to instill a few drops every ten or fifteen minutes. It will not do. I believe that 'Klieg Eyes' can be successfully prevented only by the use of some mechanical device on the lights."

The Chances You Miss!

A. C. BEDFORD, noted financier, once remarked: "Every man has not one chance but many chances; they are coming to him constantly. It is not a question of having chances, but of recognizing them when they come."

Would you know a financial opportunity if you met it? The odds are that you wouldn't. The usual available information on financial subjects makes dry reading, is highly technical and requires concentration, analysis and study. That's why so few people learn the real ins and outs of finance.

Now, for the first time, you have truth about money making placed before you in practical, interesting, entertaining and inviting form. Here is a chance that will enable you to recognize and take advantage of the "chance" that comes your way—through the pages of the new magazine—

A MOONSHINE GUY

A man named Guy Cale is under arrest here for operating three big stills, each of seventy-five-gallon capacity. This must be the guy who was getting the kale.

THE POPPY TRADE

The administration of customs in China now favors legalizing the opium traffic in order to regulate it. This was the practice prior to 1853 and it is claimed that the operation was successful. At present the traffic is entirely outlawed, but there is nevertheless a contraband trade much like the moonshine industry in this country. With the government handling the supply and distributing it only under rigorous regulation it is claimed that it would be far better for all concerned and at the same time the nation would be acquiring a substantial revenue. There at least seems a chance for argument.

AMONG THE GOATS

Frenchmen think that Americans have grabbed all the valuable concessions in Angora except that of the goats and we don't need that. They say we have gathered the choicest oil and mineral rights and commercial privileges and behaved in a regular dog-in-the-manger fashion. It will take more than a Lausanne conference to ease the situation. So far as the United States government is concerned Secretary Hughes explains that the nation has never asked nor sought special privileges in connection with the newer countries. All it has urged has been freedom of opportunity. That is all we have had in Angora. The people there seemed to prefer dealing with Americans and they have done so. It was believed that they had the right to make whatever bargain was deemed best. But if we are going to build the railroads in China and Turkey and develop the oil fields and mines in Angora and other lands we cannot expect to remain aloof from an agreement for world peace. We cannot still the troubled waters by pouring some of the oil from Angora thereon. If we are urging a creed of freedom of opportunity upon the world Uncle Sam must be something of a mixer himself.

THE WORLD'S SWEETHEART

Among other queries some 300 Yale seniors were asked to name their favorite character in history. It is possibly significant that by far the heaviest vote extended to any candidate from the roster of the world's great was accorded to Cleopatra. Their forbears surrendered to the smiles of Egypt's queen in large numbers and the youngsters are still falling for her. The college boys might have voted for St. Anthony, St. Vitus, Jesse James, Carrie Nation or Buffalo Bill. They might have cast their ballots for Abraham Lincoln, George Washington or Napoleon Bonaparte, but instead of that they marked their little ballots for Cleo. The fame of Cleopatra rests largely upon her accomplishments in love. She is usually presented as a siren and her glamour is inspired by the notables she had in her train. With a couple of Caesars and an Antony as part of her string she could boast of the most illustrious galaxy of sweethearts that any woman ever owned. The Yale seniors, who may get their viewpoint from the Follies, were properly impressed. It is denied that Cleopatra was really beautiful and it is likely that she would be unable to break into Hollywood today, but she was a clever and tactful conversationalist, a good listener and she knew how to dress. She could wear her millinery like the goddess of beauty. What more could anyone ask? Cleopatra may yet have her marble counterpart on the Yale campus.

DR. WORTHY

No one knows better than Capt. John D. Fredericks how to minister to the ills and needs of Los Angeles—when they come. He knows every bone in her body. If she has growing pains or high blood pressure he senses it by intuition. Others there are who are willing to serve or prescribe. They are competent and worthy, but in a sense they are specialists. They may be able to perform a certain operation or administer a specific balm, but they do not qualify for all emergencies. Dr. Fredericks is the all-'round practitioner—the reliable family adviser. If there is anything wrong with Los Angeles he will realize it on the instant. He will not even need to feel her pulse or take her temperature. He knows what the pulse and temperature are already. He has fought off epidemics and mended broken bones. He has ministered to the many additions to the family. He has helped her through fevers and applied healing lotions when she was bruised. He has strengthened her eyes and brought color to her cheeks. Whenever any of the family thought Los Angeles was in need of a tonic or was threatened with an ache or pain there was a call for the kindly and competent Fredericks and that trained counselor would turn out at any hour for what to him was a labor of love. He has been an angel of healing for Los Angeles. All his skill; his vitality; his genius and his enthusiasm have been at her command. He can prescribe everything but a change of climate. The very least the people of Los Angeles can do is to give the sturdy Fredericks his official standing as the family adviser.

BACK TO THE TRENCHES

France has rejected the German reparation offer to the Allies with fine scorn and has countered by preparing for further exploitation of the seized territory in the Ruhr. Hopes for a peaceful settlement of the reparation question are decidedly on the wane.

France and Germany face each other as determinedly in the present "black" war as they did while the World War was in progress; but the situations are changed. Now it is the French who are attacking and the Germans resisting.

The French say they are in the Ruhr to stay, not until Germany promises to pay, but until she actually pays. France will accept nothing but gold or land; and, as there is not enough gold in the world to satisfy one-third of the French claim, her occupation becomes de facto annexation. The railroads and waterways of the Ruhr and the Rhineland are now part of the French system; and all former possessions of the German government in that territory, including buildings, mines, industries and vineyards, are listed as French Federal property.

While the German government addresses compromise proposals to the former allies of France, the people are becoming more embittered in their resistance. On the 1st of May the workers throughout Germany held parades to celebrate the success of their passive resistance in the territory occupied by the French. They are not working for the hated enemy, and the French have made but scant progress in operating the Ruhr industries. The thousands of workers and their families, expelled by the French from the Ruhr, have found homes in other parts of Germany; and they are conducting a personal propaganda with a view of driving the French by force back across the Rhine.

Little could be gained by a discussion of the terms of the German proposal. Whether they are fair or unfair is a matter of opinion. The amount is less than the French had a right to expect under the Treaty of Versailles; and it is doubtful whether the plan set forth for raising a German loan could be carried into effect.

How Germany can solve her industrial problem remains a mystery. She has a population of 15,000,000 more than she can feed from the products raised on German soil; and she has no money and credit. The French are aware of this condition and they are determined to make the most of it. They will treat with the Germans only. They will not submit disputed points to neutrals and are seeking no friendly counsel. Germany has only land. That the French are willing to accept, but the Germans are not willing to give.

The French attitude toward this country is that our government failed to ratify the Treaty of Versailles and the three-power pact among England, France and the United States; and, having failed to give them official aid in any form, its advice as to the course France should pursue is not desired. If the positions were reversed we should be very likely to take a like attitude.

Peaceful settlements of international disputes made no progress in Europe by reason of the World War. The sword remains the arbiter between France and Germany, just as it has been for 1000 years. The stronger forces its will on the weaker and is not deterred by sentimentality or conscientious scruples. Just now the French are the stronger and they are taking full advantage of their superior position.

The rest of the world looks on, and is forced regretfully to take the attitude that, if the French and Germans are bent upon mutual destruction, it is their own affair. Russia dropped out of the concert of nations; and the band played on. If France and Germany are minded to fight the war over again the rest of the nations must do the best they can to prevent the fire from spreading.

THE CHESTER CONCESSION

Through the concessions received by his company from the Turkish government at Anatolia Admiral Chester has suddenly become internationally known. Protests have been made by the French Ambassador at Washington and the British Ambassador has been making some polite inquiries.

American co-operation is devoutly desired by those European diplomats, but not in the Chester way. The Near East has always been a fruitful field for exploitation by the financial and industrial groups in London, Paris and Berlin; always covering themselves with the flags of their respective countries. Those interests view with alarm the encroachments of American capitalists on the private preserve.

So they have gone to their governments with their protests, just as they have always done when any form of interference disturbed them. There is no denying the fact that the western investors, backed by their governments, have been in the habit of bullying the Turks and that they have found it a profitable business.

But they place their governments in rather a delicate position when they demand of them that they shall drive the Americans out of purely Turkish territory. Americans, especially when they happen to be retired admirals or to bear the magic name of Roosevelt, are not accustomed to being bullied. They hold that they have as much right in Turkey as Englishmen or Frenchmen and they look to their government to back their contention.

As both sides are looking to their governments for support, the Chester concession assumes an international character. The American government is not accustomed to concern itself in the private business ventures of American citizens in foreign countries. They make such investments at their own risk and peril. If they win they do not divide their profits with the government, except in the form of an income tax; and it is not part of the duty of the government to assume a part of their risk.

But when the question of unjust discrimination arises the government cannot honorably avoid concern. If the British and French governments make it their business to drive American investors out of neutral territory, while they protect their own nationals, the national honor is involved.

The Angora government gave what is undoubtedly a valuable concession to the Chester interests and it now appears that it did so in full consciousness of its action. The concession provides for government participation in the profits, something that was never inserted into any British or French concession. The government stands to receive revenue from the project. This, in itself, establishes a precedent that is very annoying to the British and French investors. According to the statement of some members of the Angora government, the concession was given to provide a test case, to break the economic serfdom to which Turkey has been subjected for years.

Big issues sometimes arise from little incidents. Americans have equal rights in neutral countries with Englishmen and Frenchmen or they have not. That is the question posed by the Chester concession. We have threshed that out with the Japanese in the Far East only to have it bob up in an uncomfortable form in the Near East.

CALL OF THE ROAD

As the days lengthen and vacation time draws nearer the call of the road again begins to make itself heard in the land. And where will that call find a more hearty welcome than in California, the rendezvous of the paved highway, the open space, the perfect summer day and the universal motor car?

Time was—and not so long ago, at that—when the call of the road demanded a preliminary visit to the shoemaker, looking to a summer tramp over unfrequented byways. Or a fixing up of buggy or wagon and an extra sack of rolled barley for the old mare, still good for a twenty-mile-a-day jaunt to the mountains or the sea shore.

But in these days of rapid transit the thought of the vacationist, in nine cases out of ten, lightly turns to the "family bus" and the family consultation turns on makes of automobiles and new camping attachments and which are the best hill climbers and how many miles can be covered between sun-up and sun-down and at what to figure the necessary gas.

For this California of ours is the paradise of the motoring fraternity and today we reach easily on wheels numberless distant resorts and famous scenic wonders that yesterday we found it difficult to reach afoot—so marvelous has been the extension of the California system of good roads. And because of the prevalence of the paved highway all sorts and conditions of motor cars have multiplied like guinea pigs in clover fields and the call of the open road for the California vacationist has come pretty nearly to mean the call of the automobile.

So the second week in May has been set aside as a special open road call week to the motoring vacationist, a sort of preparedness reminder of the holidays ahead. And though "special weeks" have become so numerous of late that a week with no special significance would stand out in gold letters on the calendar, yet, considering that the paved highway, the perfect summer day and the universal motor car form a vacation trinity sacred to California, a peculiar possession of the Southwest country, there will be no lack of enthusiasts to celebrate Open Road Week and to answer the cry, "Are you prepared?" with an echo-raising chorus of "We are!"

SPEAKING OF PESTS

The bill just signed by the Governor makes an outlaw of the tree-borer and the pine beetle. It places the ban on the ring-tailed cootie and the fearsome cadgerworm. It is designed to rid the State of many of its insect pests. Possibly its provisions can be so extended as to bar all Wobblies from our fair commonwealth. It would seem that a law specifically directed at pests that injure our fields and groves should be elastic enough to be invoked against the Weary Willies. The Communist bug is the most threatening of all two-legged insects. Left to his own devices he would eat up everything in sight. Any measure designed to rid the farmer or orchardist of his pests should include the Wobbly in its blacklist. There are human insects more horriferous and horrendus than any shell-backed beetle that ever raised a fang.

WANT A NEW STANDARD

The German mark has sunk so low as to be thought beyond social redemption. One of the Berlin financiers seriously suggests its extinction. When the government can get back upon a coinage basis he favors the minting of a new silver piece of about the size of the American dollar that should hereafter be the monetary standard of the country. The mark would nevermore be mentioned in polite society. The fact that a German was fined 50,000,000 marks for blowing a whistle shows the paltry insignificance into which the mark has dropped. The American dollar comes very near being the monetary standard of the world at the present time and it is no wonder that the Germans would like to have something that looks like it. The mark does, indeed, seem hopeless by comparison.

Subscriptions to the Woodrow Wilson Foundation now exceed $800,000 and are expected to pass the desired $1,000,000 mark. It is agreeable to know that the distinguished leader can inspire so worthy a foundation. Millions of men and women will wish strength and endurance to his own.

RIPPLING RHYMES

HELPING HANDS

It often happens as I drive along the turnpike wide that I have punctures four or five and blow-outs on the side. And then I don a long tan coat and grab a bunch of tools and toil around my stranded boat, while sweat collects in pools. It is a grievous thing and dire to see a fat old boob attempting to inflate a tire that has a leaky tube. But when I've spent an hour in toil and ruined both my thumbs and sprayed myself with rancid oil the helper always comes. "Oh, gaffer, you are old and fat," the smiling helper cries; "go sit a while upon your hat and rest and swat the flies; and I will fix your busted tires, for I am full of vim, with tendons tough as copper wires and pep in every limb." Whenever I am in distress the helper's always there; "You need some aid," he says "I guess, the way you weep and swear. So tell me what a gent may do to help you in your plight, and I will break a leg or two to set the matter right." I've never yet been in a hole that helpers weren't nigh; and one would offer me his roll and one would bring a pie. Yet pessimists would have us think that man's a selfish scamp; that none of us would hand a drink of water to a tramp. WALT MASON.

INDUSTRY IN WORLD WAR

American Strategy Behind the Line

Characterized by Georges Clemenceau, former Prime Minister of France, as "the first and most authoritative contribution" to a great phase of history, "Industrial America in the World War," by Grosvenor B. Clarkson, who was director of the United States Council of National Defense, will be issued this week by Houghton Mifflin Company. The subtitle of the book is "The Strategy Behind the Line, 1917-18." The history is described by the publishers as the untold tale of the war.

In an introduction M. Clemenceau says in part:

"It is certain that none of the victorious armies could have conquered but for the support of its industries. It is no less clear that no European industry could have survived but for the support of American industry.

"Germany, which, living for the war, understood its requirements better than we did, had to pay dearly for unpreparedness. In the first quarter of 1915 she passed through a munitions crisis which was not far from being fatal. America, despite the power of her production, only escaped the danger by the magnificent effort of which Mr. Clarkson tells the story. As he rightly says, America was the 'last reservoir.'

"In eighteen months the United States sent us some 5,000,000 tons of food supplies and 5,000,000 tons of war material. The steel they sent us represented the steel material for 160,000,000 "75" shells. The foodstuffs they sent us fed 12,000,000 Frenchmen for one year and a half. If this help had not been forthcoming our army could not have held, the army of the United States could not have fought.

"Mr. Clarkson is right; the men who won the war behind the lines—on which victory at the front depended—are entitled to the gratitude of the nations, and the nations do not even know their names. It is time that justice should be done these men and this book hastens that day."

"Her [America's] brilliant, if pitiless, war industry had entered the service of patriotism and had not failed it. Under the compulsion of military necessity a ruthless autocracy was at work, and rightly, even in this land at the portals of which the Statue of Liberty flashes its blinding light across the seas. They understood war."

In referring to the uncertainty, both in Congress and in the War Department, as to America's specific role in the war, even after we were already in, it is related that the Secretary of War appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee to ask for a lump sum appropriation for raising and training troops. On hearing the estimates the committee chairman ejaculated, "My God! You don't intend to send men over there, do you?"

In illuminating the critical period through the fall of 1917 and the winter of 1918 the history makes vivid excerpts from the diary of Bernard M. Baruch.

"There is a tendency to too much looseness and getting tired once in a while," says an entry in Mr. Baruch's diary in November. "The more committees the more lack of co-ordination," reads another entry. "No one wants to give the power to one man. This makes them less powerful, and they think it makes him too powerful. Fiddling while Rome burns. It will go, but time is the essence." Again, referring to delay in passing on a vital powder-plant project, "Will this be a case of too late, as in another instance, of one man and authority and responsibility needed?"

Mr. Clarkson points out continually that the industrial side of the war was waged on the principle of voluntary co-operation of manufacturer and producer and repeatedly pays tribute to the contribution of the business men of America. He relates, however, as an exceptional example of the war behind the lines an incident of a dissenting lumber manufacturer who defied Chairman Baruch to commandeer his mills, saying that Baruch knew perfectly well that the government could not conduct them efficiently.

"Quite true," responded Baruch, "but by the time we commandeer those mills you will be such an object of contempt and scorn in your home town that you will not dare to show your face there. If you should, your fellow-citizens would call you a slacker, the boys would hoot you on the street and the draft men would likely run you out of town."

With regard to President Wilson and industrial control, the author writes:

"It is possibly true that the President did too long defer a determination of the problem of industrial centralization for war purposes; but, on the other hand, once he had decided his course and mapped it in the lucid and comprehensive letter of authority to Mr. Baruch the supporting decisions were always prompt and clear-cut."

Mr. Clarkson visualizes the critical situation in the late fall of 1917 and the early winter of 1918, when it became clear that to win the war not thousands but millions of American troops must be sent to France. The ship-transport demands were stupefying.

"Yet," writes Mr. Clarkson, "within four months the sturdy divisions of the last reserves of fighting manhood of the white races were pouring through the neck of the bottle, now monstrously enlarged, at the rate of 225,000 men a month, and with an equipment of weapons and supplies, outside of artillery and projectiles, never surpassed or even equalled by much smaller armies so far from a home base. Under such conditions the task of mobilizing and directing industry for war purposes became one of gigantic improvisation. The industrial army of America could only be driven at a higher and higher speed as requirements vaulted and ships multiplied. To an unknown demand there was nothing to do but to oppose an unknown effort. 'It can't be done, but here it is,' became the cool word of the hour.

"The World War was moved and fought on steel," writes Mr. Clarkson.

As late as August 22, 1918, Baruch, speaking to the steel masters, assembled before the full board, pictured every offensive of the war as depending upon steel: "The whole question on the western front is a question of metals. It is not to get steel there in January or February—not even day after tomorrow—but today. We must have the weight of metal. If we cannot carry out this program I want to know it from this meeting. If we cannot do it, it is time for us to inform the military chiefs on the western front. We must say: 'We cannot support you. You have got to stop there and wait or go back, because we cannot support you.' It is really up to that. You have all done wonderfully in a great way, and personally I appreciate it; but if we cannot meet this demand, let us say so and give them the facts."

"Within three months after the United States entered the World War the War Department alone issued, chiefly into a limited industrial district, more than 60,000 orders for goods and materials. Over this initial flood there poured until the end of the war a vast and violent stream of demands for myriad products.

"Before the raging torrent industry was swamped. Unimportant goods were made before essentials, freight was produced without cars and carloads were delivered at the ocean front without ships.

"Even as the deluge grew and the disorder advanced two score government purchasing agencies beat the whirlpool to froth with their bidding and scheming against each other, each obsessed with a mad determination to achieve its own goal.

"Here," says Mr. Clarkson, "was the making of the worst tangle of disordered effort the world has known. It was solved by priority, by far the greatest mechanism of industrial control the World War produced."

"It was not a purposeless adventure," writes Mr. Clarkson, "that brought Von Spee's fleet across the Pacific to destroy Craddock's squadron in the battle of Coronel. To strike at the source of the Allies' nitrate supply in Chile was to paralyze the armies in France. The destruction of a nitrate carrier was a greater blow to the Allies than the loss of a battleship, for," as Mr. Clarkson drives home, "nitrates are at the base of the manufacture of modern high explosives."

Mr. Clarkson states that the precarious position of the United States as to nitrates was well understood, but that virtually nothing was done to build up nitrate stores before our entry into the war and that it was only when Baruch and his technical expert, Summers, got into action that the situation was saved. It is Mr. Clarkson's belief that practically the same situation exists in this country today with regard to nitrates as obtained before we went into the World War; that if our ports on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts were blockaded so that we could not import nitrates we would be unable to manufacture high explosives for a protracted war and would soon be at the mercy of an invading enemy.

Mr. Clarkson continues:

"The War Industries Board had massed industry for a common purpose, but it had done so according to the genius of individualism. It was democratic in purpose and method and yet, except for price fixing in the later stages, the power of decision was singular. Its methods are deserving of the closest study of statesmen, for they combine the efficiency of autocracy with the spirit of democracy.

"All-productive America was the commissary of its own armies and those of the Allies. Thus, the War Industries Board was comparable on the side of economic power to the American army on the side of man power."

Stating that the analogy is complete in theory but not in practice, Mr. Clarkson declares that "in another war the principle of the selective draft should be applied to dollars as well as to men and that behind all industrial mobilization should be the formally adopted principle of conscription, which is the direct inference of the conception of modern war as a war of all persons and all things."

The author asserts that all plans for industrial mobilization against another war should be placed in the hands of qualified civilian experts and not in the hands of the military. He adds: "No one who witnessed the spectacle of an American War Department, magnificent as were its achievements on the purely military side, thrust unprepared into a great modern conflict, going down for the third time in an uncharted sea of industrial-military problems, could come to any other conclusion."

Mr. Clarkson concludes:

"In the War Industries Board American democracy superbly demonstrated its power to rise to great emergencies in the nation's business, just as the army and fleet reflected its military adaptability. The War Industries Board was a governmentally sponsored committee of American industry to administer industry in war. It was the American business man in action for a common end. Russia was torn to pieces by its soviet of proletarians; America was united by the protean forces of its managers and producers."

Question: How do you account for straws being forced through telegraph poles during cyclones?
M. D.

Answer: The energy with which a body strikes an object determines the piercing effect and damaging effect of the body. Energy is measured by the product of the mass of the body and the square of the velocity. Thus a very small body moving with a high velocity can possess just as much kinetic energy as a large body moving slowly. The straw is hurled through the air at an enormous velocity and expends its energy in going through the wood. This happens so quickly that the inertia of the straw keeps it from crumpling up before piercing.

Q.: Were the colors red, white and blue in our flag chosen because of any special significance?
D. C. G.

A.: According to a statement of the Continental Congress, the colors of our flag were decided upon because white signifies purity and innocence; red signifies hardiness and valor, and blue indicates vigilance, perseverance and justice.

Q.: How much of the coal mined in the United States is consumed by the railroads?
A. G. D.

Q.: Is an apartment house kept as dry as the air of New Mexico?
D. R. L.

A.: The air of the majority of apartments in winter is considered a great deal drier than the climate of Colorado or New Mexico. One authority says that in some heated houses in winter the atmosphere is drier than that of the Sahara Desert.

T. E. O.

A.: It has been observed that thoroughly whitewashing the trees in fall or winter has a tendency to delay blossoming.

G. C. B.

A.: The bar silver (foreign) is the price quoted in New York on all silver other than that which has been produced and refined entirely in the United States and has never entered any foreign market. The two quotations were made necessary because of the operation of the special act of Congress known as the Pittman Act. Under authority of this act a large amount of silver was sold during the war to Great Britian to be shipped to India. This silver is now being replaced by purchases by the United States government, of purely domestic silver that is American produced and refined. Same act makes it mandatory upon the United States government to pay $1 per ounce for all such silver offered at the United States Mint up to a total of the amount of silver sold during the war. This figure has nearly been reached and when such purchases of the United States have been completed the special domestic silver quotation will no doubt be discontinued.

Q.: What plants were grafted together to produce grapefruits?
G. H.

A.: The Department of Agriculture says that the grapefruit belongs to the same family as the lemon and orange, but represents a distinct botanical species. It is possible that you have in mind a hybrid form of the grapefruit—the tangelo—recently developed from a cross between the tangerine orange and the grapefruit.

The Brutal Man

"Did he?" cried her father, jumping up. "Where is he?"

"Oh, you'll easily catch him, daddy," said the little one. "Two men just carried him into a drug store."—[Boston Transcript.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES

A League Advocate

REDLANDS, May 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The writer finds it a great pleasure to write you once more, to let you and your readers know what he thinks of those "best minds" who are continually fighting for and against the League of Nations. A short time back you stated in an editorial, after stating so many times your advocacy of our entry into the League, that you regretted President Harding did not favor the League along with the International Court.

The writer is a citizen of these United States and during the time of the World War he "made a generous offer of service to the government," and at any time you require proof of this statement, which is quoted from a letter of the Adjutant-General of the War Department, I shall be glad to send it to your office for a demonstration.

I have taken a hearty interest in the League of Nations. Regardless of partisanship, I am firm in the faith that Woodrow Wilson's ideas in regard to having the United States enter the League of Nations without reservations were par-excellent.

Today it can readily be seen that the United States is surely in need of foreign markets in order to dispose of our surplus products. This would give a great relief to the farmers and furnish remunerative employment to many idle hands.

All this fight going on just now against the League by the "best minds" is, in my opinion, unjust and unfair; it is sprung from jealousy and selfishness, mostly.
JOHN G. HUTCHINSON.

A Hawkeye Speaks

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—[To the Editor of The Times.] In your editorial of the 3rd inst. you condemn Iowa for electing a Republican-Socialist to represent the State in the United States Senate. You also condemn the State for paying the soldiers a bonus by issuing bonds to be paid by the next generation.

I think you discredit the State by saying the capitalists are not eager for these bonds.

The true reason for their not selling is the rate of interest. Iowa's bonded debt is not questioned.

If you will take a look at your own city and State, I think you will find it bonded for more and at a higher rate than Iowa. If it is a sin to bond Iowa for a soldier bonus, why do you always advocate the bonding of Los Angeles for less reasons?

If a sin to elect a Progressive for Iowa, why do you do it in California.

As a lover of Iowa, I think your editorial will be more in place if applied to your own city and State. I am quite sure Iowa has contributed more to California than California has to Iowa, and therefore should have your commendation rather than condemnation.
J. E. ROBBINS.

Mrs. Van Nuys

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—[To the Editor if The Times:] In the death of Mrs. Van Nuys another member of two "all-American" families has passed away. I was foreman for I. N. Van Nuys on the San Fernando wheat ranch when he and Miss Lankershim were married.

Mr. Van Nuys raised his first crop of wheat in 1875. I and my three brothers threshed his wheat with our father's thresher that year.

Mrs. Van Nuys attended my father's funeral on the Gower homestead here in what is now Hollywood, in 1880.

Her father was at the funeral of my brother, who was a foreman on the Kester ranch, now the city of Van Nuys.

The Lankershims and the Van Nuys were thoroughly democratic and "all-American," as I knew them.
G. W. GOWER.

Defends Foreign Laborers

LOS ANGELES, May 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In reply to Mr. "I Think" of San Diego one might remark that is possible and quite easy to think many things and yet not have a single legitimate or logical thought.

It's wonderful what we can do with that poor little "I."

As to those terrible foreigners am sure Mr. Greene is quite unfair. I have employed many foreigners, as well as native help in my lumber business in Minnesota, Oregon and Washington, and found foreign labor to average up well with native-born Americans. As for the radicals the strength, brains and leadership are men of old American families and men, too, of no mean intellectual ability.

Mr. "I Think" is not at all fair to the League of Nations and one must infer that he has not studied it closely, and that the gentleman has gleaned his information as to the League of Nations, foreigners, etc., from the editorials of a certain news syndicate. Mr. "I Think" should apologize for what is probably unintentional plagiarism—for all that he says has appeared editorially in certain yellow journals.

Mr. "I Think" is mistaken as to religion, also. Religion could not be religion and hypocrisy—impossible! He probably intended to say church—yet he would be mistaken again as the American church is one of the closest political organizations that it is possible to build, and does not preach or make any pretense of being religious.

Mr. "I Think" should cultivate a more kindly and charitable attitude toward his brother-man, and also get in touch with some more enlightening literature.
R. B. LEE.

Hangings Approved

LOS ANGELES, May 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I was pleased at reading in the dispatches a few days ago, an account of the hanging of a man and a woman. Though the swining was in Canada, it was consoling to learn that there is at least one country where justice is meted to the guilty, man or woman, although rich.

It was a strange feature of this case that the man was rich. I do not believe that this could have occurred in this broad "land of the free!" Certainly not in California. Our Bolshevik juries are too "chivalrous" to swing a "lady" for the mere killing of a person, man or even one of her own sex. And then, the high-priced criminal lawyers are expert in securing witnesses, and weak-minded juries. They argue that it is their duty to their client to do anything that will bring about an acquittal. In this, they violate the law, which they are sworn to uphold; to say nothing of conscience—if they have any.

Within the past four or five years Los Angeles should have sent about a dozen [illegible] lows; and several of them [illegible] women. Some of these [illegible] murderers now walk the [illegible] laughing at the courts. [illegible] land, or in any of the [illegible] sessions, these [illegible] been swung up quickly, [illegible] being made "heroes" and [illegible] ines" by weak-minded [illegible] men of prurient brains.

GREAT FILM PLAY

"LITTLE CHURCH AROUND THE CORNER" A WIZ

By Grace Kinngsley

Not since "The Miracle Man" have I wept and thrilled at a faith picture as I wept and thrilled at "The Little Church Around the Corner," at Loew's, and not since "The Pilgrim" have I laughed as I laughed at "Bell Boy Thirteen," at the Kinema.

Maybe nobody so far has thought to nominate William Seiter to an apartment in the hall of fame, but I want to be first in the rush to do it right now. Seiter directed both pictures. He wins a place with the screen wizards. And not the mere parlor-magic ones, either, but with the Houdinis, for he unlocks and swings wide the doors of really inspired drama in the one picture and of sparkling comedy in the other.

"I'm left pretty cold with the average faith-healing picture, despite I realize the effect of mind on matter; but Olga Printzlau's version of "The Little Church Around the Corner" lifts you to inspired heights, presents its subject with sweet reasonableness—and yesterday made the crowd applaud and cheer.

Its theme is bound about by the logic that it is the really spiritual workers who seek duty and sacrifice first, who draw from divine sources the power to perform miracles on the infirm. And never did Lillian Gish herself work under more tran scendently spiritual inspiration, apparently, than Pauline Strake as the dumb girl, who is cured of her inability to speak by the young preacher who forsook all to follow Christ.

I wonder if preaching won't be done through pictures one of these days! I don't think the spoken word could move one more than the simulated spirituality and sacrifice of Kenneth Harlan as the youthful preacher. And by the same token, Harlan is lifted forever out of the "pretty actor" class by his work in this.

I should think all the preachers would want to see this; it touches them so nearly.

The preacher has to make his choice between a rich church in the city and the daughter of his benefactor for a wife, and his own poor miner people among whom he was raised. When the benefactor who gave him his education refuses to listen to the pleas of the workers that the mine is unsafe, he is further perplexed. But he makes his decision firmly, and goes back to the mining town.

Here the disaster does occur in the mine, and he himself aids the rescuers. But the bad element rises against the mine owner and himself, and when he commands the mob to desist in their plans against the owner, saying if they have faith all will be well, they mock him.

"Give us a sign of this faith!" they command him. That's when the thrilling healing of the dumb girl takes place.

He had tried in vain to heal her in other days; but now, in his moment of need, because he had laid sacrifice, as well as faith to his soul's unction, her faith and his were rewarded. The dumb spake, and the mockers fled.

There are great power and artistry in the manner in which Seiter handles the great mob scenes in the mine disaster. And they are things of beauty as well as of power.

Some of the groupings of naked and sweating miners in the shaft have all the strong beauty of Rodin groups. And the individual bits are wonderfully done.

Priscilla Bonner does a marvelous bit as a broken-hearted young wife and mother, waiting for them to bring her man from the shaft. What's the matter with the directors that they aren't giving this girl her big opportunity?

The early scenes with the boy David preaching didn't appeal to me much. I don't think I could endure a youngster like that. But at that I musn't fail to mention the spiritual-faced boy who played it.

Claire Windsor is going to be a very, very fine actress some day. She is flexible of mood and natural, and only a little self-consciousness at moments mars her performance. But she is very young at the game. For sheer sweetness and womanly appeal she has hardly her match in filmland.

Hobart Bosworth and Walter Long villained splendidly, and the others were acceptable.

DUGH MacLEAN HITS HIGH COMEDY NOTE

If you want to laugh every minute, be sure and see Douglas MacLean in "Bellboy 13," at the Kinema. And there's a Mermaid comedy down there that's no slouch either.

I'm going to take it all back about MacLean not being a comedian. He surely is. And if he keeps on with such stuff as "Bellboy 13," he's going to join the Harold Lloyd class. Funny thing, how the low comedians are growing high brow, and the high comedians are growing low brow!

In some spots "Bellboy 13" almost looks as though MacLean were going to add stunt stuff to his natural comedy methods. He does a walk along a window ledge, high up, that is full of thrills as well as comedy.

It is a new sort of thing anyhow, this picture, a mixture of farce and slapstick and stunts that is capital, and that holds you every minute. Its story concerns a youth, nephew of a rich man who won't work until his girl tell him she won't have anything more to do with him.

The he turns bellboy in a hotel, the girl and his uncle turn up, and all sorts of funny complications follow. They must be seen to be appreciated, however.

The thing is done with a quite indescribably light, sparkling and sure touch that makes it a gem among comedies.

There is a fireman sequence that is what the press agents call a scream every minute, when the hero grabs the fire chief's automobile and his hat, is followed by a real fire company out looking for a fire, and creates a panic when he peeks into the hotel dining room having forgotten all about the helmet on his head.

Margaret Loomis charms in the leading role and makes us sorry she has quit the screen, and John Steppling as Uncle Elrod, does his usual clever work.

"A Good Scout" is the name of the Mermaid comedy, and it, too, pages the laughs.

The whole bill is excellent, and you can't do better, if you are in a fit of blues, or if you aren't—than to give the Kinema a call.

MANY STARS APPEAR IN HOLLYWOO DSTORY

The "What's What in the Film Capital," "Night Life in Hollywood," which is showing in its second week at the Symphony, introduces a long list of notable screen stars, among them the late Wallace Reid, William Desmond, Dorothy Davenport, Theodore Roberts, Sessue Hayakawa, Tsuru Aoki, J. Warren Kerrigan and J. Frank Glendon.

The picture was made because Hollywood, during the last few months, has become the most-talked- of city in the world. The picture not only tells a real story—one that could only be told in Hollywood—but shows the inside lives of many of the individual cinema stars. Fred Caldwell wrote and directed the story.

CHARLEY'S "PILGRIM" ANYTHING BUT DULL

Not a dull minute intrudes into the scheme of things in Charles Chaplin's "The Pilgrim," which is the Alhambra's attraction for a second and final week.

His list of "gags" includes some bright and shiny new ones, the one about the derby hat taking rank with the best ever evolved by the popular comedian, and his pantomime was never more effective than in the sermon sequence. Sydney Chaplin, Enda Purviance, Mack Swain and Phyllis Allen are among the familiar faces seen in this comedy.

AN IDEAL PICTURE

If it be true, as Heywood Broun asserts, that the proper realm for the screen is the great outdoors then "Hunting Big Game in Africa," which opened its fourth week at the Miller Theater yesterday, is an ideal screen vehicle. It stands unique among travel pictures. Whaling, diamond mining, African villages known to South Africa, the thrill and hazard of the hunt, the seemingly inexhaustable humor of the "flivver"—all are here, abundantly.

PLAYDOM

PIQUANCY HELPS "NE'ER-DO-WELL" AT METROPOLITAN

By Edwin Schallert

Much feminine loveliness is revealed in the scenes where Simonetta is supposed to pose for the painting of "The Birth of Venus." Mrs. Muriel Stryker is the star, and there is a supporting cast of attractive costumed girls, reputedly from "The Follies." The dance episode is draggy, but the rest is interesting to anyone seeking something of quality.

There's no doubt that "The Ne'er Do Well" relies on all the hokum that comes out of the old studio barrel. Even to the place where the hero is fasely accused of murder is the pluperfect example of what coincidence can do.

If it doesn't worry you to see the old, old situations, decorated with a fresh coat of paint or two, and with a new set of tenants installed as actors in the plot, why you'll probably be more than pleased with "The Ne'er-Do-Well," Rex Beach's somewhat antique but still equable thriller. The direction is smooth and reserved, and Thomas Meighan is the star, and there is a scenic quality to the photography that lifts an otherwise commonplace story out of the rut of the familiar.

The picture is showing at Grauman's, where it is accompanied this week by an artistic series of tableaux, presented by Ned Wayburn. For novelty, I preferred the tableaux, because they are about the most exquisite creations, as to color and pictorial beauty, that have been displayed in any film theater in a long time. They tell the story of the painter, Botticelli, and of Simonetta.

It must have been a heavy melodramatic thing before Alfred Green and his scenarioist took ahold of the plot and jazzed it up with a college youth's party in the first two reels.

Finding that the cafe rules don't permit them to entertain the entertainers as they would wish, they have all the girls write their names on the hero's shirt-front. He is subsequently shanghaied and when he wakes up aboard the boat he wants to sell his cuff links and his shirt-front for a suit of clothes. "I'm offering you the most expensive address list in New York," he says.

A few touches like this serve to help one overlook the deficiencies of what would otherwise be a very dull and machine-made type of picture. Lila Lee seems to me to be the only one who is anywhere near true to character in the cast. She plays the little Spanish girl. Meighan hardly seems the untamed youth that the story would lead you to expect, either in acting or personality. He's a favorite which may or may not help to keep you from being disappointed in him in this picture. Personally I'd rather see him in something else. Gertrude Astor acts her role better than she looks it, if you know what I mean, but neither she nor John Miltern made any particular impression on me. I'm strong for Miss Lee as a Spanish heroine though.

The orchestra achieved a striking effect in their rendition of the overture to "Tannhauser," with Herman Heller directing. Mr. Heller has an excellent and musicianly body of musicians, and shades his rendition with taste and a certain individuality.

SUBSEA THRILLER VERY ENTERTAINING

I suppose that the Williamson organization won't be satisfied until they go to the bottom of the Pacific Ocean, in that place where there reputedly is no bottom, to secure one of their scenic thrillers. Whenever they do I'm going to be on hand to watch the results—on the screen. After looking at "Wonders of the Sea," I'm quite satisfied to continue on these submarine excursions, no matter how many fathoms under the surface they may lead, so long as I can behold what happens comfortably from a chair in a theater. As far as fashions go, diving suits don't appeal to me.

"Wonders of the Sea," which is showing at the California Theater, is another of those mysterious and rather exciting affairs, where a couple of daring adventurers, clad in conventional sea armor, go down and stir up a very nasty octopus and make him so mad that he wants to stage a wrestling battle, in which the bets would be ten to one in his favor. You can see him throw up a veritable smoke screen, as is the way of the octopus, and behold his great black eyes blazing their anger, in the glinting rays of sunlight that percolate through the dark waters.

I suppose there will be a lot of shouting about that octopus battle being done in a tank, or something of the kind. Nothing of that kind could look quite real, because it is so far beyond the range of ordinary human experience. But it's hard to imagine the way the film is photographed that there is any trick employed in the course of the deadly battle.

Lulu McGrath does some attractive diving to the bottom of the sea—far from the haunts of the octopus, however—to pose for a painting that is made by one of the occupants of the submarine cabin.

"The Pill-Pounder," which brings back Charlie Murray, with Dorothy Walters in the supporting cast, is a good jazz comedy. Murray is as funny as ever—and a little bit more.

SOPRANO TRIUMPHS

Daughter of Glendale's Mayor Captures Discovery Audience

A young lyric soprano, Julia Robinson of Glendale, captured the audience gathered at the Third-street Theater for Grauman's Sunday morning "Discovery" concert yesterday. She possesses a glorious voice with a warm and sympathetic quality that bids fair to carry her to many triumphs.

Miss Robinson's aria, "Il est doux, il est bon," from Massenet's "Herodiade," was brilliantly executed, as was also, a duet with Henri La Bonte, favorite tenor, this being "Oh Kindly Heavens," from "Madame Butterfly."

Dorothy Parker sang the aria, "Suicidio," from "La Gioconda," in an excellently trained soprano, and another vocalist, C. Alpino, tenor, distinguished himself in his rendition of arias from "Aida," and "Tosca."

Members of the Russian Company who are to be featured on the Grauman program at the Third-street Theater this week, offered folk songs and other native music.

T. ROY BARNES ON STAGE

T. Roy Barnes, whose success in pictures, especially "The Go-Getter," is a matter fo recent history, will return to the stage via the Orpheum for a single week, beginning today. Barnes made his first big successes in vaudeville, and he also won fame in musical comedy, but of late he has been in the moveis altogether. Bessie Crawford is in the act with him, and they will offer "A Package of Smiles." Bronson and Winnie Baldwin are also making a home-coming in their new vehicle, "A Happy Medium."

150-FOOT PICO CORNER.

Now bringing in $6600 per annum. Here is an unusual offering. You put up $33,000 cash and assume mortgage, we will deed this property to you. We will use the $33,000 to drill an oil well in a positively proven field. We will return to you 50% of the earnings of the well until we have paid off your mortgage on the Pico property and also return to you your $33,000 which you pay down now.

We consider this Pico property well worth the money, even tho we didn't offer to return your money to you. Remember this means that eventually and not far distant, you will own the 150-foot improved Pico corner without having cost you a one-cent piece.

DISTRIBUTORS

CAPABLE OF EARNING OVER $10,000 YEAR. The specialty department of a nationally known manufacturer is seeking distributors to market their product in Southern California and surrounding territory. The proposition should easily yield over $10,000 per annum. The market is inexhaustible, and growing from year to year. An investment of $1000 to $5000 for merchandise is necessary to supply customers. This business is on a strictly cash basis, affording a rapid turnover of the original investment and quick cash profits. If you possess the necessary qualifications you will find this a rare opportunity to enter into a highly lucrative, permanent business and become associated with one of the best and most favorably known manufacturers in California. Local and out-of-town applicants write fully. The sales manager of this corporation will arrange for a personal interview. Address H, box 473, TIMES BRANCH.

WISH to hear from mfg. or any company needing from $20,000 to $50,000 additional capital for expansion; or some bldg. or mtg. investment. Safety of investment more important than large profits. State nature of business and capital required. If interested will arrange interview. Address G, box 349, TIMES BRANCH.

HAL ROACH GETS AID OF JACKMAN

Expert Cameraman to Direct Own Production

Is Reputed for Surmounting Difficulties

Formerly Under Contract at Sennett Studio

Fred Jackman, whose work with Jack London's, "The Call of the Wild," stamped him as one of the foremost directors of pictures, yesterday signed a long-term contract with Hal Roach, and will continue the production of features for the Culver City producer.

Jackman is to resume his activities within a month, for "The Call of the Wild" will have its final preview next week before it is shipped to Pathe in New York for distribution.

A tentative story has been written by Jackman himself for his next effort, which will take him to the backwoods of Arizona or Colorado for at least a two months' location story.

The story revolves around the life of a horse just as "The Call of the Wild" related the life story of a dog.

SELECT STOCK

Chick Morrison, one of the best-known horsemen on the west coast, has been engaged by Mr. Roach to co-operate with Jackman in the selection of the stock which will appear in the new feature. Morrison left yesterday for Arizona with a commission to purchase twelve of the finest stallions obtainable. It will take him about a month to round up the type of animals the story will require.

Before Jackman was engaged to make "The Timber Queen," a serial produced by Roach with Ruth Roland as the star, he was one of the foremost cameramen in the motion-picture industry. He used to be farmed out by Mack Sennett, with whom he was under contract, to various producers who had particularly difficult photographic shots to be made. He has worked for Neilan, De Mille, Mayer, Lasky and other big producers.

Jackman took the "Call of the Wild" after every producer had passed it up, with the exception of Roach, as being too difficult to produce, and made of it what is expected to be one of the outstanding pictures of the current year.

CONTINUES COMEDY

Roach's entrance into the field of feature production will in no way minimize his efforts in the comedy realm. The noted comedy producer will continue to make comedy paramount in the Culver City lot.

Just now he is preparing for the Will Rogers comedies. Rogers is expected to arrive here June 1. Work is now under way at the Roach ranch on Arnaz Road on the buildings which will house the horses and other animals which will be used in the Rogers comedies. Practically all the Rogers pictures will be produced at this ranch, although all interiors will have to be made in the Culver City plant.

Rapid progress is also being made on the series "What Should a Girl Do," under the direction of Roy Clements. Edna Murphy is starring in this series of two-reel pictures which mark a new line of endeavor in the picture world, in that each story will be complete in itself and yet all will be related to each other.

The cast for the first of this series includes Percy Pembrooke, Charles Parrott, William Moran, Olin Francis and Katherine Grant. John MacBurnie is Mr. Clements's assistant.

RUTH ROLAND WILL OPEN SUBDIVISION

NOTED SCREEN ACTRESS GOES INTO REAL ESTATE AND GETS TRACT

With the firm conviction that Los Angeles is the future home for the millions and a paradise for home seekers, Ruth Roland, motion-picture star, announced that she intends to open a new subdivision in the Wilshire district to be known as Roland Square, where prospective buyers will have an opportunity to obtain a home site that will meet the particular requirement of the purchaser.

According to Miss Roland, the new square will be one of the finest in the city and will contain many thousands of dollars in improvements, including paved roads, cement walks, electricity, gas, water and other conveniences.

The tract contains approximately 200 lots. It is located on Wilshire Boulevard just east of Fairfax avenue in the center of several high-class subdivisions already under way. Miss Roland, who frequently scintillates on the screen in various cinema productions, has been lured away from her profession, for a time at least, to take an active part in the sale of real estate in Los Angeles and suburbs. She stated that "her" Roland Square will be open for public inspection next Saturday.

WORKING AT REDONDO

CHILD STAR WILL PLAY PEST ROLE

Richard Headrick.

Richard Headrick

With the signing of Richard Headrick for an important role in "The Wanters," John M. Stahl has completed the cast for his next all-star production for Louis B. Mayer-First National presentation. Richard, who is now only 5 years of age, although he has been a national screen favorite for over two years, will be seen in the picture as one of those precocious youngsters who continually embarrass their elders with careless handling of the family secrets. In other words, Richard always spills the beans when it will do most harm.

The return of Richard to the John M. Stahl production fold is very much in the nature of a homecoming, for it was under Stahl's direction that the little fellow scored his first big film hit, in "The Child Thou Gavest Me." Since then he has played leads in a series of pictures, the most recent of which is "Chicago Sal." In addition to being a remarkably clever actor, the boy is a brilliant violinist, an apt scholar and an expert swimmer.

An exceptionally large list of stars have been assembled for "The Wanters," including among the principals Marie Prevost, Robert Ellis, Norma Shearer, Gertrude Astor, Huntly Gordon, Richard Headrick, Lincoln Stedman, Lillian Langdon, Louise Fazenda, Hank Mann, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Eddie Gribbon and William Buckley. Leila Burton Wells wrote the story and J. G. Hawks and Paul Bern prepared the screen version. Ernest G. Palmer is chief photographer. Syndey Algier, who has been with Mr. Stahl on his last few successes, is serving as assistant director.

The actual shooting of "The Wanters" was started at the Mayer Studio two weeks ago, with the filming of some interior scenes representing the action in the Long Island mansion of a New York multimillionaire.

MAILMEN ARE READY FOR REVUE

Final Rehearsal Today on Carriers' Huge Benefit Performance

Members of the cast of the Los Angeles Letter Carriers' Revue will conduct their final rehearsal today, preparatory to the opening of a three-day presentation at the Philharmonic Auditorium beginning tomorrow evening. Permission has been obtained to hold a street parade this afternoon in the downtown district. The parade will be headed by the sixty-piece letter carriers' band, for whose benefit the revue is being staged.

The principal feature of the revue will be an old-time minstrel show. Tom Wilson, leading black face imitator of the films, will have one of the principal parts. Charles Parrot director for Hal Roach, will take the part of one of the interlocutors. Besides the band itself, the letter carriers' chorus of 150 male voices will form the background for the minstrels.

The minstrel act will take the principal place among an all-feature bill. Among others who will be seen in the revue are Walter Wills, formerly with "Chin Chin" and "The Red Mill," and also producer of the 1922-23 Writers' Revue; Maurice Kusell, Louis Natheaux, Mervyn LeRoy, Vernon Dent, Irene Howard and many others.

Motley H. Flint, vice-president of the Pacific Southwest National Bank, is acting treasurer of the letter carriers and is an enthusiastic backer of the show, having attended a few of the rehearsals.

The proceeds from the three shows will go to the benefit of the band, which during the last few months has given many concerts at charitable institutions. The funds will also be used to help defray the expenses of the band on its trip to the national convention at Providence, R. I., where it is to compete with the thirteen other letter carrier bands in the United States for the Will H. Hays cup.

Arthur Balue is conductor of the band and Joseph C. Fallon is manager. Monte Collins, Jr., and George Green have collaborated in the musical score to be played during the revue.

Thousands End Observance of Mexican Fiesta

The sixty-first observance of Cinco de Mayo, anniversary of the Battle of Puebla, in which French control of Mexico was crushed, passed into history yesterday with several thousand former residents of the southern republic in Los Angeles bringing to a close a two-day celebration with a program at Selig Park. Cinco de Mayo is second in importance, in Mexican national holidays, only to Mexican Independence Day, Sept. 16.

Members of the Mexican Consul's staff and prominent Mexican citizens residing in Los Angeles addressed the crowd at the band shell in the park yesterday, emphasizing the need for perpetuating the spirit that gave to Mexico its separate government and nationalism.

The celebration of Cinco de Mayo opened Saturday night with a dance in the Goldberg-Bosley Hall, and was continued through Sunday. Preceding the program at the park yesterday, an old-fashioned barbecue was held.

HOW WOMEN MAKE MONEY

A Series of Talks With Ambitious Girls on Vocational Training

BY VALENE WATROUS

Economic necessity on the one hand, and the trend of modern thought on the other has created a new vocation, for which women seem peculiarly well fitted, called a vocational counsellor.

Each year a larger percentage of young girls enter the business world as wage-earners. The daughters of well-to-do parents are going into stores and offices to learn at first hand the demands that are made on their fathers and brothers. Parents want their daughters to know something of investments, and ordinary business transactions, even though well able to provide for their future.

"I want my girl to know what it means to earn the $2500 she is coaxing me to pay for her new roadster," observed one successful business man. "I don't want her to train for a profession. That means a career. In my opinion a woman has only one real vocation—to be a successful wife. But I've always believed that my wife's business experience before we were married helped her to be a good homemaker; that because of it she has been a better wife and mother than she otherwise would have been. So Molly's taking accounting along with her college work."

And one of these days Molly will be numbered among the countless other workers who crowd the elevators of huge office buildings morning and evening. She will be going through her day's routine, eagerly or dully, happily, or wretchedly, according to her temperament.

Far be it from me to question the dictates of a successful business man and fond father. But I could not but wonder if Molly had any aptitude whatever for totting up rows of figures all day long.

I doubt if her daddy gave that side of the question a passing thought. He knew how neccessary it was for every business man to have a sound working knowledge of accounts. Therefore, since he wanted Molly to have some business experience, why not start with fundamentals?

And what about Molly, blonde and eager-eyed? Perched on a high stool she laboriously copies out long columns of figures, or checks vouchers with monotonous regularity. Mistakes? Of course, her errors are many. But she doesn't care. Mathematics and accuracy are no part of her mental processes.

"Let'm rave," says Molly, knowing that the wide sunny rooms of her father's home will be decked in bridal array before many moons have risen and waned.

But suppose Miss Molly had no such safe harbor? Suppose that job of dot and carry one enabled her to pay the rent and feed her widowed mother's young brood?

It wouldn't take her long to discover that the job filled her restless soul with loathing. She would know that she was a failure—one of the world's square pegs. But she would attribute her dislike to business in general, rather than to the particular port for which she had embarked so blithely.

Had she sought the advice of a vocational counsellor before entering business college, she would have been told to train for some line of work that would allow her freedom of movement, with variety and change of work.

The vocational adviser who really knows character analysis is well aware—all other things being equal—that the florid types are the adventurers. They were the Vikings who thrilled to the battle cry—the hardy Norseman who fared forth on tempestuous seas.

And they are that in the business world today. Detail wearies and frets them. They must have activity. They make excellent executives, because of their tremendous driving power, their fearlessness and initiative. Experience brings poise—and lack of it is their greatest weakness—and when it is acquired they inspire loyalty and devotion, which every leader must enkindle in the hearts of those who look to him for guidance.

YOUTH TAKES FILM FLYER

Johnnie Walker, juvenile screen star, hopes to apply the adage "Youth will be served" to motion-picture producing as successfully as Jack Dempsey has to box-fighting and Charlie Paddock to foot-racing, for the Irish lad with the drinkable name has organized an independent cinema production unit which starts shooting its first picture tomorrow.

The project has been christened the Walker-Good Productions, and plans are complete for the filming of twelve five-reelers, featuring Eddie Polo, Catherine Bennett, sister of Enid Bennet, and Kathleen Meyers in melodramatic stunt pictures. The sum of $300,000 has been guaranteed for the first series, Mr. Walker declares.

The "Good" part of the firm name not only expresses the hope of the founders as to their product but also the name of Johnnie's colleague, the man behind the pocketbook, John H. Good, a young Youngston, (O.) business man, now living at La Jolla, since his retirement from active participation in the affairs of the United Engineering Company, producers of steel, four years ago.

CURRAN TO DIRECT

To complete the youthful picture, William Hughes Curran, associate director in the filming of "The Courtship of Miles Standish," a Charles Ray feature, has been engaged as the "man behind the megaphone."

Mr. Curran is probably the youngest director in motion pictures. After several years with Richard Ordynski, noted Broadway stage director, he came here six years ago for a ten weeks' engagement at a local theater. The cinema lured him. He is still here.

Though the Walker-Good Productions are to be marketed in this country through the medium of state rights purchasers, the Eddie Polo pictures will have the European release as their main goal. At present Eddie Polo is enjoying Continental popularity akin to that secured by Douglas Fairbanks in his first United States releases.

Mr. Walker, accompanied by his wife and Mr. Curran, is to sail for Europe early in July to arrange for the European release in the course of a two months' tour.

BUYS "WORM"

Despite his entry into the production field, Mr. Walker says he intends to continue as a motion-picture star. Yesterday he announced the purchase of "The Worm" from Charles Ray as his next release for the Robertson-Cole Corporation. The scenario does not fit in with the Ray production plans as it is after Charlie's early method, and not of the big feature type exemplified by "The Girl I Loved." The scenario's sale was negotiated solely on this basis, Mr. Ray has stated.

"With experience as a basis, I feel that young men have a wonderful future in motion-picture producing," Mr. Walker stated after announcing the formation of his company.

"Mr. Good has been successful in commercial and financial fields and though he retired from business four years ago, is not content to remain in retirement. He sees a future in motion pictures.

SUCCESS SEEN

"Mr. Curran has been associated with the stage and screen in a directorial capacity for more than twelve years, though he is still under 30. Coupled with his complete knowledge of the technical side of the industry he has the enthusiasm and energy that only youth can bestow.

"Before going into motion pictures I was on the stage and never intended to abandon the theater for the cinema until my work in 'Over the Hill' was recognized by critics and producers as showing my adaptability as a photoplayer.

"Since my entry into motion pictures I have directed as well as acted, and have made a careful study of the exhibiting field. Naturally I feel certain of success, as I know it can be attained by hard work and perseverance."

Johnnie Walker has an engaging personality. He looks the college man he is even if he does wear golf knickers to work. There is nothing "upstage" about him and his sincerity is not of the "yes man" or "handshaker" variety. He has the self-confidence that breeds success, and is universally popular in the film colony.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

PRINCIPLES OF CORRECT DIET MINERAL SALTS

You remember when we discussed the elements in the body I told you there were five of them to which we would have to give special thought. Those were nitrogen, calcium, phosphorous, iron and iodine. We have already discussed the nitrogen when we talked about protein.

Before we discuss calcium, the next element I told you I wanted you to remember, I will give you a few general facts about these elements. Now, while much of this series I am now writing for you on "Principles of Correct Diet" aims specifically to teach parents what they need to know about the diets of the children, don't forget it has been thoroughly proved that the principles of diet which are conducive to proper growth in children are also conductive to good health in adults. So this series is just as valuable to the health of my adult readers as to their children's.

When tissues are burned and analyzed in the laboratory, some of these elements are given off in the form of gas, as they are in the living body, and those that are not given off as gas are left in the form of ashes. These ashes we call mineral ash or mineral salt.

It is by the presence of some of these gaseous elements and those we call the mineral ash or salts that the chemical reactions of the body fluids and secretions are maintained, whether acid, alkaline or neutral (a secretion is something which the body secretes for its use. An excretion is something the body excretes or gets rid of, having no further use for it.) Some of these mineral salts are deposited in the different tissues as part of their structure. We will talk of that later.

You all know that alkalines are the opposite of acids. Sodium bicarbonate, or ordinary baking soda, is an example of an alkalie. Acids and alkalies when joined together neutralize each other and the result is called a salt. They do not always join in equal proportions, and if the alkalie elements are in the larger proportion, or are stronger, the salt is known as an alkaline salt. If the acid element is stronger, the salt is known as an acid salt. So we have three kinds of salts in chemistry. The neutral salt, the acid salt, and the alkaline or basic salt (alkalies are also known as bases.)

The normal reaction of the blood and the fluid which bathes all the cells of the body (the lymph) is slightly alkaline, and probably never becomes actually acid in life. However, when it becomes less alkaline than normal, then a condition known as acidosis results. Mineral salts must be taken, in the foods eaten, in such a proportion that the blood and tissue fluids are kept normally slightly alkaline. Otherwise there is trouble.

I am going to talk about acidosis again. Just now I have merely brought it up to show you one of the chief functions of the mineral salts.

CALCIUM

If you soak a long, slender bone in a solution of hydrocloric acid for two or three days, it will bend so easily that you can tie a knot in it. The reason this bone can be so easily bent is because the calcium salts have been dissolved out of the bone by the acid.

Now that is all right for a bone that we are using for demonstration purposes, but it certainly is not all right to let the bones of our children get soft enough to tie knots in. This couldn't happen, anyway, of course, but we don't want the children's bones to get even soft enough to bend.

How shall we prevent it? Mainly by supplying enough calcium (common name, lime) in their diets. So, mothers, you can see the importance of the knowledge of foods that will supply this important element, lime. There are other things that are necessary for the firmness of the bones, other minerals, vitamins, etc. We will speak of them later.

Calcium is not only necessary to give firmness and solidarity to the bones and teeth, but it is also extremely important to the blood and to the heart. For instance, if there is a deficiency of the calcium salts in the system, the blood will not coagulate quickly. There is a disease called hemophilia, an inherited disease, in which the patient bleeds way beyond normal whenever there is an injury. There is a lack of the power in the blood to coagulate quickly, and it is thought that lack of sufficient calcium salts may have something to do with it.

SOCIETY

Justice J. Walter Hanby and Mrs. Hanby announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Lucile, to Mr. W. M. Roche. The announcement was made Saturday afternoon at a tea at the home of Miss Hanby's parents, 312 North Normandie avenue. The decorations were in pink and white, and when the guests "drew" their slices of the cake they found the engagement cards concealed within.

Miss Hanby and Mr. Roche are both graduates of the University of California. Miss Hanby is a member of the Delta Phi Omega sorority and Mr. Roche is a Beta Phi Sigma. Beside the members of the family and the close relatives, the party included the Misses Ethelyne Ballyntyne, Marjorie Forbes, Mary Walker, Rosemary Roche and Margaret Roche. During the remainder of the afternoon the thirty-five guests enjoyed mah-jongg.

Engagement Announcement

The engagement has been announced of Miss Flora Trattner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Trattner, to Mr. Arnold Klein, a well-known business man of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Trattner received at their home, 5275 Sunset Blvd., yesterday afternoon and evening in honor of this happy event. The wedding date has been set for early in the fall.

English Visitors.

The Earl of Harrington of Brookley Park, Surrey, Eng., with Capt. Vernon-Harcourt, Grenadier Guards, are guests of Lady Anne Cavendish on Wilshire Boulevard. They will be leaving soon for India.

Just returned from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Grundy are preparing to establish their home in Los Angeles. Their last prenuptial entertainment was a tea at the Ambassador which Miss Virginia Dreiling gave for them.

Dancing Party.

Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Smith gave a dancing party Saturday evening at their home on Pennsylvania avenue, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Statham (Viola Weinman.) The guests included Messrs. and Mmes. Jesse Wright of Riverside, G. White of Lankershim, P. Blackburn, O. Blackburn, W. Culler, W. Bowers, E. W. Parsons, O. Blagg, E. Harris, R. O. Smith, Misses Ethel Davis, M. Opie of Salt Lake City, Phoebe Blockson, Ethel Jaeger, Messrs. M. Glascock, Paul Wetzel, E. Blackburn.

Home Again

Mrs. C. M. Malcolm has returned to her home at 4947 Marathon avenue, after a winter in the Philippines, visiting her son, George A. Malcolm, Justice of the Supreme Court in Manila. On her way home Mrs. Malcolm stopped in Japan and at Honolulu.

Gone to Honolulu

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Blasier, Sr., of St. Paul avenue, sailed Saturday for Honolulu to be gone indefinitely. Prior to Mrs. Blasier's departure, her sister, Mrs. John Babo, gave a luncheon in her honor at her home on South Westlake avenue.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Bannister announced the engagement of their daughter, Marion Adele, to Mr. Fred J. Loakes of Los Angeles. The announcement was made at an informal party at the home of the bride-elect's parents. The wedding will take place in June.

HAL ROACH GETS AID OF JACKMAN

Formerly Under Contract at Sennett Studio

Fred Jackman, whose work with Jack London's, "The Call of the Wild," stamped him as one of the foremost directors of pictures, yesterday signed a long-term contract with Hal Roach, and will continue the production of features for the Culver City producer.

Jackman is to resume his activities within a month, for "The Call of the Wild" will have its final preview next week before it is shipped to Pathe in New York for distribution.

A tentative story has been written by Jackman himself for his next effort, which will take him to the backwoods of Arizona or Colorado for at least a two months' location story.

The story revolves around the life of a horse just as "The Call of the Wild" related the life story of a dog.

SELECT STOCK

Chick Morrison, one of the best-known horsemen on the west coast, has been engaged by Mr. Roach to co-operate with Jackman in the selection of the stock which will appear in the new feature. Morrison left yesterday for Arizona with a commission to purchase twelve of the finest stallions obtainable. It will take him about a month to round up the type of animals the story will require.

Before Jackman was engaged to make "The Timber Queen," a serial produced by Roach with Ruth Roland as the star, he was one of the foremost cameramen in the motion-picture industry. He used to be farmed out by Mack Sennett, with whom he was under contract, to various producers who had particularly difficult photographic shots to be made. He has worked for Neilan, De Mille, Mayer, Lasky and other big producers.

Jackman took the "Call of the Wild" after every producer had passed it up, with the exception of Roach, as being too difficult to produce, and made of it what is expected to be one of the outstanding pictures of the current year.

CONTINUES COMEDY

Roach's entrance into the field of feature production will in no way minimize his efforts in the comedy realm. The noted comedy producer will continue to make comedy paramount in the Culver City lot.

Just now he is preparing for the Will Rogers comedies. Rogers is expected to arrive here June 1. Work is now under way at the Roach ranch on Arnaz Road on the buildings which will house the horses and other animals which will be used in the Rogers comedies. Practically all the Rogers pictures will be produced at this ranch, although all interiors will have to be made in the Culver City plant.

Rapid progress is also being made on the series "What Should a Girl Do," under the direction of Roy Clements. Edna Murphy is starring in this series of two-reel pictures which mark a new line of endeavor in the picture world, in that each story will be complete in itself and yet all will be related to each other.

The cast for the first of this series includes Percy Pembrooke, Charles Parrott, William Moran, Olin Francis and Katherine Grant. John MacBurnie is Mr. Clements's assistant.

RUTH ROLAND WILL OPEN SUBDIVISION

NOTED SCREEN ACTRESS GOES INTO REAL ESTATE AND GETS TRACT

With the firm conviction that Los Angeles is the future home for the millions and a paradise for home seekers, Ruth Roland, motion-picture star, announced that she intends to open a new subdivision in the Wilshire district to be known as Roland Square, where prospective buyers will have an opportunity to obtain a home site that will meet the particular requirement of the purchaser.

According to Miss Roland, the new square will be one of the finest in the city and will contain many thousands of dollars in improvements, including paved roads, cement walks, electricity, gas, water and other conveniences.

The tract contains approximately 200 lots. It is located on Wilshire Boulevard just east of Fairfax avenue in the center of several high-class subdivisions already under way. Miss Roland, who frequently scintillates on the screen in various cinema productions, has been lured away from her profession, for a time at least, to take an active part in the sale of real estate in Los Angeles and suburbs. She stated that "her" Roland Square will be open for public inspection next Saturday.

CHILD STAR WILL PLAY PEST ROLE

With the signing of Richard Headrick for an important role in "The Wanters," John M. Stahl has completed the cast for his next all-star production for Louis B. Mayer-First National presentation. Richard, who is now only 5 years of age, although he has been a national screen favorite for over two years, will be seen in the picture as one of those precocious youngsters who continually embarrass their elders with careless handling of the family secrets. In other words, Richard always spills the beans when it will do most harm.

Richard Headrick.

Richard Headrick

The return of Richard to the John M. Stahl production fold is very much in the nature of a home-coming, for it was under Stahl's direction that the little fellow scored his first big film hit, in "The Child Thou Gavest Me." Since then he has played leads in a series of pictures, the most recent of which is "Chicago Sal." In addition to being a remarkably clever actor, the boy is a brilliant violinist, an apt scholar and an expert swimmer.

An exceptionally large list of stars have been assembled for "The Wanters," including among the principals Marie Prevost, Robert Ellis, Norma Shearer, Gertrude Astor, Huntly Gordon, Richard Headrick, Lincoln Stedman, Lillian Langdon, Louise Fazenda, Hank Mann, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Eddie Gribbon and William Buckley. Leila Burton Wells wrote the story and J. G. Hawks and Paul Bern prepared the screen version. Ernest G. Palmer is chief photographer. Syndey Algier, who has been with Mr. Stahl on his last few successes, is serving as assistant director.

The actual shooting of "The Wanters" was started at the Mayer Studio two weeks ago, with the filming of some interior scenes representing the action in the Long Island mansion of a New York multimillionaire.

MAILMEN ARE READY FOR REVUE

Members of the cast of the Los Angeles Letter Carriers' Revue will conduct their final rehearsal today, preparatory to the opening of a three-day presentation at the Philharmonic Auditorium beginning tomorrow evening. Permission has been obtained to hold a street parade this afternoon in the downtown district. The parade will be headed by the sixty-piece letter carriers' band, for whose benefit the revue is being staged.

The principal feature of the revue will be an old-time minstrel show. Tom Wilson, leading black face imitator of the films, will have one of the principal parts. Charles Parrot director for Hal Roach, will take the part of one of the interlocutors. Besides the band itself, the letter carriers' chorus of 150 male voices will form the background for the minstrels.

The minstrel act will take the principal place among an all-feature bill. Among others who will be seen in the revue are Walter Wills, formerly with "Chin Chin" and "The Red Mill," and also producer of the 1922-23 Writers' Revue; Maurice Kusell, Louis Natheaux, Mervyn LeRoy, Vernon Dent, Irene Howard and many others.

Motley H. Flint, vice-president of the Pacific Southwest National Bank, is acting treasurer of the letter carriers and is an enthusiastic backer of the show, having attended a few of the rehearsals.

The proceeds from the three shows will go to the benefit of the band, which during the last few months has given many concerts at charitable institutions. The funds will also be used to help defray the expenses of the band on its trip to the national convention at Providence, R. I., where it is to compete with the thirteen other letter carrier bands in the United States for the Will H. Hays cup.

Arthur Balue is conductor of the band and Joseph C. Fallon is manager. Monte Collins, Jr., and George Green have collaborated in the musical score to be played during the revue.

Thousands End Observance of Mexican Fiesta

The sixty-first observance of Cinco de Mayo, anniversary of the Battle of Puebla, in which French control of Mexico was crushed, passed into history yesterday with several thousand former residents of the southern republic in Los Angeles bringing to a close a two-day celebration with a program at Selig Park. Cinco de Mayo is second in importance, in Mexican national holidays, only to Mexican Independence Day, Sept. 16.

Members of the Mexican Consul's staff and prominent Mexican citizens residing in Los Angeles addressed the crowd at the band shell in the park yesterday, emphasizing the need for perpetuating the spirit that gave to Mexico its separate government and nationalism.

The celebration of Cinco de Mayo opened Saturday night with a dance in the Goldberg-Bosley Hall, and was continued through Sunday. Preceding the program at the park yesterday, an old-fashioned barbecue was held.

HOW WOMEN MAKE MONEY

BY VALENE WATROUS

Economic necessity on the one hand, and the trend of modern thought on the other has created a new vocation, for which women seem peculiarly well fitted, called a vocational counsellor.

Each year a larger percentage of young girls enter the business world as wage-earners. The daughters of well-to-do parents are going into stores and offices to learn at first hand the demands that are made on their fathers and brothers. Parents want their daughters to know something of investments, and ordinary business transactions, even though well able to provide for their future.

"I want my girl to know what it means to earn the $2500 she is coaxing me to pay for her new roadster," observed one successful business man. "I don't want her to train for a profession. That means a career. In my opinion a woman has only one real vocation—to be a successful wife. But I've always believed that my wife's business experience before we were married helped her to be a good homemaker; that because of it she has been a better wife and mother than she otherwise would have been. So Molly's taking accounting along with her college work."

And one of these days Molly will be numbered among the countless other workers who crowd the elevators of huge office buildings morning and evening. She will be going through her day's routine, eagerly or dully, happily, or wretchedly, according to her temperament.

Far be it from me to question the dictates of a successful business man and fond father. But I could not but wonder if Molly had any aptitude whatever for totting up rows of figures all day long.

I doubt if her daddy gave that side of the question a passing thought. He knew how neccessary it was for every business man to have a sound working knowledge of accounts. Therefore, since he wanted Molly to have some business experience, why not start with fundamentals?

And what about Molly, blonde and eager-eyed? Perched on a high stool she laboriously copies out long columns of figures, or checks vouchers with monotonous regularity. Mistakes? Of course, her errors are many. But she doesn't care. Mathematics and accuracy are no part of her mental processes.

"Let'm rave," says Molly, knowing that the wide sunny rooms of her father's home will be decked in bridal array before many moons have risen and waned.

But suppose Miss Molly had no such safe harbor? Suppose that job of dot and carry one enabled her to pay the rent and feed her widowed mother's young brood?

It wouldn't take her long to discover that the job filled her restless soul with loathing. She would know that she was a failure—one of the world's square pegs. But she would attribute her dislike to business in general, rather than to the particular port for which she had embarked so blithely.

Had she sought the advice of a vocational counsellor before entering business college, she would have been told to train for some line of work that would allow her freedom of movement, with variety and change of work.

The vocational adviser who really knows character analysis is well aware—all other things being equal—that the florid types are the adventurers. They were the Vikings who thrilled to the battle cry—the hardy Norseman who fared forth on tempestuous seas.

And they are that in the business world today. Detail wearies and frets them. They must have activity. They make excellent executives, because of their tremendous driving power, their fearlessness and initiative. Experience brings poise—and lack of it is their greatest weakness—and when it is acquired they inspire loyalty and devotion, which every leader must enkindle in the hearts of those who look to him for guidance.

YOUTH TAKES FILM FLYER

Johnnie Walker, juvenile screen star, hopes to apply the adage "Youth will be served" to motion-picture producing as successfully as Jack Dempsey has to box-fighting and Charlie Paddock to foot-racing, for the Irish lad with the drinkable name has organized an independent cinema production unit which starts shooting its first picture tomorrow.

The project has been christened the Walker-Good Productions, and plans are complete for the filming of twelve five-reelers, featuring Eddie Polo, Catherine Bennett, sister of Enid Bennet, and Kathleen Meyers in melodramatic stunt pictures. The sum of $300,000 has been guaranteed for the first series, Mr. Walker declares.

The "Good" part of the firm name not only expresses the hope of the founders as to their product but also the name of Johnnie's colleague, the man behind the pocketbook, John H. Good, a young Youngston, (O.) business man, now living at La Jolla, since his retirement from active participation in the affairs of the United Engineering Company, producers of steel, four years ago.

CURRAN TO DIRECT

To complete the youthful picture, William Hughes Curran, associate director in the filming of "The Courtship of Miles Standish," a Charles Ray feature, has been engaged as the "man behind the megaphone."

Mr. Curran is probably the youngest director in motion pictures. After several years with Richard Ordynski, noted Broadway stage director, he came here six years ago for a ten weeks' engagement at a local theater. The cinema lured him. He is still here.

Though the Walker-Good Productions are to be marketed in this country through the medium of state rights purchasers, the Eddie Polo pictures will have the European release as their main goal. At present Eddie Polo is enjoying Continental popularity akin to that secured by Douglas Fairbanks in his first United States releases.

Mr. Walker, accompanied by his wife and Mr. Curran, is to sail for Europe early in July to arrange for the European release in the course of a two months' tour.

BUYS "WORM"

Despite his entry into the production field, Mr. Walker says he intends to continue as a motion-picture star. Yesterday he announced the purchase of "The Worm" from Charles Ray as his next release for the Robertson-Cole Corporation. The scenario does not fit in with the Ray production plans as it is after Charlie's early method, and not of the big feature type exemplified by "The Girl I Loved." The scenario's sale was negotiated solely on this basis, Mr. Ray has stated.

"With experience as a basis, I feel that young men have a wonderful future in motion-picture producing," Mr. Walker stated after announcing the formation of his company.

"Mr. Good has been successful in commercial and financial fields and though he retired from business four years ago, is not content to remain in retirement. He sees a future in motion pictures.

SUCCESS SEEN

"Mr. Curran has been associated with the stage and screen in a directorial capacity for more than twelve years, though he is still under 30. Coupled with his complete knowledge of the technical side of the industry he has the enthusiasm and energy that only youth can bestow.

"Before going into motion pictures I was on the stage and never intended to abandon the theater for the cinema until my work in 'Over the Hill' was recognized by critics and producers as showing my adaptability as a photoplayer.

"Since my entry into motion pictures I have directed as well as acted, and have made a careful study of the exhibiting field. Naturally I feel certain of success, as I know it can be attained by hard work and perseverance."

Johnnie Walker has an engaging personality. He looks the college man he is even if he does wear golf knickers to work. There is nothing "upstage" about him and his sincerity is not of the "yes man" or "handshaker" variety. He has the self-confidence that breeds success, and is universally popular in the film colony.

SOCIETY

Justice J. Walter Hanby and Mrs. Hanby announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Lucile, to Mr. W. M. Roche. The announcement was made Saturday afternoon at a tea at the home of Miss Hanby's parents, 812 North Normandie avenue. The decorations were in pink and white, and when the guests "drew" their slices of the cake they found the engagement cards concealed within.

Miss Hanby and Mr. Roche are both graduates of the University of California. Miss Hanby is a member of the Delta Phi Omega sorority and Mr. Roche is a Beta Phi Sigma. Beside the members of the family and the close relatives, the party included the Misses Ethelyne Ballyntyne, Marjorie Forbes, Mary Walker, Rosemary Roche and Margaret Roche. During the remainder of the afternoon the thirty-five guests enjoyed mah-jongg.

Engagement Announcement

The engagement has been announced of Miss Flora Trattner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Trattner, to Mr. Arnold Klein, a well-known business man of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Trattner received at their home, 5275 Sunset Blvd., yesterday afternoon and evening in honor of this happy event. The wedding date has been set for early in the fall.

English Visitors.

The Earl of Harrington of Brookley Park, Surrey, Eng., with Capt. Vernon-Harcourt, Grenadier Guards, are guests of Lady Anne Cavendish on Wilshire Boulevard. They will be leaving soon for India.

Just returned from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Grundy are preparing to establish their home in Los Angeles. Their last prenuptial entertainment was a tea at the Ambassador which Miss Virginia Dreiling gave for them.

Dancing Party.

Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Smith gave a dancing party Saturday evening at their home on Pennsylvania avenue, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Statham (Viola Weinman.) The guests included Messrs. and Mmes. Jesse Wright of Riverside, G. White of Lankershim, P. Blackburn, O. Blackburn, W. Culler, W. Bowers, E. W. Parsons, O. Blagg, E. Harris, R. O. Smith, Misses Ethel Davis, M. Opie of Salt Lake City, Phoebe Blockson, Ethel Jaeger, Messrs. M. Glascock, Paul Wetzel, E. Blackburn.

Home Again

Mrs. C. M. Malcolm has returned to her home at 4947 Marathon avenue, after a winter in the Philippines, visiting her son, George A. Malcolm, Justice of the Supreme Court in Manila. On her way home Mrs. Malcolm stopped in Japan and at Honolulu.

Gone to Honolulu

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Blasier, Sr., of St. Paul avenue, sailed Saturday for Honolulu to be gone indefinitely. Prior to Mrs. Blasier's departure, her sister, Mrs. John Babo, gave a luncheon in her honor at her home on South Westlake avenue.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Bannister announced the engagement of their daughter, Marion Adele, to Mr. Fred J. Loakes of Los Angeles. The announcement was made at an informal party at the home of the bride-elect's parents. The wedding will take place in June.

PRINCIPLES OF CORRECT DIET
MINERAL SALTS

You remember when we discussed the elements in the body I told you there were five of them to which we would have to give special thought. Those were nitrogen, calcium, phosphorous, iron and iodine. We have already discussed the nitrogen when we talked about protein.

Before we discuss calcium, the next element I told you I wanted you to remember, I will give you a few general facts about these elements. Now, while much of this series I am now writing for you on "Principles of Correct Diet" aims specifically to teach parents what they need to know about the diets of the children, don't forget it has been thoroughly proved that the principles of diet which are conducive to proper growth in children are also conductive to good health in adults. So this series is just as valuable to the health of my adult readers as to their children's.

When tissues are burned and analyzed in the laboratory, some of these elements are given off in the form of gas, as they are in the living body, and those that are not given off as gas are left in the form of ashes. These ashes we call mineral ash or mineral salt.

It is by the presence of some of these gaseous elements and those we call the mineral ash or salts that the chemical reactions of the body fluids and secretions are maintained, whether acid, alkaline or neutral (a secretion is something which the body secretes for its use. An excretion is something the body excretes or gets rid of, having no further use for it.) Some of these mineral salts are deposited in the different tissues as part of their structure. We will talk of that later.

You all know that alkalines are the opposite of acids. Sodium bicarbonate, or ordinary baking soda, is an example of an alkalie. Acids and alkalies when joined together neutralize each other and the result is called a salt. They do not always join in equal proportions, and if the alkalie elements are in the larger proportion, or are stronger, the salt is known as an alkaline salt. If the acid element is stronger, the salt is known as an acid salt. So we have three kinds of salts in chemistry. The neutral salt, the acid salt, and the alkaline or basic salt (alkalies are also known as bases.)

The normal reaction of the blood and the fluid which bathes all the cells of the body (the lymph) is slightly alkaline, and probably never becomes actually acid in life. However, when it becomes less alkaline than normal, then a condition known as acidosis results. Mineral salts must be taken, in the foods eaten, in such a proportion that the blood and tissue fluids are kept normally slightly alkaline. Otherwise there is trouble.

I am going to talk about acidosis again. Just now I have merely brought it up to show you one of the chief functions of the mineral salts.

CALCIUM

If you soak a long, slender bone in a solution of hydrocloric acid for two or three days, it will bend so easily that you can tie a knot in it. The reason this bone can be so easily bent is because the calcium salts have been dissolved out of the bone by the acid.

Now that is all right for a bone that we are using for demonstration purposes, but it certainly is not all right to let the bones of our children get soft enough to tie knots in. This couldn't happen, anyway, of course, but we don't want the children's bones to get even soft enough to bend.

How shall we prevent it? Mainly by supplying enough calcium (common name, lime) in their diets. So, mothers, you can see the importance of the knowledge of foods that will supply this important element, lime. There are other things that are necessary for the firmness of the bones, other minerals, vitamins, etc. We will speak of them later.

Calcium is not only necessary to give firmness and solidarity to the bones and teeth, but it is also extremely important to the blood and to the heart. For instance, if there is a deficiency of the calcium salts in the system, the blood will not coagulate quickly. There is a disease called hemophilia, an inherited disease, in which the patient bleeds way beyond normal whenever there is an injury. There is a lack of the power in the blood to coagulate quickly, and it is thought that lack of sufficient calcium salts may have something to do with it.
